QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

CAPPED HOCKS.

Three-year-old colt that stood idle in the stable mostly all winter has enlargements on the points of his hocks. Is this hereditary?

H. B.

Ans.—These are capped hocks. There is no hereditary tendency. They were caused by bruises, probably by kicking and striking the stall posts with his hocks. Treatment is slow. Get a liniment made of four drams each of iodine and iodide of potassium and four ounces each of alcohol and glycerine. Rub a little well into each enlargement once daily, and they will eventually become reduced to their normal size. V.

CHRONIC ENLARGEMENT OF LEG.

When two years old, my colt had a sore above his fetlock on hind leg. His leg swelled and broke, and matter ran freely. He is now four years old, and his hock and leg are still very large.

F. H.

Ans.—It is not probable that treatment will be successful. The enlargement is chronic; the tissues are thickened, and the exudate organized, resembling a case of elephantiasis. Treatment consists in giving 1 dram iodide of potassium three times daily. If this impairs his appetite after a while reduce the dose to 40 grains. Get a liniment made of eight drams each of iodine and iodide of potassium, and eight ounces each of alcohol and glycerine, and rub this well into the enlarged leg once daily. Repeat the prescription again and again, if you see any good results. V.

SKIN DISEASE—MAMMITIS.

1. Four-year-old horse has had a skin disease since he was two years old. At first a scale formed, which, when removed, exposed a raw surface. Last year my veterinarian treated him, and since then the scales are dry underneath.

2. One quarter of cow's udder is enlarged and hard, and gives bloody milk.

W. E. T.

Ans.—1. This is a form of eczema. Give him a purgative of eight drams aloes and two drams ginger, and follow up with one and a half ounces Fowler's solution of arsenic night and morning for a week. Follow this with half an ounce sulphur twice daily. Dress the parts, once daily, with carbolic acid, one part, to sweet oil, twenty-five parts.

2. Bathe the quarter well several times daily with hot water, and, after bathing, rub well with camphorated oil. V.

GOSSIP.

AN ALFALFA KING.

R. E. Smith, of Sherman, Texas, is the alfalfa king of the world. He started in twelve years ago with five acres, then put in a hundred more, and has kept on increasing until now he has fourteen hundred acres in alfalfa. Last year it netted him $109,200, not including the amounts of money received from the sale of hundreds of head of hogs, cattle and other live stock that fattened in the alfalfa pastures.
