Highway Hold-Up. A Montreal Man Badly Mauled By Daring Thugs.

Montreal, July 20.—The story of a daring hold-up on a highway early this morning, when Alphonse Cardinal, in a badly battered condition, appeared at the Notre Dame Hospital. According to his story, he was driving along the Outremont road late last night, when near Cote Des Neiges, two men appeared on the roadway and commanded him to stop. Before he had time to urge on his horse or even defend himself with his whip he was pulled backwards out of his rig and held heavily to the road. While one of the thugs knelt on his chest the other went through his pockets, but not finding enough to satisfy their demands, they proceeded to wreak vengeance upon their unlucky victim. As one of the thugs held him down the other kicked him almost into insensibility, and when he became too weak to make any resistance the other one joined in the kicking. Leaving him lying in a semi-conscious condition, the two thugs made off.

After lying on the road for some hours Cardinal managed to crawl into his rig, and finally reached the Notre Dame Hospital about 4 o'clock this morning. When examined at the hospital it was found that Cardinal was bruised from head to foot, with several deep cuts on his head and face. It is also feared that he is internally injured.

The Farm. A LIVE STOCK RECORD.

(Montreal Gazette.)

The effect on farm live stock of a dry summer and fall is illustrated in the June bulletin of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. In 1908, as in 1907, the rainfall was under the average. As a consequence the pastures suffered, fodder became scarce, and farmers sold off for killing stock as they felt they could not profitably keep for feeding. The following table shows the result. It gives the estimated number of farm live stock in Canada, aside from British Columbia, in the summers of 1909 and 1908:

Horses	1909	1908
Milk cows	2,132,480	2,119,165
Milch cows	2,840,306	2,917,745
Other horned cattle	4,384,779	4,629,836
Sheep	2,705,390	2,831,404
Swine	2,912,509	3,369,858

With a considerable increase in the number of farms it was to have been expected that there would have been an increase in the stock which farmers find it profitable to keep. There was such an increase in the case of horses, which numbered 14,324 more than in 1908, besides 38,000 horses, lost over 41,000 milch cows, 144,000 other horned cattle, 88,000 sheep and 361,000 swine. In Quebec there were decreases of 28,000 milch cows, of 45,000 other horned cattle, of 30,000 sheep and of 81,000 swine. As the population has probably been increasing, the facts noted will help to account for the high prices of butchers' meat. The effect will also probably be seen in decreased export of live stock, dairy products and hams and bacon. The matter has its serious phases. Some of the losses seem also to be due to other than the weather conditions of a year. The raising of hogs, which had a steady expansion for quite a number of years, being often associated with the growth of the dairy industry, seems lately to have lost some of the favor in which it was held, and this is borne evidence to, it would appear, in a decline in the quality as well as a decrease in number. Sheep raising, also, seems to be a languishing branch of the animal industry. The situation both in regard to swine and sheep has been receiving the attention of those who are specially charged with the care of agricultural interests, as it should. It is neither of advantage to the farmer nor the country that there should be a decrease in the branch of the natural industry on which, in the end, the success of crop-growing largely depends. And it is not economically wholesome that the country should have to purchase largely of foreign meats to feed its people.

BUNCOED HIM.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 20.—Richard R. Smith, of Toronto, Canada, was the victim of a clever swindle this morning. Smith was sitting on the porch of the Hotel Islesworth and got into conversation with two strangers, who said there was a poolroom in the basement on Patent, Ben. Pannett, Ottawa, Ont., near Patent Office.

Smith was sitting on the porch of the Hotel Islesworth and got into conversation with two strangers, who said there was a poolroom in the basement and that one of them would do some betting for Smith. Smith agreed, and soon one of the strangers returned, handing Smith $10, saying he had won the game. Smith became excited and soon made rash bets. The swindlers took a lot of his money and didn't return.

John Hurley, one of the alleged confidence men, was caught finally by detectives and is locked up on a conspiracy charge, after obtaining money under false pretences.

SCRAP BOOK POETRY

A DYSPEPTIC IN SEARCH OF PLEASURE. Sin Watson had a liver, a fact which he made plain. Forer and forever, again and yet again. He lived on crusts and gruel, his looks betrayed distress. He fought an ceaseless duel with hope and happiness. He left his bed complaining and sought it in despair. He growled when it was raining and when the day was fair. When others laughed he grumbled, he had no heart for song; No matter where he traveled, his liver went along. Because he was dyspeptic his brow was overcast and was constantly heaved where he paused or passed. He looked on and wondered at mountains capped with snow. He wondered why in thunder cold cliffs amazed them so. Where foamy rivers hurried, and sweet wild blossoms bloomed. He looked on and was worried by things he had consumed; While others paused expressing their pleasure and their awe. He merely hungered frowning, blind to the things they saw. O'er boundless plains he traveled, through thrifty towns he sped. And constantly he caviled, and doubting, shook his head. Where others looked, believing the fair reports they heard. He lingered, listless, grieving, and doubting every word. He went in search of pleasure where others found displayed. In fullest, fullest measure the wonders God had made. But all he saw was common or over-praised or wrong. Because he had a liver he always took alone.—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

Plans have been completed for a visit of the mining and geological section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science to visit the Cobalt and Sudbury districts prior to the meeting of the association in Winnipeg between August 23 and Sept. 1. The western harvest inspector to-day on the farm of D. C. Pell, inspector of the 300 acres of barley ready for the binders. The crop is said to be an excellent one.

