

MAKING
HAPPY HOMES

Most people agree that surroundings are important in making the home happy.

WALL PAPER
has no equal as a beautifying agent. Ours are all that can be desired. They represent the best materials and highest skill that industry is able to command.

O. B. GRAVES,
222 Dundas Street.

The Blush of Shame

The open and honest brightness of our Electric Lights puts to shame the false and sickly glow of other illuminations. It is not all in seeming. Electricity brings health and healing to the house. Other lights bring gases, odors and diseases. Phone 365.

London Electric Co.,
359 Richmond Street.

Bad Plumbing

will catch the man who put it in. Are you the one who is going to suffer? We provide the material and the labor that will help you to plumbing perfection. We'd like to talk it over and get your ideas and tell you ours.

PHONE 538.
Smith Bros. & Co.
265 Dundas Street.

Flour That's Flour

Why not buy Daisy Flour? Just try a bag and see its superiority over all others. All grocers.

J. HAWKINS, Arva Roller Mills, Arva, Ont.

J. Ferguson & Sons
UNDERTAKERS

Phones 548 and 373, 180 King St. Reasonable Charges; Personal Attention; First-Class Equipment. Open all the year around.

JOHN FERGUSON, Manager.

HARDING HALL GIRLS' SCHOOL

Literature, Languages, Music, Art, Physical Training, Education.

J. J. BAKER, A.M., Principal.

LONDON
W. CAVEN BARRON,
Pianist, Principal.

Best teachers in the city at the Conservatory. The rehearsals bring every pupil under Mr. Barron's direction, and reports of pupils' progress are sent home to parents.

The New
Wall
Papers

for the spring trade have just arrived, and we take a pleasure in showing them. They comprise all the newest things in Tapestries, Stripes, Florals, Japanese Leather Effects, Reds, Green, Blues and Yellows.

H. & C. COLERICK
443 Richmond Street.

H. C. McBRIDE, 213 Dundas St.
ARCHITECT.R. K. COWAN
BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, ETC.
Court Bldgs., next Court House, London.W. S. LOCKHART
Paperhanging, Wallpaper and More.

The habit of health is formed by Hutch Tablets. When you get into a regular way, you can stop taking them. 10 for 10 cents.

The value of a remedy is in the cure it makes. Not so much as a cure. Hutch Tablets, 10 for 10 cents.

Headaches almost always come from dyspepsia and constipation. You may doubt it, but it is a fact, and Hutch Tablets almost invariably cure them. This is a fact, too, 10 for 10 cents.

Do you think it is "Malaria" or "Grin"? No, it is dyspepsia. You hardly believe it because dyspepsia comes disguised as something else. Hutch Tablets cure it. 10 for 10 cents.

Women's headaches are so often laid to the wrong cause. If the stomach and bowels are right, other irregularities soon disappear. Hutch Tablets prove this, 10 for 10 cents.

The kangaroo is a lively animal, even when he is on his last legs.

Cigars should be entered in a man's expense account only "lost by fire."

In listing the arts which the theater promoted Sarah Bernhardt forgot to mention the dressmaker's art.

When children are weak, sickly,—don't eat or sleep well.

Angier's Petroleum Emulsion

after meals and at bedtime makes them strong, healthy and robust

Pleasant to take Sold by Druggists 50 c. and $1.00

"My little girl was troubled with Bronchitis and a harsh, hacking cough almost since birth. I gave her Angier's Petroleum Emulsion. It cured the cough, and she almost immediately began to gain in flesh and improve in color." A. P. FUSSELL, Toronto, Canada.

ANGIER CHEMICAL COMPANY, BOSTON, MASS., U. S. A.

Some Piano
Bargains.

6 $\frac{1}{2}$ -octave Stoddard\$50
7-octave Marshall & Smith.....$100
7-octave Chickering & Sons$150
7 $\frac{1}{2}$ -octave Dominion\$165

The above Instruments will be sold under a guarantee and are splendid value in every way. INSPECTION SOLICITED.

NORDHEIMER'S

Limited.
188 Dundas Street.
23 years established.

Spring Flowers.

Daffodils, Hyacinths, Tulips, Azaleas. Cut flowers, choicest kinds.

GAMMAGE & SONS.
207 Dundas Street.

