

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Canada/United States Impact Assessment Work Group wishes to acknowledge the assistance of the numerous individuals and agencies involved in the various aspects of this study. The enthusiasm and dedication demonstrated during this second phase of the programme were fundamental to the successful completion of this interim report. These persons included A. Anders (University of Wisconsin), J. Barse (U.S. Department of Agriculture), D. Bjonback (Environment Canada), D. Cowell (Environment Canada), T. Crocker (University of Wyoming), L. Dochinger (U.S. Department of Agriculture), J. Donnan (Ministry of Environment), B. Forster (University of Guelph), N. Foster (Environment Canada), M. Griffith (Ministry of Environment), W. Hart (Environment Canada), W. Heck (North Carolina State University), B. Hosler (Environment Canada), J. Jacobsen (Boyce Thompson Institute), D. Johnson (Oak Ridge National Laboratory), M. Kelly (Oak Ridge National Laboratory), J. Kerekes (Environment Canada), O. Loucks (Institute of Ecology), A. Lucas (Environment Canada), C. Lucyk (Ministry of the Environment), W. McPhee (Purdue University), I. Morrison (Environment Canada), J. Nicholson (Environment Canada), R. Olson (Oak Ridge National Laboratory), R. Paolini (National Health and Welfare), D. Raynal (State University of New York), C. Rubec (Environment Canada), C. Schofield (Cornell University), S. Singh (Agriculture Canada), C. Russel (Resources for the Future), D. Shriner (Oak Ridge National Laboratory), J. Smith (Ministry of Environment) and M. Thompson (Environment Canada), N. Yan (Ministry of the Environment).