

BUY A WORLD EVERY DAY.

MONDAY MORNING, NOV. 29, 1882.

LOCAL NEWS PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. James Tilt of Winnipeg is at the Rosin house.

Dr. Wild will talk about the ladies from his pulpit next week.

Vital statistics for last week:—Births 43; marriages 13; deaths 28.

Wardens Messrs. of the central prison has returned from his eastern tour.

William Davis is suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever.

The weekly outlet of the Canada Pacific railway is said to be $1,000,000 per week.

Curriers held forth in the Adelaide street park on Saturday. It was the first play of the season.

Miss Minnie Hank opens a season of opera at the Grand opera house on Thursday next.

Rev. Dr. McCarrroll of Grace church has been elected county chaplain of the orange order.

All of the express trains on the Grand Trunk railway have been considerably late for some days past.

The "Big Four"—Messrs. Ryan, Doherty, Cassidy and O'Connor. That's what their friends call them.

The concert of the Metropolitan church choir, which was postponed on Thanksgiving day, will take place next Friday.

Mr. C. A. Hirschfelder read an interesting paper on "Anthropological discoveries in Canada," at the Canadian institute last Saturday night.

The eleventh annual concert of the Irish Protestant Benevolent society takes place at Horticultural gardens on Thursday evening next.

Mr. Lawrence J. Cogrove tendered his friends a pleasant reception at his residence on Friday night. Mr. Cogrove will be married at Port Hope on Saturday.

Eleven prisoners were sent to jail yesterday to pass Sunday. The police to a division made seven arrests on Saturday night, all for drunkenness.

Building permits granted: To DeWinton Strath for the erection of a two-story brick store, east side of York street, near Richmond street $1500.

Ald Bell has at last succeeded in having the bond for the construction of the culverts and roadways in Ossington avenue sufficiently fixed. Work will begin at once.

Rev. Marcellus S. Baldwin, D.D., dean of Montreal, will address the students of Wycliffe college this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The friends of the college are cordially invited.

The tug A. G. Nish left the waterworks on Saturday morning for section 34, Welland canal, but was compelled to return when about four miles out on account of a defective boiler.

The mayor has not yet signed the deed of Bell-Works park on behalf of the city owing to a clause being inserted which the council did not agree to. The clause refers to planting trees.

Norton Langstaff was held at the western police station on Saturday night as a material witness in a highway robbery case. He has been wanted by the police for some months.

On Saturday afternoon the third of a series of entertainments under the patronage of University college was given in the shape of a lecture on Music by Mr. Waugh Laidler in Convocation hall.

The Don was frozen over on Saturday night on both sides of the Grand street bridge. Over 100 boys were skating on a large pond on the flats on the side of the river between King and Gerrard streets.

Voting will take place on December 14 on the by-law providing $75,000 worth of debentures for constructing water mains with a view to increased fire protection in different parts of the city. It ought to pass.

It is said there is a Yorkville belle who wears shoes without stockings. The other morning some of her associates enclosed a pair of hose in an envelope and sent them to her. The matter was not taken as a joke, and for a time there were indications of a bloody battle.

The anniversary services of the College street and the Parkdale Presbyterian churches were held yesterday. In the former the services were conducted by Revs. Prof. McLaren and G. M. Hilligan, and in the Parkdale church by Revs. A. Gilray, Prof. McLaren and the Hon. S. H. Blake.

At the Zoo on Saturday a number of well-contested races took place between the pupils of the various public schools. The little ones seemed to enjoy themselves hugely and will receive their prizes some day this week. Anderson's band presented some new features, only $75,000 worth of debentures for constructing water mains with a view to increased fire protection in different parts of the city. It ought to pass.

The anniversary services of the College street and the Parkdale Presbyterian churches were held yesterday. In the former the services were conducted by Revs. Prof. McLaren and G. M. Hilligan, and in the Parkdale church by Revs. A. Gilray, Prof. McLaren and the Hon. S. H. Blake.

At the Zoo on Saturday a number of well-contested races took place between the pupils of the various public schools. The little ones seemed to enjoy themselves hugely and will receive their prizes some day this week. Anderson's band presented some new features, only $75,000 worth of debentures for constructing water mains with a view to increased fire protection in different parts of the city. It ought to pass.

The anniversary services of the College street and the Parkdale Presbyterian churches were held yesterday. In the former the services were conducted by Revs. Prof. McLaren and G. M. Hilligan, and in the Parkdale church by Revs. A. Gilray, Prof. McLaren and the Hon. S. H. Blake.

