ST. GEORGE MAN'S SUCCESS

Edmund Billings Rises From Telegraph Boy to Trust Company President

Edmund Billings was elected president of the Paul Revere Trust Company yesterday.

He severed his connection with the firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., to take charge of this banking institution. Mr. Billings is one of the best known men in the public life of this city. From telegraph boy to bank president summarizes his career.

For years he has been at the head of the Wells Memorial Institute and the People's Institute. He has also been a leader of reform in the municipality. The executive ability of Mr. Billings is so well recognized that he was chosen by Governor Draper as the representative of the State in Italy at the time of the great disaster and also as secretary of the Chelsea relief committee.

Although it is not generally known, Mr. Billings was decorated by the King of Italy for his services at the time of the earthquake, and the first boulevard built after the disaster was named in his honor, Via Billings.

Mr. Billings is an example of a self-made man. He was born in the town of St. George, New Brunswick, Jan. 11, 1868. He came to Boston at the age of five and received a rudimentary education in the Brimmer Grammar School.

He left school to become a telegraph messenger. At the age of 20 years he was appointed as director of the Wells Memorial Institute and from that time his rise has been rapid.

THIRTY-FIVE DAYS FROM

BANGOR TO NEW YORK

(Bangor Commercial).

The schooner Isotta, which hails from this city, has arrived in New York, after having been out since Dec. 11, taking 35 days to make a trip of several hundred miles between this city and New York. It was an eventful voyage and a pretty near the record for time. The Isotta was built in Dreyer in 1885, and nearly half a century of being towed about by the electric cable hasn't added anything to her sailing abilities.

The New York Telegram tells the story of her trip as follows:

When the American schooner Isotta dropped anchor in the harbor today, Capt.

Kemp, her commander, heaved a sigh of relief and contentedly surveyed the shore in anticipation of the early discharge of a much-labeled lumber cargo. The Isotta can safely claim the title of being the slowest sailing vessel hereabouts, for she broke all records for long voyages—in point of time, distance—and her arrival here two days after her departure from Bangor,

Maine, was a pleasant surprise to Capt.

Kemp, the Isotta's crew and her owners.

The Isotta left Bangor on Dec. 11. Under all ordinary conditions she should have sailed down the coast to Manhattan in about a week or ten days at the most.

Instead, she was three weeks getting into Boston harbor, and had to be towed into port by the tugboat Orient, leading and partly dismantled, owing to a jamming she received in an ice floe in the Penobscot river just after leaving the Maine port. She was the last vessel to sail through the Penobscot before that waterway was closed to navigation by the ice.

A leak was discovered three days out from Bangor. The pumps were pretty well tired out when, after nearly three weeks of manoeuvring and almost constant leakage, the Isotta was finally gladly took a hauler from the wheezing little tugboat for a pull into Boston.

Temporary repairs were made and then the old Isotta resumed her fabled progress to New York after a rest of nearly three weeks. The trail along the New England coast to this port was as tedious as that between the Isotta and the captain. Kemp finally succeeded in making port and decided to wait for a tow to a pier in Brooklyn.

The Isotta is nearly 50 years old—66 years to be exact—for she was built at Bangor, Me., in 1845, and has been working steadily since her launching. Never a very fast sailor, the old schooner did not improve with age, although she was freed from accidents and generally maintained a steady—although not rapid—pace.

The Isotta's Captain Kemp there are five men in the crew of the Isotta, which total the Isotta's crew of five men, and the Isotta's crew of five men, and the
