

SERBIA NOT BROKEN; BRAVE AND CONFIDENT

FINAL SCENE OF WAR TO BE STAGED IN SERBIA WHEN ALLIES AND SERBS JOIN FORCES

Serbian People Undaunted, Morale of Army Undisturbed and Junction of Teutons and Bulgars Only Partly Effected, and of No Advantage—Tide Sure to Turn When Allies Arrive, Premier Says.

Paris, Nov. 8.—In a statement yesterday to a correspondent of the Temps at the small Serbian town of Raichka in which the Serbian government is lodged temporarily, Premier Pachitch said:

"The hopes and moral forces of the entire Serbian people and army remain undisturbed, notwithstanding the present aspect as a result of the Austro-German and Bulgarian invasions. Our troops, fighting against forces greatly superior in numbers, are retreating in perfect order."

"Although they have been fighting for a month, our enemies have not attained the purpose they are seeking. German success has not yet been marked. The junction with the Bulgarians is not really effective, and the contact established has no practical utility, since the Germans thus far can send neither cannon nor munitions to the Bulgarians or the Turks. This is why they are making such desperate efforts at this time to capture all of the railroads from Belgrade to Nish and Sofia."

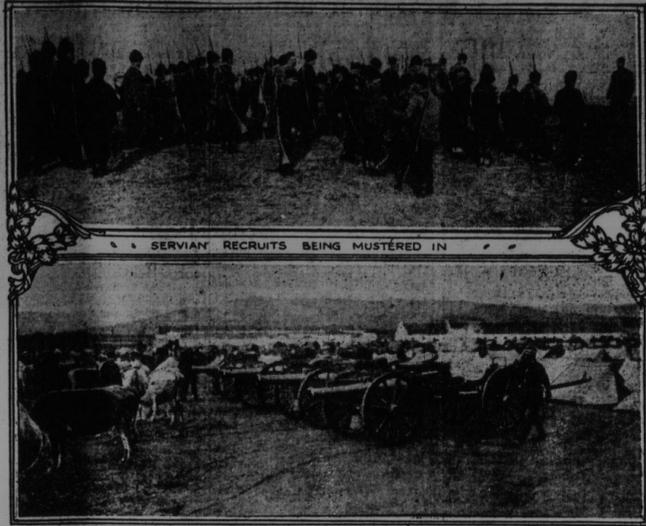

"Army headquarters, the government, and the people are persuaded that as soon as allied troops arrive in sufficient numbers, and begin action, success will be rapid and constant. Moreover, we are convinced that this success will mark the beginning of the end of the general war."

ROUMANIA NEEDS NEW ROUTE TO GET ENGLISH GOODS

Railway through Saloniki and Nish held by Germans—Ship through Scandinavia and Russia is plan.

London, Nov. 8.—In a despatch from Copenhagen, the Exchange Telegraph Company says the Roumanian government has sent a railway commission to Petrograd to discuss the possibility of opening a new route for transportation of supplies from England to Roumania. It is proposed to ship goods by way of Scandinavian and Russia, inasmuch as the usual route through Saloniki and Nish is now unavailable on account of the capture of the railway by the Germans.

SCENES BEHIND THE SERBIAN LINES FACING THE GERMANS

When the Austro-Germans and the Bulgarians began their combined attack on the Serbians there were many subjects of King Peter who took up arms to fight for their little kingdom. In one of the above pictures some of the new recruits are being prepared for the duty they will perform for their country. In the other a battery is seen behind the lines facing the Germans.

Many Women Suffer FROM EXCORIATING PAINS IN THE BACK.

Do you ever feel that you must have some rest for that lame and aching back? Do you ever feel that those shooting, stabbing, darting pains must be gotten rid of before you can get into condition, whereby you can attend to your household duties without a pain or an ache? When the back begins to ache it is a sure sign that there is something radically wrong with the kidneys.

What you want is a kidney medicine, and a medicine for the kidneys only. Doan's Kidney Pills know nothing but kidney disorders, because they are manufactured solely for the purpose of relieving and curing the kidneys.

