

Two Socials have been held since the formation of the Society, and were much enjoyed by the large numbers in attendance. The work of the Social Committee besides promoting these, is also to endeavor to create a home feeling among all the members.

The Prayer Meeting Committee arranges the lesson subjects and appoints the leader of each meeting for a period of three months in advance, this being issued in card form; while the Music Committee has charge of the singing of the Society, which is always one of the special features of our meeting.

The duty of the Look-out Committee is to bring in new members and keep a watchful sight over the membership in seeing that each tries to live up to the spirit of the pledge, in attendance at, and participation in each of the weekly prayer meetings of the Society.

Our meetings are held every Monday evening in the church parlor, commencing sharp at 8 and closing promptly at 9 o'clock, and are free to all the young people connected with the Church. No fees are collected, the only obligation undertaken being the signing of either the active or associate membership pledge of the Society. All expenses are met by voluntary contributions received in a box placed for the purpose at the door.

The Young Men's meeting continues, and is held Sunday morning at 10.15, when the lesson for the Monday meeting is studied together. We would urge every young man connected with our congregation to attend this meeting and participate in the help and blessing received by the few who are now in regular attendance.

For any small measure of success which our Society has attained thus far we give God alone the glory, praying Him that we may all be enabled to more fully live out the motto for the year, "We are laborers together with God," the watchword of the Society being always, "For Christ and the Church."
