Knox Church Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was organized on Nov. last and has a membership of 62, divided as follows:

Fifty active members, who are pledged to attend the meetings and take part either by prayer, testimony or by giving some thought on the topic of the meeting, and twelve associate members, who are not so pledged but are privileged to take part if so disposed.

The object of the Society is the spiritual development of the young people of the church, and we are pleased to state that testimony has been given to the good work done in that direction.

The work of the Society is done through Committees.

Through the Look-Out Committee all the young people of the Church are called upon and invited to attend the meetings of the Society.

The Prayer meeting Committee has charge of the prayer meetings and appoints the leaders. It is desirable that each active member should in turn lead, and this object has been attained so far.

Many of the young people who had no previous experience in leading meetings have done so since the organization of the society, with marked benefit to themselves and to all.

The name of the social committee explains itself.

We hope soon to have our missionary committee at work. Their duty is to circulate tracts and missionary literature to be obtained by voluntary offerings.

A. F. HAMILTON,
President.

Knox Church Young People's Association.

The year just closed has been one of the most successful since the formation of this Association.

Our objects as set forth in the "Constitution" are: "The cultivation of a friendly intercourse among the members, their mutual improvement by means of essays, debates, readings, recitations, lectures, music and social meetings, seeking out and welcoming to the church and Association other young people, especially those who may be strangers in the city, and the advancement of the general interests of the church."

These objects we have endeavored to carry out as far as lay in our power by providing entertainments, lectures, socials, &c., both instructive, edifying and attractive, and we are glad to say that the meetings during the year have been well attended both by the young and the older people.

As will be seen from our financial statement we have been able to
