VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

DR, MOULTON AND JOB. the Editor of the Advertise Although we are all deeply indebted Dr. Moulton for his splendid exposi-on and characterization of the leading figures and currents of thought in the book of Job, delivered in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday evening last, yet the critical student of the Old Testament literature could regard it nerely as a popular exposition suited o a popular audience, and in which he arefully avoided the many difficulties of the book and assumed throughou what it would be impossible for him to maintain, viz, the essential unity of this contribution to the wisdom literature. The only concession he seemed to make to the course and spirit of At a meeting of the civic committee modern criticism was his frank admission that the book is a dramatic poem that modern Biblical criticism comes in with a more convincing reason for the apparent neglect of Elihu, especially in the epilogue, where he ought to be mentioned.

Learned critics, such as Davidson, Cheyne, Driver, Ewald and many others, regard the book of Job as in no sense a unity, but a growth, composite in character and representing stages of thought that differ in point of time. Thus they would limit the original work to the colloquies between Job and his friends, excluding the prologue and epilogue, the speeches

"We have at least drawn from the utilities commission a statement that more power can be developed at Spring-bank," said the controller. "That is some progress, I take it. That should have been done before, and saved the clitzens a lot of money. The commission apparently needs considerable produling. Probably after some consideration, they will come to the conclusion that an auxiliary plant at the incinerator is a good thing. I am convinced that it would be, and have no information to the contrary. Let us go into it, and see if we can make something out of it."

The first said he felt an attack of the grippe coming on and being a firm believer in the old saying, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," procured several ounces of the "cure" on a doctor's prescription.

The one bottle failing to prove efficacious, he got a second prescription. After several large-sized doses from the second bottle he forgot all his troubles, and decided to celebrate his escape from the attack of la grippe by going out upon the King's highway and announcing the fact in song.

A patrolman who happened along gathered him in and brought him to the police station.

"Ten dollars and costs or one month in jail," said the magistrate.

The atter and had assaulted the military police when they attempted to arrest him.

"We would like to be lenient, but surely soldiers cannot expect to be allowed to conduct themselves as you have," said Magistrate Macklin in imposing the fine.

"Well, you will have the chance of feeding me down at the county jail for 21 days. I wouldn't pay the fine if it was only 10 cents," said the soldier boy as he sat down.
