The fact that Isaac Newton Hayden formerly of P. E. Island, died intestate in Honolulu, leaving a million and a half of dollars, has caused some excitement here. He was the son of Wm. William Hayden was a son of William Hayden of Pinette, who married in 1813. Mary Irving of Cherry Valley. They had three children, George, who died in Miramichi, N. Charlottetown and several parts of the country are now agitating for a bridge across hte North River some two miles lower down than the present one. The proposed bridge would be with approaches about a mile in length, and would cost, it is estimated, in the vicinity of $80,000. It would be built from the foot of Brighton road leading from Charlottetown and the western terminus would be at "Dockendoff's shore."

A REAL KNOCKOUT BLOW.

"The only real knockout blow that l ever saw delivered," said a govern ment officer, "was on a passenger train travelling through the mounyears ago. You know, those Kentucky mountain people are hard propositions when they get filled with their favorite product, and they are naturally disposed to make trouble at any old time. I was on the train one morning when a strapping Hoosier came in. He was loaded down to the gunnels and was flourishing a bowie knife and threatening to kill every man on board. Nobody seemed willing to stop him, and he went through the car cursing and swearing and with his knife always raised. There was an innocent looking little fat fellow buried behind a newspaper. He was pretending to read, but he was shak-ing with terror. The tough sport saw tim. 'Don't you try to read while I am talking!' he shouted, and with that he mipped the newspaper into shreds with his bowie knife. The little man tossed off a couple of fits, and then the fighter went for another vic-

"A wiry little chap was standing in the front door, and the mountaineer made a break for him. Just as he raised his knife in his drunken effort to rip out the poor man's heart the latter had the presence of mind to protect himself. "Look behind you there, quick!" shouted the little chap, and quick as a flash the mountainee turned, thinking to see an enemy. As he turned, the wiry chap pasted that tough right on the point of the jaw. He hit with his fist, but the blow was true, and the big fellow went to the bottom of the car in a heap. The blow upset him. He quivered and squirm ed like a dying hog, and the knife fell from his twitching fingers. He was not able to rise. "Just about this time the short, fat sport whose paper he had ripped to pieces came flying to the scene. Without a word he jumped on the mountaineer and pounded him in the face with his shoes. He kicked and cuffed him until the blood spouted. He was the bravest man I ever saw, although a moment before he was scared t death. Finally we had to pull him off, and when the tough regained con-sciousness he sneaked to another can without stopping to get his knife.

"We passed a station about this time, and when the train started again two big, rough looking people dashed into the car with the same bloody bowie knives. 'Who hit my brother' Who hit my / brother ?' 'The man who hit your brother got off at that station,' said the little chap who had landed the knockout blow, and after a lot of cursing the two toughs went from the car. They joined the de feated tough, but that individual was so well licked that he kept his mouth shut and never sent his brothers back to start more trouble. was a thrilling moment on the train, and every passenger went up and shook hands with the wiry chap, although we did not give many glad hands to the little fat fellow who got brave only when the mountainee was at the bottom of the car."-Char-

THE DIALECT FISHERMAN.

Dan Davies of the Acme White Lead Works, claims to hold the record for catching the largest small mouth black bass ever caught. The accident is said to have happened on July 28, 1898, on the famous Lake St. Clair fishing grounds:
A fisherman on Lak San Claire, 'Bout six mile off from shore.
Fished hard for one, two, three four hour; By an' bye he fished some more.

Some time he fish with old dry bait,

Some time he fish with wet— He gave the dry bait to the fish, The wet bait—nit! you bet. Long time some fish did never come, Then, one, two, three passed by; They smell of that old dead, dry bait And wink the other eye.

By an' by one great big bass come lon 'Bout five, six, seven pound weight, So old he neither smell nor see, And ate that old, dry bait.

The fisher man stood very still
And reeld out yards of line—
He worked that poor old blind black bass
So very, very fine. By an' by the fish began to pull, By an' by he pull some more, And then was fun in Lak San Claire, 'Bout six mile off from shore,

The fish he plunge like one mad horse, And then he pulled like ten— He towed that boat nine miles an hour— Big boat and four big men.

He pulled like bass 'bout six feet long, May be he be 'bout seven, May be, if not pulled out right quick, He'll grow to be 'bout' leven.

By an' by they pull that bass half out, By an' by they pull hom more, And Lake San Claire fell four, five feet, 'Bout six mile off from shore.

The Lime Kiln Crossing got so low The boats they could not pass; And Dan he say the river fell When he pulled out that bass.

CARLETON CO. MAN

Tells of His Journey to Nevada—Does Not Think Much of the Rockies. (Special Cor. of the Sun.)

NEVADA, Feb. 8.-I promised my friends on leaving home I would write them a short account of my trip west, and I take the present opportunity of doing so.

I left Florenceville station Jan. 16th at 3.30 p. m., arriving at Woodstock about dark, and thence to McAdam, where we changed cars for Montreal. We arrived at Montreas three hours too late for the western bound express. The cause of delay was heavy snow storms and bad roads. While waiting for the next train, which would be due at 10.30 p. m., I met an old friend, Thos. Bohan of Bath, Carleton Co., who was coming home from the south, where he had spent a year or more on account of failing health. I have learned ince he died shortly after his arrival

I took the train that night, arriving at Toronto the next morning. From there I came through to Woodstock, Ont., and on to Detroit, leaving De troit at 4.30 p. m. for Chicago, where we arrived at nine o'clock at night. We had to take a transfer across the city to the western depot. Arriving on the nick of time I had just one minute to show my ticket and board the train. Chicago is a beautiful city, in fact it is the city of the west. I left Chicago at 9.40 p. m. Friday night, arriving at Council Bluff and . Omaha at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. From there we crossed over the Rockies, where there is nothing of importance to see but red sand and rocks. The highest point we reached crossing the Rockies was eleven thousand feet above the sea level. Having crossed the mountains we sped along through sage brush and sand until I arrived at Halleck station, the end of my jour-

When I got off the cars at Halleck station, to my great joy and delight I found I was not a stranger in a strange land, as I met with good kind friends who took me to their home and treated me like one of themselves. I am here in Nevada. I am in the employ of my uncle, Hamilton McCain, with good wages and plenty to eat. I will remain here for a while if nothing prevents. I find my uncle provided with everything that tends to make ne happy in this life. He is the owner of several thousand acres of fine grazing land. I was in one field containing 800 acres as level as the floor, without a break, and a good substan tial fence around it. At the present time he has 800 head of cattle, 60 head of horses and a drove of swine. Later on you may hear from me again.

