

"Jones" the Spy.

Testimony of the Informer in the Ivory Case.

He Details His Connection With Irish Societies and Agitators.

His Testimony Creates a Sensation—Ivory Committed for Trial as a Dynamiter.

London, Nov. 14.—Edward J. Ivory, the alleged dynamiter, committed for trial yesterday by the Bow street magistrate.

"Jones," mention of the Chicago convention of 1895 in the course of his evidence yesterday, refers to the "new movement convention," which was attended by a number of confidants of Lyman, who, during convention time, it was stated in court, held secret meetings with them.

CREATING A SENSATION.
The afternoon newspapers of this city make great spreads of the evidence furnished by "Jones," and have "scare heads" reading "Le Caron du Second," "Secrets of the Clan-na-Gael," "Startling Disclosures of an Irish Spy," etc. When "Jones" first appeared on the witness stand, Mr. Gill asked the presiding magistrate to stop all sketching in court, explaining that it was of the utmost importance that nothing should be allowed to transpire to identify the witness in the future. Mr. Carter was present in court as the representative of the United States embassy, in order to watch the proceedings in behalf of the United States officials here.

THE SPY'S APPEARANCE.
"Jones" is of pale complexion, and has a furtive, shifty look. He is a small, insignificant looking man, about 5 feet 2 inches high, with a brown beard, mustache and hair a shade darker. He has a bulging forehead and black eyes. He was very nervous while in court, and was constantly rubbing his head. He was dressed in a dark suit of clothes and a white shirt, and spoke with a pronounced brogue. He delivered his testimony as though in fear of his life, and was so scared at the sound of his own voice.

"JONES" IN CHICAGO.
Continuing his account of the visit to Chicago, "Jones" said he arrived there on Sept. 22 of last year, and was met at the railroad station by St. John Gaffney. He stayed at McCoy's Hotel, where the committee of the secret organization met. Ivory, "Jones" also attended the meetings, at which the names were chosen to be submitted to the public convention as officers of the "new movement," the object being that an open movement might be controlled, as it is, according to "Jones," by a secret organization. In another portion of his testimony, "Jones" said that he saw Ivory in Sydney's saloon, New York, which the further stated, was largely frequented by members of the organization, two or three weeks before Ivory left America. He then produced a document purporting to give the constitution of the society up to 1895, and also two copies of the constitution and ritual of the Clan-na-Gael.

"A SOLDIER OF IRELAND."
Continuing, "Jones" said that anyone convicted of a dynamite outrage was described in the proceedings of the organization as a "Soldier of Ireland." The witness afterwards produced a mass of documents giving "camp" instructions, passwords, signs, etc. At the close of the proceedings Ivory was formally committed for trial.

OBJECTS TO NEWSPAPER "LIKE-NESS."

"Jones" caused a sensation during the court proceedings today by suddenly addressing the magistrate and saying: "A reporter is taking a sketch of me. I fear for my safety." The magistrate, Mr. Vaughan, then ordered the reporter to desist, but a prison attendant soon afterwards said to the magistrate: "A reporter is writing a description of Jones." The magistrate thereupon sternly remarked: "I will not allow either a written description of the witness to be made."

Chief Inspector Melville, of Scotland Yard, took an active part in supporting the taking of descriptions of "Jones." After the close of the proceedings a jailer remarked to a representative of the press: "Jones" is a dead man. I am glad I am not in his shoes."

NOT HIS NAME.

The name "Jones" given as that of the Government spy is not his right name, that having been withheld by the prosecution. When the witness was called to the stand, Prosecutor Gill said that the Government, for obvious reasons, declined to disclose the man's name, whereupon the magistrate, Sir John Bridge, said: "Call him Jones." The witness was sharply cross-examined by counsel for the defense, but his direct testimony was not materially altered.

NOTHING TO SAY.

