Le Cateau Railway Junction, East of Cambrai, Is Captured by Marshal Haig's Forces - British Made an Advance of Over Ten Miles in One Day - Many Civilians Liberated in Captured Towns.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 .- The victory of the Anglo-American forces north of St. Quentin may be paving the way for early invasion of Germany itself, striking hints of a wholly new enterprise, directed at the upper Rhine valley, having come from unofficial quarters in France and they follow repeated reports from Switzerland that the civil population of the Rhine valley towns were being removed by the German authorities.

Some officers here regard these reports as highly significant. They give them particular weight because it now appears certain that the enemy will be forced far back all along the front in Northern France and Belgium within the next few days. While the constant hammering is kept up in the north to pin down the German armies there it might be possible, it was said, to deliver a new stroke on the Alsace-Lorraine front that might swiftly develop into an invasion of Germany itself by way of the Rhine

The wholly unexpected extent of the German collapse between St. Quentin and Cambrai, however, may upset any plans for a drive to the Rhine Marshal Foch may have planned. As the enemy stands today with a great gap torn in the centre of the lines that were already struggling to extricate themselves and get back to a shorter front, there is even the possibility of a crushing

"Suicide by Inches"

THOUSANDS of people commit suicide ■ by inches!

If one should take minute daily doses of some irritant or poisonous drug, no particular effect might be noticed until accumulation of the poison made its action evident.

Yet how many realize that irritant and poisonous substances are formed constantly, even in health, during food digestion and the preparation of its waste for elimination?

But if constipation exists, there results stagnation of intestinal waste, increased production of poisonous substances, and their absorption into the blood, which carries them all over the body.

The result is disease or disorder, which, if neglected or allowed to continue, cripples or kills. The victim of such self-poison commits suicide by inches.

Constipation is a bad habit. It is sin against the body. But there is an even worse habit, crime against Nature, the taking of pills, castor oil, laxative mineral waters, and salts to "force the bowels

If the bowels act regularly and thoroughly, such dangerous matter is safely gotten rid of.
