The DeLéry Company's Property consists of the Mining Rights of the Seigniorship of Rigaud-Vaudreuil, a tract nine miles by twelve, near Quebec, divided by the Chaudière River, and abounding in Quartz and Placer Mines of great richness.

The Company has already completed its first Stamp Mill, and will make favorable arrangements with Capitalists for working both classes of Mines on principles of mutual interest. As it costs but a trifle in time and money to visit these Mines, and as the trip in summer, mainly by water, is one of pleasure, parties interested in mining are advised to examine for themselves and decide on the safety and profits of investment.
