

asserted that he was kept busy attending to the French population who continued to flock to her tomb to fulfil vows made in time of sickness. In 1755, when the Indian mission of St. Francis Regis

PILGRIM ROUTES FROM MONTREAL TO KATERI'S SHRINE

was founded, a portion of her relics was transferred thither so that her constant presence might be a spur to the fervor of her tribe, and that supplication to her might be kept up uninterruptedly by them.

The wars waged between the French and the English in the middle of the eighteenth century and the political changes which followed gave the people of Canada other things to think about, and might have