Ask You to Hear MISCHA ELMAN
One of the World's Greatest Artists

Elman's Matchless Qualities

The "Elman tone" is distinct and individual. There is none like it in the world. It is human in its inflections and colors; it throbs with red blood, it caresses with silky softness, it thrills with hot passion, it soars and sings and whistles. His technical skill is the envy of all violinists. His insight is of the keenest, and no artist ever combined such life, vitality and sheer beauty in his interpretations.

DR. SHEARD WOULD EXCLUDE CHINESE

Opposed to Importation of Asiatic Coolies to Replace British Labor.

The annual elections of the Ward Two Liberal-Conservative Association, held in Victoria Hall last night, were very quiet. Only one office, that of first vice-president, was contested, and all the other nominees went in by acclamation. Fred Hamby was elected president for the ensuing year.

Dr. Charles Sheard, M.P., who addressed the meeting, went on record as unambiguously opposed to the importation of Chinese labor into the country.

"The emergency is not pressing enough to make it necessary to open the door to Asiatic coolies," he said. "I am not going to sit down quietly and see the ranks of labor tied down by Japanese and Chinese."

The recent elections showed that the people in the main are tired of old-time party politics, added the member-elect.

Liberals charged the Conservatives with having brought politics into municipal affairs. "The result has been that the Conservatives have always gotten the worst of it at the city hall," said the alderman. That was the only reason why he had contested an office.

Ald. Beamish charged the Liberals with having brought politics into municipal affairs. "The result has been that the Conservatives have always gotten the worst of it at the city hall," said the alderman. That was the only reason why he had contested an office.

EVIDENCE DIFFERS AT STONE INQUEST

Girl's Ante-Mortem Statement Points to Use of Instrument. DOCTOR MAKES DENIAL

Detective Found Prescription, But Druggist Had No Record of It.

The third sitting of the jury inquiring into the death of Marion Stone, who died recently in the General Hospital, as the result of an illegal operation, said to have been performed by Dr. R. McP. Turner, 361 Bloor street, took place at the morgue last night. Several witnesses giving evidence as to the condition of the girl during her illness.

Dr. MacIntyre, house surgeon of the General Hospital, stated that the girl was brought to the hospital in a toxic condition on Dec. 22, after the girl's admittance, he said, he inquired into the history of her illness and the girl had told him that Dr. Turner had used an instrument on her and that she had been given chloroform on Dec. 20.

Dr. MacIntyre, acting on instructions received from the police, told the girl her serious condition and that she had no chance of recovery. The doctor said that the girl seemed emotional, but was largely in possession of her faculties. Her condition was very weak," he added.

"Did she answer all questions put to her?" asked the crown.

"Not all," was the reply. "The doctor stated in answer to a query that he had questioned the girl for half an hour and that all the questions and answers had been taken down at the time by a crown attorney. The witness could not say whether or not the questions had been read over."

"Girl Was Confused."

"In my opinion the girl was confused as regards time, but in all other things she was clear, such as dates and days. She was rational up to the morning of her death."

Thomas Phelan, who is appearing for Jolliffe, who is under arrest in connection with the case, asked a temperature of 104 would be abnormal mentally. The doctor replying, said that the girl was depressed, but that he would not say the girl was irrational.

During the ante-mortem statement the girl pointed to Detective Crowe, who reached the office of the witness box, and then on December 22, 1917, he said that he had seen the girl on his file. Sgt. McKinney of the morality department, saw the girl at the hospital, and when they asked her who was responsible for her death, she said that Norman Jolliffe was, and that he had sent her to Dr. Turner for medical attention. She further stated that Turner gave her a prescription and told her to have an operation. She stated that she had been pregnant three months at that time. Dr. Turner advised her to go to a hospital.

Said Jolliffe he did not operate on the girl. "She worked on my sympathy," he stated.

Detective Crowe found a prescription at the house the girl was staying at and presented it at the drug store. The drugist was unable to find the prescription in his files. He stated that he must have lost it. He will be called to give evidence at the next sitting of the jury.

Arthur de J. Jones, coroner, chief coroner, reported on the girl's condition. He stated that he did not think an instrument had been used. In order that the witnesses could be called the inquest was adjourned until next Wednesday evening.

