Aid. Wickett has presented to the transportation committee a statement he has prepared on Toronto's transportation problems. It was laid before committee yesterday and is to be sent to members, who will be asked to attend when it is discussed next meeting.

who will be asked to attend when it is discussed next meeting.

Some of those who since discussed the report seem to think it is not highly in layor of public ownership.

First surmising that it is no longer advisable to delay drafting a line of policy with a view to both the future and immediate needs of the city, Mr. Wickett continues to outline what he thinks should be done. Some of the points he considers to possible lines of action are:

The immediate purchase of the Toronto suburban system within the city limits.

Completion of negotiations with the Metropolitan, looking to the double tracking of Yonge street and provision for civic control of that line within the city limits, the Metropolitan to have running ights to its present terminus.

As an outcome the establishment of a ivid line from the C. P. R. station via long. St. Clair, Keele and Dundas to be Humber.

'A definite financial policy with regard to civic lines and civic revenue from the Toronto Rahway Co.. In the latter connection, if we continue the present policy of paying for any street railway pavements in toto by 1921, during the last few years of the tranchise, there will be a substantial deficit that will have to be met out of the repeatal taxes."

El Paso Jack's visit to Church Street School made him many friends. Here, also, the children seemed very timid at first, but as they became accustomed to Jack and saw how quiet and gentle he was, they soon became very much attached to him, and it was only with the intention of enough the repeatal taxes."

a trend away from public ownership, says:

"It may be that the new forms of franchise grants and the new safeguards thru administrative tribunals in place of the law courts, which the last decade or so has developed, are persuading many to support private operation who otherized ownership.

"It hink we may assume that the policy of public ownership is settled as far as concerns the outlying parts of the city and that as trustees of the people it is necessary for us to make the civic system in these parts effective in every way, leaving to the city of seven years hence the final decision as to municipal or private operation."

In the last paragraph, which may indicate a trend away from public ownership, and would, therefore, have no use for any further education.

The pupils of this school were very much taken with Jack, who soon made friends with them all. Several of the boys were allowed the privilege of taking a ride on Jack, and in spite of the fact that they were all novices at the riding game, they had no difficulty in staying on. At dinner time, Jack was waiting outside the Elizabeth Street (Hester How) School, and the shouts with which he was greeted as the children poured from the building, on their way home to dinner, were deafening. The children quickly gathered round better ask them about it. Full information with regard to El Paso can be obtained at The World office. 40 Richmond street west.
