We raise the question advisedly. And we make the statement with every regard for the opinions of those who may differ with us, that we are to-day reaping the fruits of the failure of our experiments with munici-pal ownership. We do not question the quality of the principle of municipal ownership, but the principle is not practical if it is not general. It it was general would be on the same footing as our competitors in municipal development. Municipal ownership, as applied in Port Arthur, is a fad. It is with-out foundation; it is filmsy. The fact that The Daily News has not until now opposed the principle of municipal ownership as it has been locally applied, may be taken to indicate that the opinion here and now expressed is based upon the re-sults of the city's experience as a dabbler in the fad. For years Port Arthur was a se-cond-rater in the list of recording ame dav to end its flirtation with that coy CL 2 p.m. CHURCH OF SCOTLAND. affair, and Dundurn Park was suggested as the most satisfactory place to have it.
