In our issue yesterday we copied the following from the Charlottetown Examin-

"Mr. Henry Clark, manager of the Dunk River Salmon Hatchery, has been engaged the past few days in transferring the young salmon hatched at that establishment to the various rivers. The fishery officers in charge state that the Hatchery has been a great success. Half a million of fine healthy fry have been already let loose in the Dunk River, and 100,000 in Trout River, Lot 10. Mr. Clark successfully placed 40,000 in the Morell, yesterday, and was in town to-day, accompanied by the Inspector of Fisheries, on their way with a further consignment to another part of the Morell River."

What They are Doing.

We are told that four locomotives have arrived at Moncton from an American locomotive building firm. Our informant, who says he saw the machines, is a reliable man, and is positive that he is not mistaken. But we assume that he must be. This Government, which seeks to build up a National Policy, which has been discharging men daily because there is nothing for them to do, whose supporters made so uch political capital out of the purchase by Brydges of a few turn tables in the United States, would not, surely, buy comotives from the Americans. It was Sir Leonard Tilley whose patriotic soul swelled with emotion because we were hewers of wood and drawers of water for other people, whose sympathetic tear was ready to flow at the lack of business in St. United States, he would resign at once. There must be some mistake. Perhaps the locomotives were merely borrowed to meet a temporary want.

He believed that notwithstanding the enormous decline in the discounts, they would have to go still lower. As to the New York business of the bank, most of the money was on call upon good security, or on very short dates, and the proof of that was that when he went to New York a short time ago, he called in nearly four millions of it to show the authorities how the law would work.