When the examination of witnesses was finished, Sir John Bridge addressed the prisoner, saying: "You are charged with having conspired unlawfully and maliciously with Tynan and others to cause explosions in the United Kingdom, endangering life and property, and you are also charged with feloniously aiding and abetting that crime. Have you anything to say?" Many persons in the court room believed that Ivory would take advantage of this opportunity to make a sensation speech, but instead of doing so, he merely replied, "No, your worship." John Bridge then committed him for trial.

New York, Nov. 14.—The story of the Irish spy, as told in yesterday's dispatches, created a sensation in the Irish circles here. At the headquarters of many of the societies Irishmen gathered in the evening to discuss the new informer, which they did in no calm language. He was roundly denounced, some of the more excitable intimating that the career of the latest English tool would be a short one. From a cabbed description of the spy, he was easily recognized here by former associates. That may or may not be his real name, but Irishmen here declare they never had any reason to suspect that the fellow was masquerading.

A Murder Mystery

That Excites Great Interest in Winnipeg.

Accusation of Robert Morran, Who Was Charged With the Crime.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 14.—The trial of Robert Morran, aged 19, for the murder of Hannah Hatton, near the town of Holland, on the night of March 30, was in progress an entire week and the time did the public lose interest in it.

A whole host of witnesses were called by the crown and defense. Evidence against the boy prisoner was entirely circumstantial.

Robert Morran, the accused, was a friend of Hannah Hatton, associated with her, visited her, and lived in the same house with her, while in the employ of her uncle, Richard Agar. According to the medical testimony produced, Hannah Hatton was in a delicate condition when murdered. After the murder the police authorities succeeded in extracting from Robert Morran copies of two letters that passed between him and Hannah Hatton. He wrote them from memory and without hesitation. The substance of the letters was to the effect that Hannah wished to see him at once, and he answered her, making an appointment. Hannah was at Morran's house till 9 o'clock on the night she was murdered. She went out at the front door, Robert by the back door. That was the evidence offered by the crown showed that there were blood stains on the overall and shirt sleeves of Robert, but the defense rebuttal argued this was due to his having bled a horse a few days before.

The murdered woman was found stretched a few feet from the road on the morning of March 31. There were no signs of struggle visible. She was stunned by a blow, and while unconscious her throat had been cut. The theory of the crown was that she was murdered by her seducer.

The defense undertook to prove an alibi for the prisoner. One witness swore that Robert had returned home the night of March 30 at 9:30 o'clock. This, of course, would render it impossible for him to commit the murder.

Morran was acquitted, and the mystery of the murder remains unsolved.

MUST HAVE POLITICS.

Conservatives Refuse to Argue Municipal Affairs on Municipal Issues.

Brookville, Ont., Nov. 14.—The second attempt to eliminate politics from the management of municipal affairs in Brookville seems to have failed through the Conservatives declining to enter on such an arrangement, owing, no doubt, to the Tupper-Whitney programme, a part of which is to get control of the municipal councils in Ontario on account of the approaching Provincial elections. Last year considerable progress was made toward putting a People's ticket in the field, but, owing to the Conservative party having a ticket already in the field, the scheme was abandoned, with a promise to revive it in time this year.

In accordance with this promise, Chairman Hutchinson called the meeting for last night. It was fairly attended, the great majority being Liberals. It looked for a time as if parties would have to go, and addresses along this line were made by Mr. M. C. D. W. Draney, Mr. W. B. Thompson, and other leading Liberals, and by Robert Bowie and H. A. Stewart, Conservative speakers.

The secretary of the County Association, he thought it impossible to keep politics out of municipal affairs, and declined to act on any party line. Mr. Bowie, though in favor of the scheme, also declined to act on a party line, and said that it was evident to him that the Conservative party was not in favor of eliminating politics from the town's government, which he thought the Liberals were.

Mr. Hutchinson, who is also a Conservative, expressed deep regret that his party should take such a position, and said he would call no more meetings of the suggested compromise being effected. The meeting broke up without anything being done, and the Conservatives will either have the council by acclamation for 1897 or the old party fight will be renewed.

