Sir, —Permit me to give a few remarks with reference to the Dominion Election held on 20th June inst., at North District.
No. 11, Inkerman. The Dominion Election Law provides for a separate screen room, for the voter only while marking his ballot, and that no person shall be presente there would be a source of irritation to the other Powers; and secondly, because as long as she is supreme at sa Egypt and the Canal can be hers any day when she chooses to seize them.

It seems extremely improbable that the Egyptian trouble can be arranged without armed intervention, The best that can be expected is that the power of Arabi will collapse at the firing of the first gun, and the support of the service of qualified. nent's Supervisor of Roads and other persons allowed to remain during elecion hours in the screen room while voters were marking their ballots? If Eugland and France were still in accord on the Egyptian question, there is no doubt that the European Conference would authorize them to act jointly. The diplomats would feel quite sure that neither of the two nations would permit the other to gain any advantage, and would chuckle gleefully at having thus efficiently sown the seeds of a quarrel between the two mandatories.