IT EATS FOWL.

Immense Goose-Fish Steals Hundreds of Chickens.

Stratford, Conn., July 20.—Theodore Judson, keeper of the Stratford lighthouse, uncovered a novel chicken-thief in the shape of an immense goose-fish in the Long Island coast, but is seldom found out of deep water.

The Stratford lighthouse is situated on a point which projects far out from shore, and on its narrow slopes Judson has raised many chickens. Recently he lost at least 200 fine birds. The only clue he could find to the thief were marks in the sand at low water resembling those made by the flippers of a turtle, and a trail of chicken feathers leading to the tide mark.

Last Saturday he heard an unearthly noise in his coops, and with a shotgun and a lantern he reached the brooder to find his pairs in a commotion. He discerned at him promptly dropped the lantern, and blazed away with both barrels of his gun. Judson found the angler with half its breast blown away. It weighed sixty pounds.

AMBUSH TROOPERS.

Indians Kill Six Mexicans and Wound Seven.

Mexico City, Mexico, July 20.—The Maya Indians, in the Province of Quintana Roo, Yucatan peninsula, ambushed the Seventeenth Infantry at Osum last Thursday, killing six troopers and mortally wounding seven others. The infantrymen retreated, but returned to the attack in the evening, when they were again repulsed. The Indian losses are not known. The soldiers are now pursuing the Mayas, whose depredations have lamed the whole territory.

The Doll Who Was Sorry

A doll and a kitten were once very good friends. But the doll was always saying, "I don't like my house. My little mother fusses over me too much. I want to travel. I want to live somewhere else."

"Very well," said the kitten at last. "I'll take you somewhere."

So he caught her dress in his teeth and carried her up into a tree. It was home again.

But next day things changed—there came an awful storm.

It wet the poor doll through and through. It banged her head against the tree and threw her to the ground.

"She was sore and sick and frightened, and no one seemed to care for at the first raindrop the kitten had run away under the house."

"I want to go home," wailed the doll; "I'll never be discontented again—and I had such a lovely house, with a brass bed and blankets, and the dearest little mother. If she'd only fuss over me now and kiss me again. I'm so sorry I ran away."

And just as she said it there came a voice in her ears. "Oh, my poor, dear, lost doll!" and her little mother was there, cuddling her all wet as she was, and kissing her poor, aching head. "This soup serves in cups with whipped cream and an English walnut on top is a dainty first course at luncheon."

Onion soup is popular with the French and Italians. To prepare this put two ounces of butter in a saucepan and when melted add a tablespoonful of flour, stir and when it begins to turn yellow, add four or five onions sliced. Stir until fried, add one quart of broth and let boil about fifteen minutes. Mix through a colander, put back on the fire, give one half salt and pepper to taste. Have a slice of bread or bits of toasted bread (croutons) in the soup. Pour on, Italians use grated cheese with onion soup. This is the national soup.

The Doll Who Was Sorry

When you get the habit of serving cold soups you will never get a dish of hot soup before your family again. The cold soups are really aspic, made of soup stock and vegetables, just as you make any soup and thickened with enough gelatin to give them the proper consistency. Cold soup is served in cups. Chicken piquante. Red pepper is used to excess in hot countries to stimulate the stomach and liver, but a bit used occasionally is an addition to any dish and not necessarily over stimulating. The water in which vegetables are boiled and the creamed vegetables left over from the dinner are used to make cold soups. The addition of milk and soup stock thickened. When the vegetables are used, as spinach, celery, asparagus, peas, beans, or any vegetable pulp, it is first boiled until tender, then rubbed through a fine sieve and added to the milk and soup stock in the proportion of one quart of vegetable pulp to one quart of soup stock or milk, or half stock and half milk.

IDEAL OUTING HAT FOR YOUNG GIRL.

It is a mushroom shape of rough straw in natural color. A wide scarf of black satin is carried around the crown and made into a large bow at the right side of the back. At the base of the satin fold is a row of small roses in vivid colors. This hat is one of the most charmingly seen this season, as it is particularly becoming to young girls and to those who affect the low neck so popular just now.

FORGOT THE CHEESE.

It Cost an Indiana Man Over $150, in Consequence.

Hammond, Ind., July 20.—Tom Manger, proprietor of the Indiana Harbor Express Company, bought a piece of Lamberger cheese. It cost him $150 before he refused to tolerate it in his house, and so he tied it to a nail outside his house and the hot weather did the rest. Manger forgot about the cheese and his wife told him that there was something wrong with the plumbing, and in searching for the trouble the plumber practically wrecked the house. The plumbing and other bills amounted to $150.75.
