MALAYSIAN FOCUS

At the Orientation Party last Friday night, one of the members came forward with a unique proposition to raise funds for the proposed and ill-plagued Malaysian Cultural Night. That proposition involved an exchange of commitments; that he cut his hair to a length of no more than one centimetre, and in return, members and non-members alike demonstrate a similar enthusiasm for the project by contributing generously towards it. Unconventional and novel, as the idea may be, it has, nevertheless, met with favorable response from other members; and the MCN, it appears, has grudgingly made another step towards materialization. At this juncture, we should however, identify and examine the obstacles that present the true stumbling blocks to a successful MCN.

If the purpose of the MCN is to promote, exhibit, and reflect the cosmopolitan nature of the Malaysian society, as it is propounded to do, it must be participated wholly by the Malaysian student community, unabashedly and unhesitatingly. The Executive Committee likewise, as overseers of the MSS, is commended with the difficult task of providing objectivity, purpose, and direction to the society. To this effect, it must work with proper hindsight and forethought; to refrain from indecisiveness; and to avoid moving impulsively, an action so often disguised as being instinctive in nature.

There remains, as yet, also a dire need for closer rapport between the committee and the general membership. Unless the committee is made aware of the situations that prevail among members, and lest the membership be stimulated to higher levels of active participation, there remains little hope of our projects meeting with any veneer measure of success. The solution to apathy is not the revamping of our societal infrastructure, but instead, it is the need for a more sanguine outlook, and a renewed spirit of audacity and resoluteness.

Every four years the Miramichi-Chatham area holds a Career Exposition for all of the Grade 9-12 students from that area. The Miramichi guidance counsellors have requested the UNB send a representative from each degree programme. Because of successes I have had in past experiences with UNB students acting as counsellors/ambassadors, I hope to take a UNB team to this event.

The ideal candidates would be upper-classmen (especially from the Miramichi area) who wish to convey their enthusiasm for university life to potential students. The dates for the Career Expo are October 21-22 and interested students should be prepared to leave late afternoon on Wednesday, October 20. Transportation, meals and accommodations will be provided. If this sounds like you, please call Jack Cunningham at 453-4864 or drop in to the Old Arts Building, Room 210 at anytime, September 26-29.

Christian Fellowship

UNB Christian Fellowship had both an exciting and event filled year starting with the cornboil in September to the closing banquet in April. The group had plenty of new faces in the beginning, but the group really started to gel after the retreat at Fundy in late September. The honorable Dave 'Rabbi' Haney presided over the weekend and our Kangaroo court (remember your slave Tony). Fundy gave us a chance to admire God's creation and make new friends. The small group Bible Studies were a backbone of support for the group with over 70 persons involved. The Campus Booktable reached more of the campus than ever before with 7 tables set up during the week. The fall term saw Friday Night meetings based on the theme "Love for our Neighbor."

The second term started with an expansion of the theme of Love our Neighbors looking at the area of missions. In January some of the group headed out to Malagash N.S. and the Atlantic Weekend. The third annual Ice Bowl soccer game saw NS defeat the NB squad 6-4. Also second term we had a small intimate meal for 80 (fellowship meals), a moonlight sleigh ride (some spent more time in the snow than in the sleigh), and the concept of romantic love (so that is what a date is!)

The chapter also had a chance to bring the Multi-media Spectrum production in March, an event we hope will have an affect on individuals' lives for years to come. The executive of Sandra MacGlashino, Jennie McLean, Kevin Moss, Bob Cusack, Bobbi Steeves, Pam Nevers, Susan Dodds and myself, Bruce Dickson, have really enjoyed serving the group and our Lord Jesus Christ. We pray this year to honor God's glory and your needs. May God bless you in the year to come.