Respectfully yours. SCOTT McCAIN.

GEN. POLE-CAREW MARRIED.

LONDON, Feb. 19.-The marriage of Brig. Gen. Pole-Carew to Lady Beatrice Butler, eldest daughter of the Marquis of Ormonde, at the Guards' Wellington barracks, this afternoon attracted an aristocratic assemblage, including many officers in uniform. The newly married couple received over 600 presents, King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York and the Duke and Duchess of Connaught being among the royal donors.

CHATHAM.

Revival of An Almost Lost Art on the Miramichi.

Lots of Applications to Join Baden-Powell's Constabulary - What the Returned South Africa Heroes Are CHATHAM, Feb. 19.-The snow period has at last been succeeded by fine, mild weather, and the conditions today remind one of April rather than February. Although snow storms have been frequent they have been as a rule moderate, and traffic has not been interfered with to any extent. Pulp wood has been hauled all win-ter from the surrounding districts, the price being slightly in advance of last

George Henderson has a small steamer in frame on Ritchie's wharf. The model is said by experts to be fine one. The substantial character of the material is apparent to the most casual observer, while the well known ability and thoroughness of Mr. Henderson is a guarantee that the craft will be first class in every respect. She is being built to the order of E. Sinclair of Bridgetown.

Nearby, on the government property, a large scow has just been "laid down" by Michael Keoghan, which is intended for use in lightering deals and similar work. Some other small craft are under process of construction at other points, and as a consequent result Charles Bernard's crew is busy at work in the manufacture of treenails. Mr. Bernard has a party in the woods getting out dry juniper butts, which is the best and only available material for the purpose. The manufacture of treenails (trunnels) had nearly become lost art on the Miramichi.

Grippe has not yet lost its grip in this section. Among the sick are Man-Winslow of the Bank of Montreal, his family and some of the staff. Alderman Burr is also laid aside, having been confined to his house for two weeks. Alex. Brown and Mr. Ullock have likewise had the fashionable epi

Applications and offers for service in Baden-Powell's constabulary are being made in large numbers. Surgean Major Baxter has already examined nearly twenty-five young men who live in this vicinity, and a number thers have signified their desire to take a hand in keping the Boers in order. Most of the returned South African heroes have resumed their usual avocations. Stanley Morrison is again "in the cage" at the Bank of Nova Scotia, and is as expert in issuing coin and bills as he was in pouring metal of a different quality into the Boer rebels in the Transvaal. "Bob" Ward is again occupying his accustomed place in Miller's foundry, while Andrew Doyle has enlisted in the ranks of the benedicts and is driving stage to Newcastle.

McCulley is still in hospital at Halifax, and is making slow progress to-wards recovery. He has had a very severe illness, but is now reported to be beyond danger and is expected home in the course of a week or ten days. Private McMillan has had charge of the tonsorial parlor of Mr. Murphy while the proprietor was making a visit to Sussex. Northumberland agricultural society had its annual meeting last week, the officers were appointed and a large mount of business was transacted. George E. Fisher succeeded D. G. Smith as secretary-treasurer. The erection of suitable buildings for exhibition purposes was discussed and other kindred matters received atten-

As Lent is at hand the usual marriage harvest has materialized. Prominent among these is that of a young widow of Duke street and a young farmer butcher of Bartibog. A cas "forbidding the banns" is reported, the parties being a bachelor of the north side and the lady a resident of Bartibog.

PEOPLE DESTINED FOR LONG L.TE.

Some people are partically and mentally capacitated for long life. They are those who seldom worry, who strive to whistle off troubles that would harass and depress other people; who are not mean or avaricious, al ways endeavoring to swell their savings, and sometimes losing sleep in their efforts to devise schemes to advance their selfish interests. Extrem ly selfish people are rarely cheerful, and are diseased in mind, and soon their bodies also become diseased, requiring mendicaments to tone up their un-down systems. On the other hand, there are some persons of such noble and generous character that their nobility is reflected in their general countenances. The world seems good to them, and they fully enjoy exstence. The ordinary ills of life have very little effect upon them, and for years they appear to be either exempt from illness or survive it, as if it were but an emotion. Doctors when called in to such genial persons, are always hopeful, assure the friends that there will be a rally soon, and would like to administer as little medicine as possible. They know that genial and cheerful patients possess remarkable recuperative power. Then there are individuals in whom the life lies low, about whose 'attacks,' however slight they may appear, the doctors always ominously shake their heads. Some thing is wanting in them which furhishes the cheerful patient with staying power; but what is that some thing? We say it is a good constitution, but that is not answering the question. What is it that makes good constitution? In our opinion it is an abundance of energy. The person whose body is abundantly supplied with this is the one, other things being equal, who will live longest. Energy and vitality are the products of good digestion and asismilation, and economy in their use. Such persons are millionaires in the possession of the life-sustaining principle, and if ordinarily careful of their health are likely to live to an old age.-New York