THE CANADA TRUST COMPANY

SELECTING AN EXECUTOR is a matter of vital importance. NO INDIVIDUAL CAN BE so well qualified to act as

A TRUST COMPANY

Continuous Service. Constant Supervision. Systematic Management. Command of Investments. Experience.

SELECT the Canada Trust Company, whose charges will in no case exceed that allowed to individuals, and are likely to be less.

V. CHOWNY, President.
L. LITTLE, Vice-President.
GEO. A. SOMERVILLE, Man. Dir.

OFFICE—HURON & ERIE BUILDING

X-RAY and Electro-Therapeutic Rooms.

for the treatment of Cancer, Eczema, Scalds, Rheumatism, Tuberculosis and Neuritis.

DR. PINDEL,
Specialist, London.

Swiss Cheese

40c per lb.

HARRY RANAHAN,
PHONE 1024.
515 Richmond Street.

Diamonds.

Our stock of Diamond Engagement Rings is certainly tempting. We make it and keep it that way purposely. Whether you wish to pay $10 or $50, we can give you choice things for your money.

W. G. Young,
Diamonds and Watches.
214 Dundas St.

LONDON AND DISTRICT.

—There was no sitting of the high court on Saturday morning.

—The new concrete pavement in the county jail has been completed.

—Mrs. Lemon, sen., of West Lorne, is visiting relatives in London.

—Mrs. Carpenter, of this city, is the guest of Mrs. T. G. McCollum at Blenheim.

—A London man who went to Stratford to buy Victoria Lake ice was not successful.

—Mrs. George Blackburn and son, Willie, of Chatham, are on a visit to London and Toronto.

—Miss Annie Noble, of Brampton, is on an extended visit to London and other western points.

—Mrs. Walter J. Blackburn, of this city, is visiting Mrs. Arthur Harvey, of Rosedale, Toronto.

—Mr. W. Kilpatrick will build a one-story brick veneer cottage on York street, east of Adelaide.

—Mrs. Henry Switzer, of this city, is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. F. B. Holland, of Port Huron.

—Mrs. Alice Smith has returned to her home in Fingert after visiting with her daughter in this city.

—The Grand Lodge of Chosen Friends will assemble here this week. The executive committee meets tonight.

—Miss Margaret Coughlin, of Wallaceburg, is spending a few days in this city, the guest of Mrs. John Dromgole.

—Mr. John M. Parsons, of this city, is on a business trip to St. John, N. B.

—Mr. George Dettler is visiting friends in Nanapanee.

—Mrs. Baker, of this city, who has

Souvenir
Post Cards.

New stock just ready. Views of Dundas street, Queen's avenue, Springbank, St. Peter's, St. Paul's, St. Andrew's, Normal School, Court House and Victoria Park. Three views on each card.

THREE CENTS EACH; TWO FOR FIVE CENTS.

ANDERSON'S
183 Dundas Street.

Mantel Clocks

Best American manufacture. Guaranteed excellent timepieces. Also kitchen, dining-room clocks. We guarantee every clock FIVE YEARS.

C. R. SUMNER,
380 Richmond St. JEWELER.

been visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Eves Wisner, Toronto, returned home on Saturday.

Mr. James Forbes has secured a permit for the erection of a frame stable at the corner of Front and Wellington streets.

—Miss Maud Lusk, of Sarnia, and Mr. Rufus Meadows, of Brantford, are visiting Mrs. Robert Truesdale, No. 172 Bruce street.

—Mrs. William Lonsdale, of Port Huron, is in this city, called here on account of the illness and death of her daughter, Mrs. Guy Andrews.

—About the last of April Mr. S. E. Nelson, chief billing clerk in the freight office of the C. P. R., is to be transferred to be chief clerk in the office of Mr. C. B. Brown, the local resident engineer. Mr. Nelson's successor has not yet been named.

DEATH OF MRS. HUTSON.
Mrs. Mary Hutson passed away on Saturday at the family residence, 208 Hamilton road. The deceased had been ill for some time, and death was not unexpected. Her loss is mourned by her husband and three daughters, Mrs. Robert Hosie, Barrie, Mrs. Wm. Dams, 206 Hamilton road, and Miss Lillie, at home. The funeral, which will be private, will be held Tuesday afternoon.

