THE ALAKE WOULD'NT EAT. Alake of Abekuta was visiting on at last mail advices from the country, and having some trouble with the students. The London account says: Alake drove to Marischal College where the students were very strident. When the Alake took at in the carriage to drive away them jumped on the back of the and placed his straw hat on the seat of the carriage. The Alake refused to get out, and although it was explained to him that it was a mark of honor, he did not appear to be convinced, and at the request of the Lord Provost, whether driven to luncheon, he declined any food. In the afternoon a trip in a trolley, and de-

OLD BANDIT DIES GAME.

Tragic End of Famous Western "Bad Man." Kid Cuddy, Rival of Wild Bill and Jesse James Passes in His Checks.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Kid Cuddy, one of the last of the Western "bad men" is dead. For cool, unflinching outlaws he takes his place with "Wild Bill," "Apache Kid," the Youngers and the James boys. True to tradition he died fighting and wounded. Cornered by a posse, he said calmly to the companion who sought to restrain him: "I'm all in," and turning his pistol to his head sent a bullet through his brain. "Kid" Cuddy and two companions, all made hold up a Denver and Rio Grande train at Parachute, Colo. They dynamited the express car and safe, but got no booty and escaped on horseback. The posse that pursued them came upon the robbers in a gulch near Rifle and both sides opened fire. One of the outlaws was wounded. "Are you hurt bad," a companion asked him. "I'm all in," came the reply, and the wounded outlaw, rather than be captured, turned his weapon on himself. His real name was Harry Logan, and he began his career as an outlaw one Christmas Day, 1884, he murdered Pike Landusky at Landusky Mont. He and a brother held up a train near their home in Dodson, Mo., in 1900, and the fight that followed with a posse "Lenny" Logan, his brother, was the last of his. Kid, with Tom O'Day and Kid Long-bough were arrested for robbing the Butte county bank at Heliopolis, Mo., August 23, 1900, and less than a year later held up the Great Northern train near Yagumont, obtaining $45,000 in bank notes. Curry commanded one of the bands that made the "Hole in the Wall," their home, and more desperate criminals have never gathered together than those men that from the Wyoming fastnesses defied arrest.

PALMA TROPHY RETURNED.

But English Rifle Association Declares It Never Said the Yankees Won It Unfairly.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The Palma International trophy has been received by the British National Rifle Association from the National Rifle Association of the United States, and is now in the custody of Officials of the English Association at Bisley Camp, says a London despatch to the World. The council of that association is expected Tuesday to decide how it shall ultimately be disposed of. It is learned that the reply which it has been decided to send to the United States Association has been drafted and will be submitted for approval Tuesday. It points out that the English Association never asked for the return of the trophy and raised no objection to its being kept by the United States. It does not dispute that the American team won the match as no protest was made at the time and pointed out that the allegation that the rifle used was not the government pattern, was first made in an American newspaper, not in England. But the United States Association insists on returning the trophy to the English Association. It is willing to accept the custody of it, not because of anything that happened in connection with last year's match, but because the trophy was shot in Canada in 1903, the English Association will retain the trophy until challenged by another nationality to a new contest. The decision thus outlined is subject to ratification by representatives of both nations on Tuesday. The English Association notes that the United States Association has come from the trophy the day which named the United States team as winners last year.

S. S. VANCOUVER SAVED.

(Special to the Star.) MONTREAL, Que., July 11.—Dominion liner Vancouver in port practically undamaged. The Vancouver grounded in Lake St. Peter near Sorel Saturday, July 10. Tugs failed to release her. A dredge was working at her stern, which was imbedded in seven feet of mud on Saturday afternoon, when the S. S. Bavarian, outward bound, ran close to the Vancouver and the heavy wash from her enabled the tugs to release her. She reached here Sunday morning.

NEW YORK BISHOP DYING.

