Spring Music

THE gaiety, the beauty and the dear youth of spring—"When birds do sing—sweet lovers love the spring", quoth Shakespeare—what a time it is to bathe our souls in music—to let sweet sounds refresh our spirits as spring showers do the winter worn meadows. Some of the world's most exquisite musical gems have been inspired by this gentle season—and are caught with all their ethereal grace on Columbia Records.

Ask your Dealer to play these Columbia Records for you:

The Columbia Grafonola

Tone it is that has always made the Columbia Grafonola famous. And what other quality would you have as the outstanding feature of any musical instrument? Columbia tone is the product of matchless care in the seasoning and fashioning of the wood and of basic superiorities in the Reproducer. And it is still further controlled and beautified by the exclusive Columbia "tone leaves". You should really hear Columbia tone to appreciate it. All Grafonolas, whatever the price, have it.

Any Columbia Dealer gladly demonstrates the Grafonola and Columbia Records for you without obligation.

TALKING IT OVER

with Lorna Mcon
THE SCOTCH BRIDE.

When Mother got the letter saying that Jim had married a Scotch girl and was bringing her home with him, she was all in a flutter. Mother doesn't put on any style. She still calls the evening meal supper, and she serves it in the kitchen as often as in the dining room. She has seen enough "movies" to convince her that Scotch girls are naughty and cold. The prospect of meeting her new daughter-in-law filled her with apprehension. She only had three days at the most in which to get ready for their arrival for they intended to leave at the same time as did the letter. They were hectic days for the whole family, at one moment Mother would stop in the middle of hanging a curtain to say tearfully "If Jimmy had only come home alone first, I wouldn't care," at the next she was laughing over the idea of Jimmy having a wife, but all the time lurked the fear that Jimmy's bride would review the family with the air of a duchess.

On her way to the station to meet them she steeled herself to meet Jimmy's naughty bride with cold civility. I called to see Mother and pay my respects to the bride a few days later. Mother was in high spirits and busy as could be making curtains for to flat that Jimmy is furnishing. "And how is Mrs. Jimmy?" I asked. "Oh poor wee lamb!" said Jimmy's Mother, "she's all worn out, been making shellcases for three and a half years, 'an' no proper food. I'm making her take a sleep every afternoon. She's fairly hysterical with delight over flats we've been looking at—the labor saving devices astonish her. It's a pleasure to take her round. She's like a child let loose in fairy land."

"And what about the naughty duthess," I asked with a wicked smile.

Mother laughed heartily "the movies have a lot to answer for—she's a dear sweet girl, and I'm glad Jimmy found her."

"Dear Lorna, I am a wallflower. No, not a girl who doesn't like boys, nor dancing, nor am I a new fashioned clever girl who wants a career. I am just an ordinary wallflower. I am not a very pretty and not very ugly. I am better dressed than a lot of girls who have men pay them attentions, and I am no plainer than lots of girls who have admirers. But, unless a man is dragged up to me and I consent he never by any chance asks to be introduced. And at dances no one ever dares to dance with me a second time, and yet I am a good dancer, in fact I can lead the biggest dance of a room on any dance safe."

One hand the number of men who have of their own volition paid me the least attention. One was a perfect bore who wanted to play chess all the time; another was rather nice, but he thought he could sing, his voice was a particularly annoying tenor, and at last, I had to give up playing for him. I couldn't bear it any longer. He stopped coming after that. Later he married a girl friend who played. The next talked of nothing but the grain business, some evenings he would be highly elated because the market was good, at other times, he was morose because it wasn't. If the time it was grain, grain, grain."

Growing Boys and Girls Thrive on This Staunch Builder

"LET'S have Davies Pork and Beans for lunch today, mother."

The eager call of the boys and girls, home hungry from school, is welcomed by busy mothers who know how easy Davies Pork and Beans are to prepare and how good they are for hungry, growing children. And how youngsters do enjoy them!

So they should—well cooked Pork and Beans are wholesome, appetizing and nutritious. So cheap too, compared with most foods. One 16 oz. tin is enough for a small family.

Cooked to perfection—cooked till each white bean is soft, meaty and perfectly digestible.

15 cts. for 16 oz. tin

Davies Pork and Beans

combine the elements which growing children need for energy and stamina. Try them for luncheon tomorrow when they come home from school and hear what they say.

Good for week-day luncheons when you are busy and can't spare time for "fussing" in the kitchen.

Good for supper when daddy comes home and the family gather, hungry and expectant around the table.

No trouble to prepare. All the preparation has been done beforehand—every bean whole, sound, meaty and cooked to perfection.

Sold in 11 oz., 16 oz. and 20 oz. tins. Plain or with tomato sauce.

Order from your dealer.
