WOUNDS IN HEAD (Canadian Press) wounds in his head, one in his hand, two of the bullets having passed through his skull, Alfred Coulombe dashed down Loich

Vallancourt, a school master with a smoking revolver in his hand.

Coulombe, who is still living, says he accepted Vallancourt's invitation to go to his house and have a drink. They had several drinks and Vallancourt asked his guest to remain for the night. This Coulombe refused to do, whereupon his host after hurriedly locking all the doors, drew his revolver and began to fire.

Coulombe smashed a window and made his escape. Vallancourt is under arest. He declares the only cause of the quarrel was a question of money.

CIRCUIT COURT

The circuit court will open here tomorrow with Judge Barry presiding. Among the cases are those of Mary Davidson, George Hector and Charles Fleury. The Davidson girl was on Saturday committed for trial. Hector is the colored lad who assaulted Mrs. Mary Ann Davidson at Loch Lomond several months ago. Fleury is a Frenchman who was arrested on June 12 by Detective Killen on suspicion of having stolen a coat and vest, the property of Richard Whelley, from the Carleton House, west St. John.