At the Zoo on Saturday a number of well-contested races took place between the pupils of the various public schools. The little ones seemed to enjoy themselves hugely and will receive their prizes some day this week. Anderson's band presented some new features, only $75,000 worth of debentures for constructing water mains with a view to increased fire protection in different parts of the city. It ought to pass.

The anniversary services of the College street and the Parkdale Presbyterian churches were held yesterday. In the former the services were conducted by Revs. Prof. McLaren and G. M. Hilligan, and in the Parkdale church by Revs. A. Gilray, Prof. McLaren and the Hon. S. H. Blake.

At the Zoo on Saturday a number of well-contested races took place between the pupils of the various public schools. The little ones seemed to enjoy themselves hugely and will receive their prizes some day this week. Anderson's band presented some new features, only $75,000 worth of debentures for constructing water mains with a view to increased fire protection in different parts of the city. It ought to pass.

The anniversary services of the College street and the Parkdale Presbyterian churches were held yesterday. In the former the services were conducted by Revs. Prof. McLaren and G. M. Hilligan, and in the Parkdale church by Revs. A. Gilray, Prof. McLaren and the Hon. S. H. Blake.

At the Zoo on Saturday a number of well-contested races took place between the pupils of the various public schools. The little ones seemed to enjoy themselves hugely and will receive their prizes some day this week. Anderson's band presented some new features, only $75,000 worth of debentures for constructing water mains with a view to increased fire protection in different parts of the city. It ought to pass.

The anniversary services of the College street and the Parkdale Presbyterian churches were held yesterday. In the former the services were conducted by Revs. Prof. McLaren and G. M. Hilligan, and in the Parkdale church by Revs. A. Gilray, Prof. McLaren and the Hon. S. H. Blake.

At the Zoo on Saturday a number of well-contested races took place between the pupils of the various public schools. The little ones seemed to enjoy themselves hugely and will receive their prizes some day this week. Anderson's band presented some new features, only $75,000 worth of debentures for constructing water mains with a view to increased fire protection in different parts of the city. It ought to pass.

THE SUBURBS.

The Gwynne Estate—Parkdale to be Lighted with Gas—Boiling Over the Don.

PARKDALE.—At a meeting of the council last Friday evening, Mr. R. H. G. Greene was heard on behalf of the Gwynne estate with respect to property expropriated for the purpose of connecting Rose avenue with Trout street. The value of the property was decided at $15 per foot, or $900 for the 60 feet, and damages to the Gwynne estate by loss of rent, &c., at $210, making in all a claim of $1200. Against this it was estimated that the Gwynne estate would be benefited to the extent of $300, leaving a balance of $900 due to the estate. On this basis the matter was settled without going to arbitration.

A draft of agreement with the Consumers' Gas company was submitted. It provides that the posts be of the most approved iron patterns, with the new bell-shaped lamps and three feet burners, the lamps to be 230 feet apart, the cost $22.75 per year, including erection, cleaning, lighting, and all repairs. The agreement was approved. In spite of the efforts of the reporter of the Mail to make it appear otherwise, the Gwynne estate generally seems to be well satisfied with the factory by-law as it now stands.

OVER THE DON.—Miss Harriet Sparkes, a young lady of 15 years, died rather suddenly on Friday at her mother's residence Mill road, Riverside. She was buried yesterday at St. James' cemetery, Rev. G. J. Taylor of St. Bartholomew's officiating, being followed to the grave by all the principal residents of Riverside. Miss Sparkes and family have the sympathy of the neighborhood, this being the fourth death in the family in about a year. Capt. Sparkes' son, Thomas Sparkes, drowned near St. Clair dunes, Miss Mand and Miss Harriet Sparkes.

The members of the Lewis street baptist church, Kingston road, had their anniversary service yesterday. The Rev. S. Dyer preached in the morning and Rev. J. Johnston of Jamaica in the evening. Mr. James Monisteph, agent for the Riverside reform party, has protested against the votes of a large number of Riverside conservatives. They will be decided by Judge Boyd at the court of revision at Davisville to-morrow.

UNITED STATES NEWS.

The ground around Montgomery, N. Y., is covered with snow. The Pittsburg oil exchange closed on Saturday at $1.19 a barrel. Transactions 4,748,000 barrels.

The amount of counterfeit money captured by the United States secret service the last year was $8,820,000.

Wm Cunningham, a workman in the rolling mill at Birmingham, Ala, committed suicide by jumping into a furnace full of melted iron.

The Northern Pacific railroad has declared a dividend of 1 1/10 per cent, preferred stock, payable on January 15, five years six per cent obligations.

General James Fessenden, United States registrar in bankruptcy, and son of the late Senator Fessenden, dropped dead in the streets of Portland, Me., Saturday aged 50.

CANADIAN ITEMS.

The Hamilton Y. M. C. A. is defunct. Two new foundations are going up in Hamilton.

The proeller Africa will make her last trip from Owen Sound.

Whitefish fry from Newcastle are being placed in Georgian bay.

A joint stock company is to be formed at Owen Sound to establish a hotel.

Joseph Royal, son of ex-Premier Royal of Manitoba, died in Montreal on Saturday morning.

Many readings and other winter entertainments are being organized all over the province.

Patrick Hughes, who aided Currie in his murderous assault on Mr. Sancier, at Montreal was the last, and he died on Friday.

Collingwood Schreiber will not retire from the service of the government in connection with the intercolonial railway, as has been rumored.

The people along the proposed line are agitating for the construction of a branch of the Credit Valley from Ingersoll to Goderich passing through St. Marys.

The examination of Sir John Macdonald in the Lennox election case will take place at Ottawa, and not at Napanea, as announced in the Toronto papers.

Coal shipments from Nova Scotia and Cape Breton show a decided increase in output and sales. The Spring Hill Co. are now taking out 750 tons per day.

At Ottawa on Saturday in the Supreme court the case of Mayor v. city of Three Rivers was argued for want of jurisdiction. The court sits again to-morrow.

Today at Montreal the 600 priests of that diocese will offer up a thanksgiving to God for spring Archbishop Bourget to celebrate the 60th anniversary of his ordination.

The steamer Kincardine, from Owen Sound to Michaels bay with a 4000 cargo of mill supplies and merchandise, is under the water near Little Current. She is owned by J. M. Jones of Detroit and valued at $7000; fully insured in the Royal Canadian.

It is the intention of the government to open military schools of instruction during the Toronto winter. One of the Toronto firemen was here and in the excitement put his pants on wrong side before and worked hard under the difficulties.

The Troubles at Phillippolis.

PHILIPPOPOLIS, Nov. 18.—The secretary of the Russian embassy at Constantinople has arrived here to investigate the cause of the disagreement between Krebil, acting Russian consul general, and Aleko Pasha, governor-general of the province. The latter, whose term of office is nearly at close, recently offered a strenuous resistance to the high-handed demands of Krebil, and yielded his recall. Krebil visited Aleko yesterday and assured him that he would give him every support. The Czar has presented the Roumanian authorities with some choice cattle for breeding purposes.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Football on the Cricket Grounds—Other Sporting News.

A game of football was played on Saturday at the Collegiate institute juniors and the Pickering college juniors for the junior championship of Ontario on the Toronto cricket grounds and resulted in a victory for the institute by a goal to 0.

The beautiful forward play of the institute team proved too much for their adversaries. Messrs. J. G. Douglas, W. A. Smith, James Craig and D. Sinclair, specially distinguishing themselves among the forwards, while Noxon, Ault and Gibson did good service for Pickering. The following are the names of the teams: Pickering College—Goal, Tilt; backs, Pearson and Glynor; half backs, Hassey and Gibson; forwards, Noxon, Hunter, McCracken, Ellis, Ault, Keach, Colgate Institute—Goal, McLean; backs, Gordon and Shaw; half backs, Smith and Hultner; forwards, Garvin, Irving, J. G. Douglas, Craig, Ewing, Sinclair.

NOTE.—Keene denies that the racer Foxhall is for sale.

George, the English athlete, has consented to run a deciding race with Myers Thanksgiving day.

Col. Bodine, captain of the American rifle team, has tendered his resignation given over to American railroads and the trade to American citizens. It is hardly conceivable, therefore, even were the carrying a position to surrender to the syndicate, that the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

Jealousy Among the Chinese.

Tradition says the Chinese are a very jealous people. When the special class for them, which is held on Sunday afternoon in Shaftesbury hall, was first being formed there was considerable difficulty in getting them to attend, as they refused to do so because a certain other Chinaman was there. This feeling, to a certain extent, gradually wore away, and a class of nineteen assembled regularly for instruction. The majority of them, however, are still very jealous of one of their brethren who, it appears, has been converted to Christianity, and has adopted a civilized dress. Some time ago he prepared the translation of two English hymns into the Chinese language, and three Sundays ago they were sung in the classroom. This led the remainder of the class to feel that the Chinese Sunday only three appeared. Yesterday, however, there was a class of ten, and it is thought that next Sunday all will have returned.

Reported Rich Silver Discoveries.

DELTON, Mich., Nov. 18.—Glowing reports are received of rich discoveries of silver over twelve miles east of Pigeon river on the Canadian side. It is said rich pieces of almost pure native silver have lately been picked from the surface of the vein.

The City of Glasgow Bank.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The City of Glasgow bank failed four years ago and the liquidation has just been accomplished. Every penny of the bank's assets has been paid, and the remaining assets handed over to the company for the benefit of the still solvent shareholders. The liquidators paid off fifty-five million dollars, of which nearly the whole came out of the pockets of shareholders.

Dr. Griffin's Games.

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—Dr. Gustavus Griffin, who was arrested in Montreal, was compelled to resign from the presidency of the Pyc Harvester Manufacturing company. He was advanced nearly $700 for which there is no account. At a meeting of the directors he was asked to resign, but persistently refused to comply with the request. One of the directors threatened him with exposure and he yielded.

Parliamentary Points.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—Letters patent of incorporation have been granted to the International Wrecking and Transportation company.

The Dominion Rail, Transit and Construction company, the National Insurance company, and Rathburn & Sons, Deseronto, have given notice of their intention to apply to parliament for acts of incorporation.

Sunday Law in the U. S.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 18.—All the theatres over the Rhine were open with full companies in regular variety or dramatic performances to-night, for the first time since Smith's Sunday law went into force. No arrests.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 19.—The dockworkers and two of the principal singers of the Norfolk jubilee singers were arrested upon a warrant by the city attorney for violation of the state law and also a city ordinance prohibiting concert.

The managers applied to the city attorney for a license and were refused. The concert was attended by over 2000 people. The indignation of the audience was great. The case will be heard to-morrow.

The Exports for October.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The value of the exports of provisions, tallow and dairy products for October was $4,660,000. October last year $5,920,000. Dairy products for the six months ended October, $9,291,000; same time last year, $18,514,000. The secret service officers arrested 325 persons during the 10 fiscal year, mostly counterfeiters, with 153 convictions. Never until the past year since the inauguration of national paper currency has a year passed without the appearance of some new counterfeit note or the forgery of national bank notes. Not one of such appeared the past year. The chief of the secret service says the counterfeiting of silver dollars and the obligatory silver coin is increasing largely, and the difficulties attending detection are the parties circulating the spurious coins is yearly increasing, owing to the skill of the counterfeiters.

The Railway Monopoly.

From the Monetary Times.

The Pacific Railway company obtained a monopoly of the carrying trade across the frontier, for a term of twenty years. This monopoly grant was extremely objectionable, from the first, and it will continue to be more and more so as time rolls on. Good kempt; but it will be impossible to enforce the exclusion for twenty years. In one form or another, a release from this yoke will have to be obtained; but this must be done with due respect to existing interests. It is wild talk to say that we must repudiate the obnoxious part of the bargain with the railway company. The first and the last thing for the national government to do is to keep its honor unstained. To find some honorable means of escape from a galling restriction is the problem which our public men are called upon to solve; and the sooner they set about the task, the better it will be for the general welfare of Manitoba and the Northwest.

From the Stratford Advocate.

We clip a sensible and convincing view of the Manitoba disaffection question from the Toronto Free Press, and it is worth exactly, and puts the points more clearly and forcibly than perhaps we could have done.

From the Winnipeg Times, Nov. 11.

It will be seen by a special despatch from Toronto that the World of this city believes that the twenty years clause in the syndicate contract might be yielded on the principle of compensation. This is not an Extraordinary Anguish View.

It is easily possible to conceive of the syndicate selling their monopoly for a pecuniary or other consideration. But it is tolerably safe to say that Mr. Stephen and his associates do not entertain the idea of such a proceeding. Their clause was designed to protect the eastern division of the road from Winnipeg to Nipissing; and until that division has been completed and the road completed, the syndicate manifestly cannot negotiate for the surrender of the twenty years clause. They could not say, until the eastern division was built and in running order, how much they would stand to lose by the diversion of the traffic of the prairie section at a point west of Winnipeg.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.

But even supposing that the syndicate were willing to accept a quid pro quo for the monopoly, it is by no means certain that the people of the eastern provinces would countenance the exchange. They understand the construction of the road not to benefit us alone, but to profit by the trade accompanying the development of the Northwest. They have sunk their heads in the sand, and are being bitten by it, politically in uniting the east to the Northwest, and to the Pacific commercially, by buying and selling to us.