Mrs. L. Melanson, Plympton, N.S., writes: "I am sending you what a wonderful cure Doan's Kidney Pills made for me. For years I had suffered so with my kidneys I could hardly do my household work. I used several kinds of pills, but none of them seemed to be doing me any good. At last I was advised to try a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. When I had taken the first box I found relief. I have used five boxes, and to-day I feel like a new woman. I cannot recommend them too highly."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50¢ per box, 3 boxes for $1.25; at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-made tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrant and you appear years younger.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrant, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

MAKING MUNITIONS—IN 151 CANADIAN CITIES

Last of new orders for Munitions, aggregating $80,000,000 awarded yesterday—Every factory capable of doing the work getting a share.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—The last of the new orders for munitions aggregating $80,000,000 were sent out by wire today to manufacturing firms in various parts of the Dominion. The munitions committee has been advised to the capacity of all of them. Every factory, large and small, capable of manufacturing munitions of war is receiving orders. A wholesale manufacturer up to the greatest possibility of the output by Canada in the shortest possible time has been thoroughly planned.

No fewer than 151 cities and towns of the Dominion are now working on these munitions and for several months from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 has been paid out each month. With the new orders and the increase in output, however, the payments will increase at once to 20 millions per month. The members and officials of the munitions committee refuse to state what firms are manufacturing munitions or what orders have been placed the last few days. They point out that this policy is in accordance with the practice followed by David Lloyd George, Imperial Minister of Munitions to whom the Canadian munitions committee is directly responsible.

Canada Has Already Received Orders Valued at $151,000,000.

So far $151,000,000 has been spent by the war office on munitions in Canada so that by the end of the year the figures will be well on towards $200,000,000. With a rapidly growing output of the $500,000,000 which the war office proposes to spend in the Dominion will probably be paid out before 1916 is out. Up to now $18,000,000 has been spent in Toronto, $12,000,000 in Hamilton, $51,000,000 in Montreal and district. The reason why so large a proportion has gone to the Montreal district is because shells are loaded there.

The old members of the shell committee are still acting upon the munitions committee.

A ZEPPELIN RAID ON ENGLISH METROPOLIS

No Trace of Panic as Crowds Seek Vantage Point to Watch Pursuit of the Raider—Female Pickpocket Takes Advantage of Excitement to Ply Her Trade.

(Special Staff Cor. of The Standard.)

A Zeppelin raid is merely an interesting spectacle for a lot of people, but naturally it alarms some people, particularly the women and children. On October 13 I was in London, and that evening I was not far from one of the places where a Zeppelin dropped a lot of bombs, killing and injuring a considerable number of people, and smashing a great deal of glass in an area over one-quarter of a mile in diameter. About the first intimation we had of the presence of a Zeppelin overhead was the bursting of bombs near by a certain section of the metropolis usually crowded with amusement seekers at night; a place it is not lawful to mention, though by this time, everybody in England and probably many in Germany know its whereabouts. A number of bombs were dropped in a limited area; and the reports of their explosions were followed by a whole series of muffled detonations—and a smashing and crashing of glass and a horrid racket of the rain of the fragments falling in cascades to the pavements. Some of the bombs set fire to gas mains, causing a series of gas explosions over a considerable area. So far as I could judge from the casual inspection permitted us next day the bombs themselves dropped from the sky did not do a great deal of damage compared with the damage done by the explosion of gas pipes in great buildings; but it looked as if quite a few buildings had suffered internal injuries—mainly, I imagine, from the explosion of gas pipes.

Searchlights and Airship Guns Get Busy.

In a minute or so after the bomb explosions the searchlights got busy; great shafts of light stabbed the sky, moving swiftly hither and yon. High overhead their rays caught the Zeppelin; it became a great tube of rosy light moving across the depths of the sky. Then all over the place anti-airship guns went into action, and the shells began to explode around the raider, their flashes looking like the flashes of fire-works.

