DIES SUDDENLY IN HOTEL DUNLOP HERE

Charles A. LeBlanc, Quebec Traveler, Stricken in Writing Room.

Charles A. LeBlanc of Quebec, a commercial traveler well-known to Saint John and the Maritime Provincial trade, died sudenly as he sat in the writing room of the Hotel Dunlop about the noon hour today. Dr. J. M. Barry pronounced death due to a bursting blood vessel in the brain.

Mr. LeBlanc leaves his wife and other relatives. He was in the vicinity of 55 years of age and had been traveling in this territory for more than 30 years and was well and favorably known. He was of aimiable personality and as late as this forenoon was chatting with other patrons of the hotel in a cheery manner. He had said that he had not been well of late and that his wife did her best to dissuade him from taking this last trip. His chief ailment was hardening of the arteries.

Mr. LeBlanc was of late traveling on his own enterprise as a manufacturer's agent. His lines were furniture, jewelry and shoes. News of his death was sent to his wife and reply is awaited.

Fish Demand Good On National Day

A fairly good demand for fish was reported by local dealers for today, which has been set aside as National Fish Day for Canada. "Fish are not as plentiful today," said one prominent dealer, "as they might be owing to the recent heavy gale that swept these coasts. It seems a coincidence that for the last few years national fish day has been preceded by a heavy blow that has interfered with a good catch."

CLOCKS

Persons furnishing houses are invited to look at our stock of Ornamental CLOCKS, including a few of the celebrated "Seth Thomas" make.

R. R. PAGE, 50 King St.

That advertisement of 1861 might just as well be printed today by the Senior Jewelers, carried on by the son, Henry C. Page, under the later firm name of Ferguson & Page.

Now, as then, "Seth Thomas" Clocks are featured. Now, as then, the firm that survives is the firm holding strictly to qualities that stand the test of time.

That has been the strongest note in Page policy—lasting quality—for close on 70 years. The ripe experience and judgment of the Senior Jewelers is your safeguard in selecting Gifts you'd like to last. The public knowledge of this fact has made its patronage keep on growing year after year, resulting in the largest Gift choice in the Maritime Provinces.