WAGE CRUSADE UPON HOARDERS

Coalless Householders in Hamilton Urge Drastic Measures to Get Fuel.

Hamilton, Jan. 14.—Threats that unless immediate relief is forthcoming there will be an outbreak of coal thieves, are daily reaching the office of the city clerk. Nobody knows where the fuel is coming from. And he is sticking them on his file wondering where the relief is coming from. Some of the householders whose "cellar bins" are barren, assert that those in "need" should organize and wage a crusade against those who are hoarding. The statement that one efficient citizen, now spending the winter in Florida, has thirty tons of coal in his cellar, is being hourly recalled to the mayor, and he is asked what he intends doing about it.

WAR SUMMARY

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

Owing to the collapse of Russia, Germany will gain 1,400,000 extra troops for service against Britain, France, Italy and the United States, and to meet all emergencies until the United States develops her full powers in the field. Britain will need 420,000 to 450,000 more conscripts this year. These facts came out in the speech of Sir Auckland Geddes, British Director of Recruiting, in the house of commons yesterday. The enemy will gain from the east 350,000 German troops and 650,000 Austrian troops. These figures are much larger than those allowed by previous unofficial estimates. These had placed the maximum enemy strength available from the east at fifty divisions. They had left Austria out of their calculations, after the fashion of certain politicians who speak of Austria almost as if Britain were at peace with her, and she were a negligible factor.

Sir Auckland Geddes made it clear that, although the enemy would receive this large reinforcement, if the worst does come, the allies need stand in no fear of him, for they have resources in men and materials sufficient to win the victory. Excluding Russia from the calculations, the allies have a substantial superiority in fighting and ration strength over the central powers. Britain will form the chief bulwark of allied defence until the strength of the United States approaches its maximum in the firing line. Enough men are available in England and Scotland to supply this year's recruits for the central powers, and the raising of the age limit. The war office will choose the younger men from the least absolutely essential industries, and fill their places with older men and women. Ireland will escape conscription at least for another year.

The chief effect of the Russian collapse on the strategy of the war is to change it from a duel, instead of a struggle, into a contest of attrition. The allies will have to throw their full weight against France. The French army, assisted by a small British army, broke the German onset. France has now not only her own splendid army, but a powerful British army to assist the coming German onset. Britain and her dominions have contributed 7,500,000 men to the war; Britain alone 4,500,000. With the strong British armies in the field the British and French war are outnumbering the Germans by about ten to six or seven at the beginning of the war.

The peace negotiations between the Russians and the Germans at Brest-Litovsk have again resulted in a deadlock, and the conference has adjourned without the fixing of a date for its re-assembling. The Bolshevik delegates presented written demands. They sought the evacuation of occupied territory, and the Germans as determinedly refused their concession. The Germans also protested against the presentation of fixed terms in writing. The Cologne Gazette has announced that the German government is planning to discredit the peace negotiations by refusing to come to terms and the Bolsheviks are holding conferences with the political leaders in Berlin and German socialist believe that their country will come under a military dictatorship. Von Hertling, used by the German militarists to weaken the Russian will probably have to resign. Having performed his service of inducing a Russian armistice and peace conference,

When German aircraft bombard British cities they fly at darkest midnight when the moon is changing, but when the British bombard German cities in reprisal they fly by broad daylight, as they did over Karlsruhe yesterday. The raid carried out under conditions enabling accurate bombing, and the resulting destruction of a ton and a quarter of explosives and the causing of bursts on buildings and sidings of the main railway junction in the centre of the town. The returning aviators report that their mission secured a large fire in the factories alongside of the railway, and other firms who remained to take photographs brought back snapshots of the conflagration. The German aerial defence received the visitors with a heavy fire, but the barrage did not prevent them from achieving their aims.

APPEALS TO CITIZENS

Woodstock Mayor Asks Those With Plenty of Coal to Hand It Over.

Special to The Toronto World.
Woodstock, Jan. 14.—The coal situation here tonight is the worst yet experienced. The outlook is so bad that Mayor West, following a meeting of the city council, has appealed to the citizens who have more coal than they really require to hand it over to the council for distribution among the needy.