The barking of the guns, the flare of the searchlights in the sky, the London generally of the visit of the air pirate. All the city stood at gaze for a moment or two, till they caught sight of the tube of rosy light moving majestically through the night. Attended by flocks of fire-flicks. Then a commotion ran through the streets, mostly men rushed to places offering a good view, more curious than alarmed. But here and there a hysterical woman or girl wailed in terror, and skurried aimlessly about. Men laughed when they saw. A girl flung herself upon me; she seemed to be in hysterics and she tried to drag me to the shelter of some place or other. She cried like a frightened child; her distress began to trouble me. But presently I was aware of her fingers very deftly searching for my pocket book and I bade her good night. Poor girl! maybe she needed the money, and felt the air raid was her opportunity.

High up in the glare of the great searchlights moved the Zeppelin, rosy and luminous, and the guns barked and the bursting shells filled the high heavens with swarms of fire-flicks. Swiftly it moved off and passing beyond the reach of the searchlights was swallowed up in the velvet blackness of the night. And immediately the air raid was to the people in the streets a joke—something to talk and laugh about. In spite of darkened streets, and the menace of the skies, London remains light-hearted. Only an old woman who had come out with her knitting in her hands heaved a great sigh and said cynically:

"They've got away, the brutes. I have always believed in God Almighty, but now I don't. What is our government doing?"

She shuffled back into her dwelling, and I thought of that other knitting woman that for Carlyle was one of the portents of the French Revolution, whose chic story he wrote without for a moment understanding its causes.

The guns ceased their barking, wheeling shafts of light searched the sky. And down below, in the great metropolis, the throngs in the streets moved towards the area whence had come the sounds of bursting bombs. Fires had broken out. Clanging motor engines forced passages through the packed crowds; policemen and special constables struggled with the tidal wave of curious humanity. In that dense and agitated mainstrom of men and women, one could not see much; he was carried along in the current like a chip. Once I was caught in a back eddy, a place where they were trying to collect the dead and dying. A man was cut open like a pig ready for market; another was minus his jaw and his face a mangled horror. The moving mass of humanity eddied this way and that; you saw little and heard a lot of half-told tales; but you knew somehow that there were dead and dying and injured in many places.

Next morning the official report announced that Zeppelins had raided certain districts in London, and that so far as known seven persons had been killed and fourteen injured more or less severely. The succeeding day to the official report stated over 50 had been killed and nearly 150 injured.

How many Zeppelins visited London that night may be known to the Germans; apparently the London authorities do not know. One was seen about half-past nine, and another, or possibly the same one returning, about eleven o'clock.

CHOLERA ADDS TO HARDSHIPS OF THE ARMENIAN REFUGEES

Mortality in Tabriz alone reported to average one hundred a day.

New York, Nov. 8.—Cholera has added its terrors to the burdens of Armenian refugees who fled the Tigris and Euphrates valleys to Tabriz, according to meagre advices received here by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions and made public today. One hundred a day is now the average mortality from the scourge, in Tabriz alone, these advices state.

Urmiah, too, the recent fighting ground of Kurds and native Christians, is afflicted by cholera, the board announced. Forty deaths have already occurred there from the disease. All the deaths, both in Tabriz and Urmiah, it is said, have occurred among the natives. The missionaries stationed at both places are relieving the sick as best they can, with inadequate facilities.

Thiss, Russia, which lies south of the Caucasus mountains, not a great distance from Tabriz, and Urmiah, is similarly in the grip of an epidemic, which has already caused 700 deaths, according to the board's advices. It is thought likely that these deaths were due to cholera, also, although the nature of the disease is not designated in advices.

Ministers Meet.

The Baptist ministers held their usual fortnightly meeting yesterday morning in the Bible Society rooms, and Rev. F. R. Hayward presided. Mr. Hutchinson of the Y. M. C. A. gave a very instructive address on "Vocational Guidance," and a very favorable discussion followed. The only other matters taken up were of a routine nature and the attendance was but fair.
