

the means of obtaining for us. It is in his time that a multitude of processes, interrupted for half a century, and for which favorable opportunities had been wanting to his predecessor, have been carried to completion.

Such has been the lesson and example it has pleased Providence to put before us in the person of the Holy Father. As if to counterbalance such benefits, and remind the world of what it is, two great afflictions have befallen him and all his faithful children in the defections of Piedmont and the religious troubles in Spain.

SPITTING.—Will the time ever come when the spitting that disgusting reminder that people spit, will be removed from our parlors, steamers and cars? Those who chew tobacco should feel a delicacy in having any one of the lower voices made apparent by the use of la case de tabac; as few others rarely avail themselves of this convenience.

twons, and nature will do her work genially for man, she will beautifully him, whereas now she is obliged to be continually patching him up.—Mrs. E. Oakes Smith.

FASHIONABLE CHURCH IN NEW YORK.—You enter the church porch. The portly sexton with his thumbs in the arm-holes of his vest, meets you at the door.—He glances at you; your hat and coat are new, so he graciously escorts you to an eligible seat in the broad aisle.

WIDOW BEDOTT PAPERS.

Throughout the numerous pages are interspersed with the most original "poetry," extant. The Widow, in speaking of her late relict, Deacon Hezekiah Bedott, says:

"He never jawed in all his life. He never was unkind— And, tho' I say it, that was his wife.) Such men you seldom find.

I never changed my single lot, I thought 't would be a sin, For I thought so much 'o Deacon Bedott, I never got married agin.

And since it was my lot to be The wife of such a man, I tell the men that's after me, 'To ketch me if they can.

Whiskey and rum be tasted nec, He thought it was a sin; The inconsolable Widow 'o Deacon Bedott, Don't intend to get married agin."

Shortly after the inconsolable Widow falls in love with the preaching of Elder Sniffles, who is "laid up" with a cold, and receives the following epistle:

"Oh! Reverend Sir, I do declare, It drives me most to frenzy, To think 'o you alyin' there, Down sick with influenza.

A body 'd thought it was enough To mourn yer wife's departer, Without such trouble as this 'ere, To come a follerin' arter.

But sickness and affliction is trials sent By the will 'o a wise Creation, And always ought to be underwent, With fortytude and resignation.

Then mourn not for yer partner's death, But to submit endeavor, For 'speen she hadent a died so soon, She colident a hied forever.

Oh, I could to yer bedside fly, And wipe your weepin' eyes, And try my best to cure you up, If 'twouldent create surprize!

Both sick and well, you may depend, You'll never be forgot, By your faithful and affectionate friend, PRISCILLA POOLE BEDOTT."

The tender sentiment of this poem reached the Elder's heart, as 'acknowledged' in a feeling response. Shortly after the Widow retires to a grove, in the rear of Elder Sniffles' house, sits down on a log, and sings as follows:

"Ere love had teach'd my tears to flow I was uncommon cheerful, But now such misery I do know, I'm always sad and fearful!

What peaceful hours I once enjoyed, All on a summer day! But O, my comforts were destroyed, When Shadrack crossed my way!

I heard him preach—I heard him pray— I heard him sweetly sing, Dear Suz! how I did feel that day! It was a 'dretful thing!

Full forty dollars would I give If we'd continuerd apart— For though he's made my spirit live, He's surely bust my heart."

The Elder overhears the Song, but does not yield until he hears the following:

"Here sleeps Priscilla P Bedott, Late relict of Hezekiah— How melancholy was her lot— How soon she did expire! She didn't commit self suicide, 'Twas tribulation killed her, O! what a pity she hadn't a died afore she saw the Elder!

After the Widow's marriage to Elder Shadrack Sniffles she contributes the following to "The Scramble Hill Luminary."

"Priscilla the fair, and Shadrack the wise, Have united their fortunes in the tenderest of ties; And being mutually joined in the matrimonial connection, Have bid adoo to their previous affliction. No more will they mourn their widdered sattuawion, And continuer to sythe without mitigation; But partners of life, to be parted no more. Their sorrows is ended, their troubles is o'er. O Shadrack! my Shadrack! Priscilla did speak, While the rosy red blushes surmilted her cheek, And the tears of affliction bedozoled her eye, O Shadrack! my Shadrack! I'm yourn till I die; The heart that was scornful and cold as a stun, Has surrendered at last to the forntin one; Farewell to the miseries and griefs I have had, 'T'll never desert thee; O Shadrack! my shad!"

The future fortunes of the Elder and Mrs. Sniffles, and her sisters, Aunt Maguire, are they not recorded in the book, with pictures to match?

It is not alone in New York that things happen not altogether creditable to the existing state of society. Even Boston affords her share of such incidents. We have had our Poole affray, and in Boston another homicide has happened under circumstances scarcely more creditable to the reputation of that Puritan city.

SISTERS OF CHARITY.—I had some talk with an old woman in the market-place; she told me a sad story of misery and destitution. Her daughter Jay at home in a bad fever. "Why," said I, "do you not have her conveyed to the hospital?" But I found I had made a great mistake.

VELOCITY OF SOUND.—Different sounds travel with different velocities. A call to dinner will run over a ten acre field in a minute and a half, while a summons to work will take from five to ten minutes.

FACTS, WITHOUT COMMENT. THE PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW THEM.

New York, October 10, 1852. Mrs. Hardey, No. 119 Suffolk street, writes us that she has been troubled with worms for some three years, and that she used one vial of DR. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, which brought away over FIFTY LARGE WORMS.

Mrs. Quigby, No. 182 Essex street, New York, under date of November 23, 1852, writes us that she had a child which had been unwell for better than two months. She procured a bottle of M'LANE'S Vermifuge, and administered it. The child passed a large quantity of worms, and in a few days was as hearty as ever it had been.

P. S. This valuable preparation, also Dr. M'LANE'S Celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable Drug Stores in this city.

Purchasers will please be careful to ask for, and take none but DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE. All others, in comparison, are worthless. LYMAN, SAVAGE & Co., St. Paul Street, Wholesale Agents for Montreal.
