Mr. Mitchell introduced Sir Thomas White who rose to speak amid pro-longed applause. Sir Thomas explained applause. Sir Thomas explained the purposes, objects and significance of the Victory Loan. He amplified the points brought out by the motion picture story. The purposes of the loan were many, he said lie said it was the noblest effort to which money could be applied. It which money could be applied. It would enable the men on the battle line to flight victoriously. Three hundred and fifty thousand men had been sont overseas, the flower of the youth of Canada. They were fighting nearly 3000 miles from home, and therefore Canada's effort had been tremendous.

Sir Thomas told of the heroism of the Canadians, and said that they must be sustained to protect not only Canada but civilization itself.

Great Financial Effort.

"Behind the gun is the man, but behind the man is the dollar," said the minister of finance. "Canada has been able financially to back her men at the front".

The money had to be raised either by taxation or by loans, he explained. in order that Canada might carry on in the war.

The second purpose was in order that Canada might put forth a greater military effort than ever. "Canada is going to continue in this war. Canada is going to increase her military effort in this war," he said, amid great applause. An Imperial Credit. Another purpose of great conse-uence to Canadians was the estabent in Canada of credits by the imperial government by which it could purchase supplies here. Sir Thomas enlarged on this point by giving details as to how such financing was done and the manner in which exchange operated. making prosperity from coast to coast. Sir Thomas mentioned how England was a market for Canadian products. He mentioned munitions, cheese and other things, but when he mentioned

"bacon," everybody laughed.

Continuing Sir Thomas said the question was, "How will the British Government establish credits whereby

United States became the banker of fairly well in production, but they're dollar credits in this country." The I want the people of Canada to buy Dominion war bonds and save more than ever before. We must get down to a war basis in a way that we have not done to date. That means sacri-You've got the best security that can be offered and more interest than should be given."

In conclusion he touched briefly upon the Victory Loan organization, and said: "When we start on this on Monday I'll be surprised if we don't make a side show of the Dominion election." (Laughter!)

Becoming serious again, Sir Thomas spoke optimistically of the military situation, urging his audience not to be too easily discouraged, and placing great faith in the Anglo-Saxons at the front and the resources of Great Britain and the United States. "I have no doubt as to the ultimate outcome of this war," he said.
