VALUE OF A BROKEN PANE OF GLASS .- A value of a Brocker Paris of Glass.—A question, now universally asked in every society in Puris is,—'* Have you seen the broken window?'' This refers to an accident of a very ordinary nature, followed however, by an infinitely improbable result, which occurred in the Rue de la, Bourse. M. Mofiere, a boot maker in that street, has had fortune "thrust upon him" by a cart knocking against his shop-window. Rather late at night a restive horse backed a cart against the iron shutters of the shop-front, with such force that a pane of plate glass immediately behind the part struck was cracked into thousands of splinters. M. Moliere's first care was to secure the address of the owner of the horse and cart, and in the morning he of the horse and cart, and in the morning he was about to send for a glazier whose bill he ld have charged to the person responsi would have charged to the person responsi-ble for the trespass upon his property; but this window was cracked in such a manner as no window ever was before, and M. Moliere observed that every passer, stopped to look at it, and exclaimed, "How curious! look at it, and exclaimed, "How curious!"
"How extraordinary!" During the whole day a crowd was collected in front of the house. It then occurred to M.Moliere that since his broken window oppeared to possess such attractions for the public, it might answer his prupose to make the public pay for the gratification of their curiosity. Accordingly he put up his outside shutter and charged one franc per head for admission to his shop. Visitors flocked to the exhibition, and in a few hours the fame of it spread far and in a few hours the fame of it spread far and wide. Not a single particle of the glass had fallen out, but the cracks radiating from the centre with wonderful regularity are so numerous that the pane presents the appearnumerous that the pane presents the appearance of a gigantic cobweb. Seen from the interior of the shop by gas light it reflects the prismatic colours with extraordinary brilancy, and may be compared to a peacock's tail. A speculator has offered the enormous sum of 4.000f. for the purchase of the fearily present, and the offer has been the fragile property, and the offer has been

A QUESTION FOR LAWYERS.—The following which we extract from the Paris correspondence of the Republic, is decidedly French. It starts an interesting question for lawyers:

"To whom does a broken pane of glass belong? If you can decide, under the circular of the part of the contract of the part of the contract of the part of the contract of ces of the case I am going to relate, cumstances of the case I am going to relate, you will set a vexed question at rest. The other night a carriage badly guided dashed upon the sidewalk, and the pole passed thro' the window pane of a shoemaker's shop. It went through as clean as a bullet, making a round O in the pane—and letting in a streak of cold air as smooth as a musket barrel.—If the pane had been cut up by creaks like the rays of the sun or the spokes barrel.—If the pane had been cut up by cracks like the rays of the sun or the spokes of a wheel, it would have posessed no earthly value, of course; but as it was, suudry amateurs of curiosities who passed by declared it to be worth 10,000f. at least. The shoemaker thought he had made his every the single feature of the course of the state o shoemaker thought he had made his ever-lasting fortune, and naturally enough claim-ed the broken square. But he had counted without his host, or as I should say, without his proprietor. The owner of the house claimed the smashed window glass as his own by right of posession. The shoemaker was only his tenant. It was in vain that the latter reminded his landlord that he had never offered before to replace the window panes that he had the misfortune to break or pames that he had the misfortune to break or to have broken. The landlord insisted, but he had not foreseen a certain difficulty. The insurance company that had insured his house, not only against fire, but against tumbling to pieces, against earthquakes,, and against window breakage, claimed in the right to mend the name and take es that he had the misfortune to break or and against window breakage, claimed in its turn the right to mend the pane and take the old one. But the insurance company had forgotten a slight circumstance in their way. The glazier claimed the broken pane as one of his traditional, immemorial perquisites; never, he said, had any one yet made any objection to his removing the splinters and the old putty, and doing what he pleased with them. So here are four claimants, and I am not sure that the advoit driver will not put in his claim too, as the original cause of the breakage and the lawsuits which threaten to grow out of it."

A Man charged his wife whom he had re-cently married, with cutting off the head of his portrait, and breaking a glass. The lady was brought before a magistrate, and fined twelve shillings, which the husband had to pay!

To Professor Holloway,
Sir,—I avail myself of the first opportunity of informing you, that, for a very long period, I was afflicted with a dangerous giddiness and frequent swimmings in the head, attended by loss of appetite, disordered stomach, and generally impaired health. Every means had failed to give me any permanent relief, and at length it became so alarming, that I was really afraid of going about without an attendant. In this melancholy condition, I waited personally upon Mr. Hughes, Chemist, Harleth, for the purpose of consulting him as to what I had better do; he kindly recommended your Fills, I tried them without delay, and after taking them for a short time I am happy to bear testimony to their wonderful efficacy. I am now restored to perfect health, and enabled to resume my usual duties. You are at liberty to publish this letter in

To Professor Holloway.

Dean Str.—Idees it a duty I owe to you and the public at large to inform you of a most miraculous recovery from that dreadful disease. Dropsy, and which, under God, was effected by your invaluable Pills. I was tapped five times within eight months, and skilfally treated by twee medical practitioners, but could not get cured, until I had recourse to your remedy, and notwithstanding all I had undergone, this miraculous medicine cured me in the course of six weeks. IN THE STOMACH EFFECTUALLY CURED.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Bostock, Druggist, of Aiston under Lyne, dated July 31, 1852.

To Professor Holloway,

Dean Sire—I have much pleasure in handing to you a testimonial of the efficacy of your Medicines. A person in this neighbourhood, with whom I am well acquainted, was affected for a long time with violent spasmodic pains in the stomach and liver, arising from frequent colds, smells of paint, and the effects of a stooping position, which he was obliged to assume' in his business. The spasms were of an alarming character, and frequently left him in a week and debilitated condition. At length he heard of the salutary effects of your invaluable Pills, and was induced to give them a trial. The first dose gave him considerable relief, and by following them up in accordance with your directions, they have acted so wonderfully in cleansing the liver and stomach, and strengthening the digestive organs, that he has been restored to the anyonnent of good health.

I remain, dear Sir, yours faithfully, (Signed) WILLIAM BOSTOCK.