TWINS, TRIPLETS, QUADRUPLETS.

John Newport's Family Increased in a Regular Ratio.

Sodus Point, N. Y., Nov. 14.—In a colored colony near here lives John Newport and his wife and an interesting family of picanettes. The Newport family were formerly slaves in the peninsula of Virginia, and came here in 1856.

They were married in 1878, and six years later Mrs. Newport presented her husband with twins, which were named Robert E. Lee and George Washington. In 1890 triplets were born. They were christened James A. Garfield, Chester A. Arthur and Ulysses S. Grant.

Two weeks ago there was another birth, this time of four little Newport. In 1892 the father became a Democrat, but Mrs. Newport remains a Republican. So when it came to naming the new arrivals, Bryan's three names were utilized, coupled with his opponent's surname as son to the wife and mother. Mother and children are progressing finely.

Newport is a boatman, and is well known to the summer visitors to Greatodus Bay.

The Business Boom.

Decided Improvement All Along the Line.

Nearly 200 Mills and Factories Started Up This Week.

The Setback Noticeable on Both Sides of the Border.

New York, Nov. 14.—Bradstreet's weekly review says: "The volume of business improves slowly but steadily all along the line. The most active demand is among jobbers in dry goods, clothing, millinery, shoe leather and hardware and in leading industrial lines, nearly 200 mills, factories and foundries having started up this week, one-half of them in new establishments. The volume of work in these lines has increased working forces or working hours or both—among them nineteen iron and steel establishments, ten glass works, and four factories, each making lamps, clocks, wooden goods and cotton goods. The total gain in the week ending Nov. 6, shows an aggregate of nearly 20,000 men and women throughout central western and southern States are easier, but complaints of unemployment are still heard. Bank clearings leaped up 20 per cent this week compared with a week ago, the total gain being $1,449,580, contrasted with the average weekly total in four preceding weeks, the gain is 10 per cent. When compared with the corresponding week last year the increase is only 15 per cent, but contrasted with the second week of November, 1894, and the like week of 1893, the increase is 17 per cent in each instance.

Reflecting anti-election conditions, make the poorest showing of any month for several years. This October total of 121 railroads, showing a decrease of 4.3 per cent from a year ago. For ten months the total of 116 roads aggregate $389,255,100—a gain over ten months in 1895 of 3.3 per cent, when the gain was 4.7 per cent.

There have been 258 business failures reported this week—35 more than last week, but fewer than in the corresponding week one year ago.

Exports of wheat, flour included as wheat, from both coasts of the United States, and from Montreal, amount to 4,664,615 bushels this week, a gain of 1.6 per cent since the second week of September, 1895. This is an increase of 1,200,000 bushels over the week ending Sept. 1, 1895, and 1,300,000 bushels over the corresponding week one year ago, more than 1,700,000 bushels as compared with the week ending Sept. 1, 1894, and 2,000,000 bushels as compared with the corresponding week of 1893, and contrasted with the like week in 1892.

R. G. LUN & CO.'S REVIEW.
No change in the market for winter day is dawned, and it is the common remark that never before has the winter day dawned so late. The market for the better within a single week. Dispatches telling of about 500 establishments which have opened, or have materially enlarged their force, though they fill many columns, give only part of the fact; that throughout the country the gain has been surprising, even to the most hopeful. It is not mere speculation, however, that the winter day has dawned so late, and starts the wheels, for orders which have been accumulating for months, with the coming of the winter, dealers' stocks now greatly reduced, would employ the whole producing force of the country. The number of hands at work means increase in purchases for consumption.

The price of wheat advanced to 88 cents for six weeks for one week, 10 cents for two weeks, and 24 cents since September. The price is the highest since 1892. Atlantic exports, in spite of scanty freight room, were for two weeks 2,717,231 bushels, an increase of 10 per cent over last year, and Pacific shipments are also heavy to India, South Africa and Australia.

