

throughout. The church also has been whitewashed and painted. The young ladies have raised a subscription to purchase a curtain for the chancel window, and the whole of the work that has been done will cost about £40.

The church at the Barrens has also been made comfortable for Public Worship; a double floor having been laid, a new stove purchased, and the interior lathed and plastered. Two doors have been made, and all the windows cased. The timber for the spire is also ready, but the want of funds will hinder its immediate erection. The Missionary further states that he has been endeavoring to have a lecture in different parts of his mission during the week, and though he finds that it is not an easy matter to induce persons in country places to meet during the week, he is by no means discouraged, and hopes to be able to keep up a lecture of this kind, at least during the winter months. There is a Sunday school both at Cherry Valley and the Barrens, and in both places the Missionary has assisted as often as his other duties permitted.