—Rev. Alfred Moore, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, Detroit, who died at the Harper Hospital Friday, was born in Goderich in 1869. He studied theology at the Western University, and after his ordination in 1893 was rector at Paisley and Listowel, removing to Detroit last September. He is survived by his wife and a son five years of age.

DANIELS' NEW OPERA

The Old-Time Favorite Comedian in "Miss Simplicity."

A Crowded House—Excellent Chorus, But the Libretto is Rather Weak.

Standing room was at a premium at the Grand Saturday night, which goes to show that a great deal is expected of such an actor-singer as Mr. Daniels. Perhaps too much is expected of Frank Daniels, but it must be said that "Miss Simplicity" is hardly up to the standard of this well-known comedian of former years. It has some good music, chiefly chorus work, but as a comedy furnishes it is somewhat lacking. Certainly it is not good enough for Mr. Daniels' means.

It consists of two acts, the plot in which is so scant that it need not be mentioned. However that is a secondary matter. As to the dialogue it is weak. A good deal of the comedy depends upon what "business" and "asides" the comedians can work in. Even in this Mr. Daniels has had to fall back on the devices of making a noise that will frighten someone (in this case an automobile horn), facial contortion and leg-twisting.

As to the music, that is excellent as far as the chorus is concerned, and as a matter of fact, Mr. Daniels' support in principals is very weak, the soprano and contralto voices being of only ordinary merit, while as to the tenor's voices, Mr. Frank Turner, the tenor, is the only one worthy of mention. The latter had one of the best songs, "Roses," a quite catchy air with which there was a pretty drill and chorus. A few of the topical songs were pleasing enough, while the score in general was good. The chorus comprised as good-looking a number of girls as has been seen here in some time. They were well costumed and they could not only sing well, but were better trained in their dancing than any seen here this season. A number of the steps were new, too.

A song in the second act that pleased very much was "Babette," which did not belong to the score. Another outside song, however, that was not excusable was "Don't Forget You're Talking to a Lady." In this place, comedy work was good all through, as far as he had scope. Another pretty thing in the last act was "The Girlie With the Baby Stare." This is reminiscent of a song in Anna Held's opera, "The Duchess." Frank Daniels himself brings one back to "The Wizard of Nile," while the "Chaperones," "Florodora," and "Dolly Varden" have all been copied in some respect or other. But taken all through "Miss Simplicity" doubtless affords an evening's pleasant entertainment.

"THE BELLE OF NEW YORK."
A musical comedy is announced at the Grand on Thursday next, when "The Belle of New York" will play an engagement. This excellent play is a most seasonable offering. The company to appear here is on its sixth annual tour of America, and it has toured England and Australia. It is made up of a combination of the best from both the London and New York companies.

TONIGHT AT THE LONDON.
Tonight Culhane, Chase & Weston's big stock company will make their bow to local theatergoers for the first time at the London, when they will present the sensational comedy-drama entitled "The Lights of Gotham," which has pleased large audiences wherever presented.

A number of people, amongst whom are the St. Felix sisters, song and dance artists, and Will E. Chace, comedian, during the acts interesting specialties will be given, including illustrated songs and pictures. The company carry some excellent scenic effects, which includes Brooklyn bridge and East River pier by moonlight. Seats for the week are now selling.

ATTRACTIVELY STAGED—BEAUTIFULLY COSTUMED.

Rice's "Show Girl" plays a return engagement at the Grand tomorrow night. The Toronto Globe says: "Rice's 'Show Girl' returned to the Princess Theater last night, and was greeted by a large and well-pleased audience. The piece, although it has many musical selections, does not have pretensions even to the modest dignity of a musical comedy, but it contains plenty of obviously tuneful songs, is attractively staged, beautifully costumed and is the vehicle of the production of a species of fun that appeals to the general public."

DEATH OF MR. C. J. WHITNEY
VETERAN THEATRICAL MAN

Passes Away From an Attack of Pneumonia—Was Lessee of Grand Opera House.

The news of the death was a severe shock. The pioneer theatrical manager of Detroit, his loss will be keenly felt in amusement circles, while no less will be the regret in Masonic circles, with which he was closely identified.

Clark J. Whitney was born July 12, 1838, at Avon, Oakland County, Mich. He was the son of William W. Whitney, of New England descent, and Miss Laura Wheeler Pearsall, of Troy, Mich.

It was in 1875 that Mr. Whitney entered the theatrical business, being very ready to take hold of an enterprise. He erected at a cost of $155,000 on the site of old Fort Shelby an elegant theater, which was known as the Whitney Grand Opera House. For ten years this enterprise received his constant personal attention. In 1886 the United States Government chose the location as the site of the new federal building and purchased the property. Unwilling to give up the theatrical business, Mr. Whitney built the Whitney Opera House on Griswold street, between Michigan avenue and State street, now called the Whitney Theater. Later, perceiving the demand for offices in the center of the city he made the building eight stories high, the first of this height to be erected in Michigan. This building cost over $300,000.

Mr. Whitney's theatrical enterprises continued. He became the lessee of the Detroit Opera House and his other theatrical interests were numerous. The Princess Theater in Toronto he controlled alone, with the Detroit Opera House. With E. D. Stair, of Detroit, Mr. Whitney was interested in the Lyceum, the Star and Academy at Buffalo, Burt's and the Lyceum at Toledo, and the New Majestic in Boston.

With A. J. Small, Mr. Whitney leased the Russell at Ottawa, the Grand at Kingston, the Grand at Hamilton, the Grand at London and the Whitney-Small circuit of Canadian theaters.

Whitney, of Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, of Turro, Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Charles P. Larned, of Detroit.

The news of Mr. Whitney's death, the first intimation of which came in the form of a telegram from E. D. Stair to Dr. J. B. Kennedy, an intimate friend of his business and social life, was supplemented by a dispatch from B. C. Whitney to Frank Colling, his confidential man, who received with mingled sorrow and regret by those who had known Mr. Whitney for so many years, and who had been associated with him socially as well as in a business way. On every hand were to be heard expressions of esteem for the one who had gone and sympathy for the bereaved. A resident of Detroit for many years, closely identified with its business and social interests, a man of sterling integrity, affable, courteous in brief, a gentleman, with all that term implies in its true sense—Mr. Whitney was admired and respected by a host of friends and acquaintances, to whom cal business, Mr. Whitney built the Whitney Opera House on Griswold street, between Michigan avenue and State street, now called the Whitney Theater. Later, perceiving the demand for offices in the center of the city he made the building eight stories high, the first of this height to be erected in Michigan. This building cost over $300,000.

Mr. Whitney's theatrical enterprises continued. He became the lessee of the Detroit Opera House and his other theatrical interests were numerous. The Princess Theater in Toronto he controlled alone, with the Detroit Opera House. With E. D. Stair, of Detroit, Mr. Whitney was interested in the Lyceum, the Star and Academy at Buffalo, Burt's and the Lyceum at Toledo, and the New Majestic in Boston.

With A. J. Small, Mr. Whitney leased the Russell at Ottawa, the Grand at Kingston, the Grand at Hamilton, the Grand at London and the Whitney-Small circuit of Canadian theaters.

Whitney, of Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, of Turro, Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Charles P. Larned, of Detroit.

The news of Mr. Whitney's death, the first intimation of which came in the form of a telegram from E. D. Stair to Dr. J. B. Kennedy, an intimate friend of his business and social life, was supplemented by a dispatch from B. C. Whitney to Frank Colling, his confidential man, who received with mingled sorrow and regret by those who had known Mr. Whitney for so many years, and who had been associated with him socially as well as in a business way. On every hand were to be heard expressions of esteem for the one who had gone and sympathy for the bereaved. A resident of Detroit for many years, closely identified with its business and social interests, a man of sterling integrity, affable, courteous in brief, a gentleman, with all that term implies in its true sense—Mr. Whitney was admired and respected by a host of friends and acquaintances, to whom cal business, Mr. Whitney built the Whitney Opera House on Griswold street, between Michigan avenue and State street, now called the Whitney Theater. Later, perceiving the demand for offices in the center of the city he made the building eight stories high, the first of this height to be erected in Michigan. This building cost over $300,000.

Mr. Whitney's theatrical enterprises continued. He became the lessee of the Detroit Opera House and his other theatrical interests were numerous. The Princess Theater in Toronto he controlled alone, with the Detroit Opera House. With E. D. Stair, of Detroit, Mr. Whitney was interested in the Lyceum, the Star and Academy at Buffalo, Burt's and the Lyceum at Toledo, and the New Majestic in Boston.

With A. J. Small, Mr. Whitney leased the Russell at Ottawa, the Grand at Kingston, the Grand at Hamilton, the Grand at London and the Whitney-Small circuit of Canadian theaters.

Whitney, of Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, of Turro, Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Charles P. Larned, of Detroit.

The news of Mr. Whitney's death, the first intimation of which came in the form of a telegram from E. D. Stair to Dr. J. B. Kennedy, an intimate friend of his business and social life, was supplemented by a dispatch from B. C. Whitney to Frank Colling, his confidential man, who received with mingled sorrow and regret by those who had known Mr. Whitney for so many years, and who had been associated with him socially as well as in a business way. On every hand were to be heard expressions of esteem for the one who had gone and sympathy for the bereaved. A resident of Detroit for many years, closely identified with its business and social interests, a man of sterling integrity, affable, courteous in brief, a gentleman, with all that term implies in its true sense—Mr. Whitney was admired and respected by a host of friends and acquaintances, to whom cal business, Mr. Whitney built the Whitney Opera House on Griswold street, between Michigan avenue and State street, now called the Whitney Theater. Later, perceiving the demand for offices in the center of the city he made the building eight stories high, the first of this height to be erected in Michigan. This building cost over $300,000.

Mr. Whitney's theatrical enterprises continued. He became the lessee of the Detroit Opera House and his other theatrical interests were numerous. The Princess Theater in Toronto he controlled alone, with the Detroit Opera House. With E. D. Stair, of Detroit, Mr. Whitney was interested in the Lyceum, the Star and Academy at Buffalo, Burt's and the Lyceum at Toledo, and the New Majestic in Boston.

With A. J. Small, Mr. Whitney leased the Russell at Ottawa, the Grand at Kingston, the Grand at Hamilton, the Grand at London and the Whitney-Small circuit of Canadian theaters.

Whitney, of Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, of Turro, Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Charles P. Larned, of Detroit.

The news of Mr. Whitney's death, the first intimation of which came in the form of a telegram from E. D. Stair to Dr. J. B. Kennedy, an intimate friend of his business and social life, was supplemented by a dispatch from B. C. Whitney to Frank Colling, his confidential man, who received with mingled sorrow and regret by those who had known Mr. Whitney for so many years, and who had been associated with him socially as well as in a business way. On every hand were to be heard expressions of esteem for the one who had gone and sympathy for the bereaved. A resident of Detroit for many years, closely identified with its business and social interests, a man of sterling integrity, affable, courteous in brief, a gentleman, with all that term implies in its true sense—Mr. Whitney was admired and respected by a host of friends and acquaintances, to whom cal business, Mr. Whitney built the Whitney Opera House on Griswold street, between Michigan avenue and State street, now called the Whitney Theater. Later, perceiving the demand for offices in the center of the city he made the building eight stories high, the first of this height to be erected in Michigan. This building cost over $300,000.

Mr. Whitney's theatrical enterprises continued. He became the lessee of the Detroit Opera House and his other theatrical interests were numerous. The Princess Theater in Toronto he controlled alone, with the Detroit Opera House. With E. D. Stair, of Detroit, Mr. Whitney was interested in the Lyceum, the Star and Academy at Buffalo, Burt's and the Lyceum at Toledo, and the New Majestic in Boston.

With A. J. Small, Mr. Whitney leased the Russell at Ottawa, the Grand at Kingston, the Grand at Hamilton, the Grand at London and the Whitney-Small circuit of Canadian theaters.

Whitney, of Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, of Turro, Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Charles P. Larned, of Detroit.

The news of Mr. Whitney's death, the first intimation of which came in the form of a telegram from E. D. Stair to Dr. J. B. Kennedy, an intimate friend of his business and social life, was supplemented by a dispatch from B. C. Whitney to Frank Colling, his confidential man, who received with mingled sorrow and regret by those who had known Mr. Whitney for so many years, and who had been associated with him socially as well as in a business way. On every hand were to be heard expressions of esteem for the one who had gone and sympathy for the bereaved. A resident of Detroit for many years, closely identified with its business and social interests, a man of sterling integrity, affable, courteous in brief, a gentleman, with all that term implies in its true sense—Mr. Whitney was admired and respected by a host of friends and acquaintances, to whom cal business, Mr. Whitney built the Whitney Opera House on Griswold street, between Michigan avenue and State street, now called the Whitney Theater. Later, perceiving the demand for offices in the center of the city he made the building eight stories high, the first of this height to be erected in Michigan. This building cost over $300,000.

Mr. Whitney's theatrical enterprises continued. He became the lessee of the Detroit Opera House and his other theatrical interests were numerous. The Princess Theater in Toronto he controlled alone, with the Detroit Opera House. With E. D. Stair, of Detroit, Mr. Whitney was interested in the Lyceum, the Star and Academy at Buffalo, Burt's and the Lyceum at Toledo, and the New Majestic in Boston.

With A. J. Small, Mr. Whitney leased the Russell at Ottawa, the Grand at Kingston, the Grand at Hamilton, the Grand at London and the Whitney-Small circuit of Canadian theaters.

Whitney, of Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, of Turro, Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Charles P. Larned, of Detroit.

The news of Mr. Whitney's death, the first intimation of which came in the form of a telegram from E. D. Stair to Dr. J. B. Kennedy, an intimate friend of his business and social life, was supplemented by a dispatch from B. C. Whitney to Frank Colling, his confidential man, who received with mingled sorrow and regret by those who had known Mr. Whitney for so many years, and who had been associated with him socially as well as in a business way. On every hand were to be heard expressions of esteem for the one who had gone and sympathy for the bereaved. A resident of Detroit for many years, closely identified with its business and social interests, a man of sterling integrity, affable, courteous in brief, a gentleman, with all that term implies in its true sense—Mr. Whitney was admired and respected by a host of friends and acquaintances, to whom cal business, Mr. Whitney built the Whitney Opera House on Griswold street, between Michigan avenue and State street, now called the Whitney Theater. Later, perceiving the demand for offices in the center of the city he made the building eight stories high, the first of this height to be erected in Michigan. This building cost over $300,000.

Mr. Whitney's theatrical enterprises continued. He became the lessee of the Detroit Opera House and his other theatrical interests were numerous. The Princess Theater in Toronto he controlled alone, with the Detroit Opera House. With E. D. Stair, of Detroit, Mr. Whitney was interested in the Lyceum, the Star and Academy at Buffalo, Burt's and the Lyceum at Toledo, and the New Majestic in Boston.

With A. J. Small, Mr. Whitney leased the Russell at Ottawa, the Grand at Kingston, the Grand at Hamilton, the Grand at London and the Whitney-Small circuit of Canadian theaters.

Whitney, of Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, of Turro, Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Charles P. Larned, of Detroit.

The news of Mr. Whitney's death, the first intimation of which came in the form of a telegram from E. D. Stair to Dr. J. B. Kennedy, an intimate friend of his business and social life, was supplemented by a dispatch from B. C. Whitney to Frank Colling, his confidential man, who received with mingled sorrow and regret by those who had known Mr. Whitney for so many years, and who had been associated with him socially as well as in a business way. On every hand were to be heard expressions of esteem for the one who had gone and sympathy for the bereaved. A resident of Detroit for many years, closely identified with its business and social interests, a man of sterling integrity, affable, courteous in brief, a gentleman, with all that term implies in its true sense—Mr. Whitney was admired and respected by a host of friends and acquaintances, to whom cal business, Mr. Whitney built the Whitney Opera House on Griswold street, between Michigan avenue and State street, now called the Whitney Theater. Later, perceiving the demand for offices in the center of the city he made the building eight stories high, the first of this height to be erected in Michigan. This building cost over $300,000.

Mr. Whitney's theatrical enterprises continued. He became the lessee of the Detroit Opera House and his other theatrical interests were numerous. The Princess Theater in Toronto he controlled alone, with the Detroit Opera House. With E. D. Stair, of Detroit, Mr. Whitney was interested in the Lyceum, the Star and Academy at Buffalo, Burt's and the Lyceum at Toledo, and the New Majestic in Boston.

With A. J. Small, Mr. Whitney leased the Russell at Ottawa, the Grand at Kingston, the Grand at Hamilton, the Grand at London and the Whitney-Small circuit of Canadian theaters.

Our Particular Specialty is Choice Coffee.

The large sale we have for our Coffee in every part of London is the best proof of its excellence. Ground or in the bean.

40c Pound.

T. A. ROWAT & CO.
234 DUNDAS STREET.
Phone 317.