NORTHAMPTON, July 11.—Bishop Frederick Huntington, of the Episcopal diocese of Central New York, who is critically ill at his summer home in Hadley, was falling rapidly today. The physicians in attendance offer no hope that the bishop, who is suffering from congestive chills with complications, will recover.

THREE DAYS BATTLE ENDS IN JAP VICTORY.

Kai Chau Captured After Desperate Resistance—Russians Driven Slowly Back With Great Loss.

TOKYO, July 11, 12 noon.—After three days severe fighting characterized by the desperate attacks of the Japanese and the stubborn resistance of the Russians, General Oku's army occupied Kai Chau (Kai Chou) last Friday driving the Russians northward in the direction of Hal Cheng. The Russians had strong fortifications in the hills situated in a semi-circle south of Kai Ping. Their forces consisted of over thirty thousand men. In the report of the engagement General Oku does not give any details, but shows the difficulties of the struggle. The operations began last Wednesday by the Japanese driving 1600 Russians from the heights south of Kai Ping, constituting the first line of defense. The Japanese occupied the positions and the Russians retreated northward. On the same day the right wing of the Japanese army southeast of Kai Ping defeated a small force of Russians and the left wing occupied the heights to the southeast. On Thursday the entire Japanese army forced its way close to Kai Ping overcoming the stubborn resistance of the Russian infantry, cavalry and artillery located in the narrow defile. The Russians held many strategic positions in the mountainous country, but despite their desperate resistance they were forced to abandon them one by one. During the night the Russians were greatly enforced by the troops brought from the north by train in preparation for a big battle Friday. The Japanese began the last day's fighting at daylight with an artillery fire from guns placed on the heights previously captured by the Russians. At eight o'clock in the morning they drove the Russians from their positions and forced them into their last line of defenses around the town. The Russians, who had been in the town since the morning, were finally driven out. The Japanese captured eight guns during the fighting around Fort Arthur. The losses and the number of troops engaged have not been reported. Further details are awaited.

JAPS CAPTURE EIGHT GUNS.

LONDON, July 11.—Special despatches to the Daily Telegraph from the Daily Mail from Tokyo assert that the Japanese captured eight guns during the fighting around Fort Arthur and that they retreated from a balloon.

NORTH END SHOCKED.

Capt. George W. Peck, With Wife and Daughter Drowned off the Florida Coast.

BOY DROWNED AT LONG WHARF.

Sad Death of W. H. Perkins' Young Son. Body Found in Mud When Tide Went Out—Cause of Accident a Mystery.

George Elsett, the nine-year-old step-son of W. H. Perkins, of Long Wharf, was drowned this morning in the rear of his home. The body of the unfortunate boy was found about eleven o'clock, after the tide had gone out, lying in the mud.

No one appears to have noticed the accident, and, in fact, the first discovery of the drowning was the discovery of the body. The tide rises in the rear of the Perkins' home and the theory is that the boy must have lost his balance and fallen into the water. The drowning is supposed to have occurred about nine o'clock this morning. No cries from the drowning boy were heard. The body was first seen by some of the boys' playmates, who gave the alarm. Dr. Thomas Morris was on the scene. Coroner Roberts could not be had at the time and so Coroner Berryman was sent for. Coroner Berryman has decided that an inquest is unnecessary.

DISCHARGED CLERK'S VENGEANCE.

Tried to Kill Whole Family Because He Lost Job Worth $2.50 Per Week.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Because he was discharged from a position that netted him $2.50 per week, August Geber, alias Schell, has tried to exterminate the family of his employer, Geo. Hartmann, Sr., a painter. Geber was discharged for insulting Charles Hartman, a son of the employer. Geber, who lived with the family, went upstairs and returning with a revolver, fired at Hartman, Sr. The old man dodged the door, one bullet entering the door in Geber's face. Geber fired twice through the door, one bullet entering the French parlor, it is understood that the contractors will send coal from these ports to meet the fuel beyond the water.
