"SHERIFF'S ESSENCE OF VANILLA WAS FOUND ON HIS PERSON WHICH IS SAID TO BE THE MOST EFFECTIVE DOPE ON THE MARKET."—Extract from an article in the Daily News, Aug. 29, 1919.

FLAVORING EXTRACT.

If you want Flavoring Extract for Cooking purposes and not "Dope" for drinking purposes, purchase the old reliable PURE GOLD EXTRACT, the favorite of so many householders for years.

The Pure Gold Mfg. Co., Ltd., have a reputation to maintain and they positively refuse to sell their Extracts to any but the legitimate Grocery trade, and only to members of the Grocery trade whom they are convinced will sell Pure Gold Extract for cooking purposes only and not for drinking purposes.

Orders from the Soft Drink trade have been turned down by the dozen since the Prohibition Law went into effect. No stock is carried in St. John's.

Orders will be booked from the legitimate Grocery trade with the understanding that Pure Gold Extracts will be sold to householders for cooking purposes only.

Sea Stories.

They that go down to the sea in ships, that occupy their business in great waters, see strange things from the point of view of landmen to whom they retail their experiences upon making port. Among the best of the sea stories of this summer are those brought to Philadelphia last week. The chief officer of the steamship Belair, from Lisbon to Penn's place, was the relator, and his talk was of whales. The Belair, jogging along through a moderate swell, came across them in a slick off the Azores. The school of whales was sighted not more than a mile away, and, as the ship passed, they turned and followed in her wake. They were fin-backs, and ranged in length from ninety feet to forty feet, the length of the smallest fish in the rear rank. It was shortly after nine o'clock in the afternoon of the following day when they left her, after having followed her 300 miles or more. In the meantime, the first school had been joined by two others, one led by the biggest whale of all, estimated by the chief officer to be at least 100 years old. The chief officer said that it was a pretty sight to see the school send up a fountain of vapor. Always the big whale was in the lead, and when they sounded he was the first to come up and the first to blow—in which latter feat he might have found the chief officer a formidable rival. Sometimes the whales would remain down for nearly half an hour, but when they came up it was found that they had lost none of the distance between themselves and the ship. Supplementing this account, which lacks no touch except that the big bull whale might have been equipped with wireless, comes another from the steamship Western Hope, Genoa to Philadelphia, the captain of which said that over 100 whales were sighted during the passage across. Later there was only ninety-nine, as the pharmacist shot and killed one of them with a revolver. That ancient sailor who was the crew and the captain, too, and the mate of the Nancy brig, might have embellished the story told by the chief officer of the Belair, but we can think of no lesser man who could improve upon it. —Hartford Courant.

Black satin is charming when sewn with tiny green beads.
It is not unusual to see the white collar of a blouse pulled outside the jacket of a tailored suit.

The Introduction of Printing

Printing is said to have been introduced to the world on August 14, 1437: John Gutenberg stands at the head of the early typographers, supported by the genius of Schoeffer and the generous patronage of Faust. Gutenberg used only blocks, and to Schoeffer is due the movable type cast from matrices. Caxton, who introduced the art into England, began life as a mercer, but learnt printing at Cologne. The first printed book

Militarism Still Extant.

The following note from the Quarterly Review shows that militarism is still alive and kicking "in our midst." Despite the agitation against the use of submarines by Germany in the late war, we find Admiral Sims advocating the development of this barbarous instrument of warfare by the United States, and the New York Evening Post (June 3) says that "if another international conflict should occur, all participants would undoubtedly use not only submarines, but liquor, fire, poison gas, and other weapons yet to be discovered, and still more horrible."
