

ously, so that Canada may no longer be cursed by dear and scarce money. There is neither dearness nor scarcity, but fulness, even to overflowing, of the good things of this life. Why, oh why, should there be a famine of a mere medium to purchase the good things?

1st January, 1897.

---