After purchases of 46,000,000 pounds of wool in five weeks the transactions fell to 10,000,000 pounds last week, but prices were strong, and in some grades 1 cent higher. Foreign markets are higher and Australian fully 1 cent per pound. There is slightly better demand for light-weight men's goods and for dress goods, but not enough as yet to start most of the waiting mills. The market for cotton goods is not yet active.

The output of iron furnaces in blast Nov. 1 was 124,077 tons weekly, having increased 11,235 tons, or 10 per cent, in the latter part of October by 100,000 tons, has raised the price to 11 1/2 cents.

The Chicago hide market lifted 1/2 cent per pound in a single week. Leather has risen 1 1/2 per cent, and quotations of boots and shoes have been raised an average of 4.3 per cent, checking the market.

IN CANADA.

Wholesale merchants at Toronto report trade improving among grocery and hardware lines. There is also an improvement at Montreal, where the trade feature continues to be heavy exports of apples, cheese and butter. Lumber shipments from New Brunswick have fallen off, but an early increase is expected. Rains have prevented farm work on Prince Edward Island. There is no change in trade throughout Nova Scotia.

Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Montreal, Toronto and Halifax amount to $26,006,000 this week, an increase of about $1,800,000 as compared with last week and $200,000 as compared with the like week last year. There are 44 business failures reported for the Dominion of Canada this week, as compared with 50 last week, 45 in the week one year ago, and 32 two years ago.

MUST BE DISSOLVED.

Kidney Disease Can Only Be Cured by a Remedy Which Is a Liquid Form of Common Sense of Science.

For a disordered stomach or sick headache, pills and powders are not without effect, but when these same remedies are said to cure kidney disease the common sense of science rebels. Kidney disease is a growing disease and will not be driven from the system unless a medicine is given that will dissolve the hard substance that has accumulated and lime—that give rise to the distress and pain that is common to all who suffer from kidney disease. South American Kidney Cure is a kidney specific. It dissolves these hard substances and restores the system to health. The cures effected leave no question of its powers.

Canada's New Senators.

Strong Testimony to the Wisdom of the Selections Made.

The Need for the Reform of the Chamber Ably Stated.

From the Montreal Herald.

The elevation of Messrs. David Mills and George A. Cox to the Senate will carry weight to the councils of that body.

Mr. Mills, who is deeply learned in all constitutional law, is especially well versed in the laws upon which the Confederation of the Canadian Provinces is based. By temperament and attainments he is eminently fitted to assume a commanding position in the re-organization of the Upper Chamber to which the Liberal party is pledged. In respect of his sterling character and his splendid abilities, he is one of the most warmly esteemed of Canadian public men.

From the Montreal Witness.
The Ottawa Government has filled the vacancies in the Dominion Senate caused by the deaths of Sir David Macpherson, Sir John Ferguson, of Welland, and the appointments of the Hon. David Mills and Mr. George A. Cox. Mr. Cox is a well-known business man of Ontario, an able, shrewd financier, who has been steadily rising during the last twenty-five or thirty years. During the last Dominion election campaign Mr. Cox was one of the trusted advisers and leaders of the Liberal party, and contributed valuable counsel during the period in which Mr. Laurier was considered the probable victor. His abilities should prove of value to the country and to the party of which he is a member in the new Senate.

Mr. Mills was formerly a member of the Senate, and his elevation to the Senate is in favor of the reform of the Senate. The Senate should be reformed, and the Laurier Government of every man appointed to it. Sir Oliver Mowat publicly declared that in accepting office in the Laurier Government and entering the Senate, he hoped to be able to do something for the reforms so urgently needed.

The appointment of Mr. David Mills to the Senate will assure to Sir Oliver at least one able and earnest advocate of radical reform. Last week, but few, than in the past, were in the Senate as it is now constituted. He is thoroughly, even profoundly, acquainted with the constitution of the Dominion, and he understands as few do the extraordinarily dominant position this body has been inadvertently given.

