THE INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION IN SESSION AT LOUISV ILLE.

Interesting Statistics of the American

Leuisville, Jun' 11. - The International Sunday school convention, now in session in this city, i, without exception, one of the most ir pertant religious gatherings of the year. Almost every section of the southeast one morning, when the captain, American continent is represented in it, and there are a number of delegates from abroad. How many denominations take part has not been definitely ascertained. The chairman of the executive committee puts the number of denominations having seats in the body at fifteen, which is probably near the mark.

Total. use in Sunday schools are translated into no less than twenty-six languages, and are used, wholly or in part, in the Sunday school work of the United States, South America, Canada, Great Britain and her colonies, Germany, France, Switzerland, Sweden, Italy, Spain, Syria, Turkey, India, China, Japan, Persia and Africa. Possibly, indeed, this list is not complete, for so rapidly are the lessons being adopted in foreign lands and so well nigh universal is their sway that it is difficult to tell at any given time just where they are used any given time just where they are used There is a widespread curiosity to know how this international lesson committee does its work. The plan of having uniform lessons was first adopted by a national Sunday school convention held at Indianapolis in 1872. It was vigorously opposed at the time as tending to throw restrictions around the study of the bible, but when the time for decision came only ten persons voted against it. Simultaneously with this action it was resolved that what had up to that time been a national convention should become interna-tional in its scope, and the first in-Dr. J. H. Vincent of the M. Worden, presbyterian; Dr. D. H. McVicar, presbyterian, of Canada, and Dr. John Potts, methodist church of Canada. It will thus be seen that six schools of faith are represented on this committee, the methodists having four, the presbyterians four, the baptists three, and the episcopalians, congregationalists, and pride that the lessons appointed for the year 1886 have given entire satisfaction to the British wesleyan church, and that only a single change has been asked by the Sunday school union of the city of London.

But a better idea can be formed of the immense constituency which is directly or indirectly represented by it. So far as statistics have been obtained, the number of Sunday-schools in the United States is 98,303. The teachers working in these schools number 1,043,718, and the scholars attending them aggregate 7,668,833, making ternational lesson committee was appointed. This committee was instructed to select lessons for seven years, covering the whole bible in that time and iternating from the old to the new tecament, as they might judge best. In 1878 a new committee was appointed, with similar instructions, and as the Sunday school lessons of the last five years and those of the two next to come have been selected by the gentlemen composing this second committee, I give their names and the denominations they represent. It is a thing floating, which I cagein, graphy I saw at once that it was a primitive buoy fashioned out of a huge log of wood, with a rope grommet for a ring—evidently some whale-boat's moorings. I dragged Charlie's head above the log and passed his arm through the ring. He spluttered a good deal, but had sense enough to cling boldly on. Every fresh wave buried us, but to let go would have been madness, for the sea was running parallel with the beach we had striven to gain, and drove right against the sea-wall. I was nearly blinded by the salt foam that dashed over the episcopalians, congregationalists, and lutherans one member each.

Shortly after the inauguration of this plan, the Sunday school union of London expressed a wish to co-operate, and accordingly the lessons selected are forwarded to London before being announced in this country, to see if marded to London before being anmounced in this country, to see if any changes are desired. Still later, the Sunday school union of the British wesleyan church expressed a similar wish, and the selections are now submitted to that body also. I am told that in past years changes have been quite numerous, but the committee announce with special

"We ought to have some more hands,"

The green waves, crested with foam, looked grandly beautiful, as they lifted us high on their breast, bore us swiftly along for a while, and then rolled on ahead, we floundered in the water, carefully avoiding his "agony clutch," which I knew would be death to both. As we rose to the surface my shoulder struck something floating, which I eagerly grasped. I saw at once that it was a primitive buoy fashioned out of a hyre lear of road with stitches to the ring of the buoy.

"Now, Charlie, pass both arms round the rope and haul yourself ashore. I'll follow you," I said, as the men on land tightened the line. Plenty of pluck had Charlie, good, strong arms, too, and though their under nearly the whole of the time, he never let go unti he reached the beach, when he fell insen
