Public Utility League. Public Utility League.

The contest in the first series of the Public Utility League came to an end at the Toronto Bowling Club Saturday afternoon, when Hydro-Electric No. 2 were returned the winners thru Grand Trunk, who were the contenders, losing out to City Engineers in all three games. It was certainly a disappointing finish for the railroaders, who fully expected a clean up with the Engineers before the start of the game. The Trunk, however, claim they will make amends in the next series, which starts to-night, and give all-comers the fight of their lives in keeping them from winning out the final series. Stewart for City Engineers was high with 519, while Barlow was the best for the Trunk, with 509. The score:
