Windsor, Dec. 22.—Art Corbeau, for-mer Toronto and North Bay junior, will be given an opportunity to show his wares at Stratford tomorrow night. This promising youngster will be substituting along with George Walsh.

All the Hornets emerged from the tough tussle on Friday night little the worse for wear, and, with a lengthy rest packed away, the team went through a light drill at the arena today. The invasion of Stratford tomorrow is tough assignment for any team, but locals will journey to the Classic ty full of confidence. Manager Percy Le Sueur is looking for rapid improvement in the team-play of his charges, and if the inclina-tion to individual offensive work is ome, the Hornets will be extreme

Stratford, Dec. 22—Still smarting under the 5 to 2 drubbing administered by the Londoners, the Indians will be in no mood to be trifled with tomorrow night, when they hook up with Windsor Hornets at the local rink.

The game here will give Stratford fans a chance to get a line on the Galt squad. The Indians will journey to Galt on Dec. 28. If they can defeat the Windsorites here, it would indicate that the Indians will have more than an even chance of following this upwith a victory at Galt. Dr. Bill Carson and Louch were the only absentees from yesterday's practice. The balance of the squad, fired with the determination to make the next start a winning one, went about their tack with most content of the squad, fired with the determination to make the next start a winning one, went about their tack with most content of the squad, fired with the determination to make the next start a winning one, went about their tack with most content of the squad in the least states for the Sanata with the determination to make the next start a winning one, went about their tack with most content of the squad in the least of the start of the squad in the least of the same the exponsion of years. The start of the players fashed up the fee three abreast, passing the puck fantomilke until they were right in on top of Dolson in goal. There is a possibility that Frank Kelterborne will be used at center for the game here tomorrow might, according to Manager Brothers. Dr. Bill Carson may be sent to left wing, while Frank Carson will hold down his regular berth at right wing.

There is a possibility also that Jack McCulley will be given a chance to show his worth on the defence. Both these changes are problematical, however, and anything may happen between now and game time.

Few close followers of the game here care to predict the outcome. The Windsor team demonstrated in the game with Galt that it is an aggress at foun that is stronger than mast of the crimos were pregare the season, for Galt has been rou
