

April 13, 1933.

Dr. M. M. Marven,
Royal Bank of Canada,
Head Office,
Montreal.

Dear Dr. Marven,

I am enclosing 25 tickets for the Salter Lecture. I am very sorry indeed that we cannot give you any more. The facts are these:-

You asked for 40. These I sent. I sent 40 at the same time to the Bank of Montreal. They also phone this morning that they have a tremendous demand. We cannot give out more tickets than there are seats, or we should incur the wrath of the public.

We have made arrangements for an overflow meeting in the York Room of the Windsor Hotel. All those unable to be accommodated in the main Hall may hear Sir Arthur Salter over the microphone in the York Room. We are not issuing tickets for this, as we feel there will be plenty of space for all who come. Announcement to this effect will be made in the press.

(over)