Neither the House of Lords nor the United States Senate has as unassailable a position as the Canadian Senate. The House of Lords can be swamped by a new creation of peers or by a change of party, and the Senate is altered every two years by State Legislative elections. There are provisions by which the House of Representatives can cut its legislation in spite of the ordinary opposition of the Senate. The Canadian Senate alone is a body whose members cannot be augmented freely and whose composition is not open to elective changes.

Its members can veto all legislation coming up from the Commons, no matter how important, and they can, public and nothing can be done to compel their compliance. They are a body that has constituted an absolute power to hold up all legislation if it pleases. Only an act of the Imperial Parliament can alter their position without their consent. No legislative body, however highly composed, can safely intrusted in such a position with such power.

The Sternaman Case.

Mother of Defendant's First Husband Gives Testimony.

A Point Favoring the Defense—Proceedings Adjourned Till Tuesday.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 14.—In the Sternaman case, which was tried yesterday, Lawyer Thomas, in his cross-examination of Dr. Salsman, said: "Having stated as Mrs. Eliza Chipman, mother of the defendant's first husband, to appear in court, Mrs. Chipman had been ill for several days, and it is thought that it would be necessary to go to her home to take the testimony. She told a straight forward story about Mrs. Sternaman from the time she married her son up to the time of her arrest on the present charge. Her statements corroborated the testimony of the defendant. The most important part of her evidence was that she saw Mrs. Sternaman give to her counsel the statement beginning, 'To whom it may concern,' written by Sternaman. When asked by Mr. Thomas where her husband was, the kindly-looking old lady bowed her head, trembled, and for a few moments wept. It afterwards developed that she and her husband have been separated for some time, and the disclosure of the fact caused every woman in the court room, except the defendant, to weep.

Mrs. Chipman had scarcely left the court room before her husband, John S. Chipman, of No. 64 Front avenue, was called. He is an elderly man of medium height, with long white hair and whiskers. His testimony was but a repetition of that given by the defendant. While he was telling of the defendant, he told a straight forward story about Mrs. Sternaman from the time she married her son up to the time of her arrest on the present charge. Her statements corroborated the testimony of the defendant. The most important part of her evidence was that she saw Mrs. Sternaman give to her counsel the statement beginning, 'To whom it may concern,' written by Sternaman. When asked by Mr. Thomas where her husband was, the kindly-looking old lady bowed her head, trembled, and for a few moments wept. It afterwards developed that she and her husband have been separated for some time, and the disclosure of the fact caused every woman in the court room, except the defendant, to weep.

Mrs. Sternaman's son-in-law, George B. Sternaman, of No. 114 Front avenue, was called. He corroborated the testimony of Mrs. Sternaman's description of the peculiar paroxysms Sternaman often had before her marriage.

Mr. Thayer asked the court to adjourn the hearing for a day or two in order that he might go to Canada to verify certain statements made by Undertaker Snyder, who, in his affidavit, claims that he did not enter Mrs. Sternaman's body. Mr. Thomas objected to any further time being given, but the court ruled that Mrs. Sternaman, being accused of murder, could have time to collect evidence which might be of benefit to her, and adjourned the court till next Tuesday at 2 p.m.

As a result of Dr. Salsman's evidence a great deal depends on whether or not the body was embalmed. Mr. Thayer returns from Canada with depositions contradictory to the affidavit of John Snyder, the undertaker, it will be a great point for the defense.

PREPARING FOR THE RECTOR'S VISIT.

Mrs. Johnson—Now, Johnny, when the rector comes to call this afternoon he will ask you your name, and you must say "John Johnson, sir." And when he asks how old you are you must say, "Five years, sir." Then when he asks if you know what will happen to you if you are not a good boy, you must say, "I'll go to the bad place, sir." Now, don't forget, Johnny.

Mr. Ritual (who calls an hour later).
You seem a very charming little lad, my boy! Can you tell me what your name is?

The Charming Little Boy—John Johnson, sir. Five years old, sir, go to the bad place, sir!"
