Some Canadian Political Topics

Chatham World on True Liberalism—Toronto View of Laurier's Navy — Government and Tariff Board — Provincial Bonds.

True Liberalism! (Chatham World)
Progressive Liberalism in New Brunswick can find little fault with the policy enunciated by United Farmers at the Woodstock meeting. The public ownership of railways, of postal and water navigation and of mines, if not the policy of the party leaders, is undoubtedly the policy of True Liberalism.—St. John Globe.

Every reader of the above in the Globe must have felt like saying: "You might knock me down with a feather!" When did the Globe discover that "public ownership of railways, navigation and mines" is True Liberalism? Not in John V. Ellis's life time. And not since then until Dec. 11, A. D. 1919.

True Liberalism indeed!

Protection Does Not go to Battle, Protection Goes to War.

(Toronto Telegram)
North Ontario, by-election should be remembered as the first skirmish in the renewed battle of CANADIANISM AGAINST CONTINENTALISM. OF PROTECTION, not as a plunder but as a principle not for the manufacturer's sake but for the country's sake, AGAINST FREE TRADE.

The issue forced by Hon. B. C. Drury was not shirked by the protectionist farmers the townspeople and the villagers of North Ontario. The United Farmers have won a battle, but protectionists can say in the words of the Roman historian: "Rome does not go to battle, Rome goes to war."

Protection went to battle in North Ontario.

Free trade won the battle.

Protection will go to war in every constituency of Ontario.

Free trade will not win that way.

The Navy That Isn't

(Toronto Telegram)
The Laurier navy, if Sir Wilfrid Laurier had ever intended to transplant the navy into practice, was to reach a cost of $5,655,000 up to 1914. The three Canadian dreadnoughts that Laurier should have ordered in 1903, that Laurier would not permit Borden to order in 1912, would have given Jellicoe a surplus of battle cruisers to send upon the mission that carried 1,600 British sailors to their death in the obsolete Monmouth and Good Hope. The bid of the English naval reservists who went down fighting for Canada at the battle of Coronel is upon the heads of the architects of the sham Laurier navy and the shambled dreadnoughts as a grossly headed by the Toronto Star and Toronto Globe.

Union Government Feared

(Winnipeg Telegram)
It seems a self-willed obstinacy, to imply, as do certain sections of Farmers, that with such authoritative assistance as a Tariff Board at its command, the Union Government will not frame tariff legislation with the same fearlessness which has so singularly characterized it in the passing of its bills. If the Union Government have any one attribute more pronounced than another it is that of fearlessness through the war to the eternal credit of Canada. Nothing has prevented it from legislating with a single eye to the good of the country. It may not always have been legislated wisely. In the opinions of many, it has not always been right. Governments, like parliaments and people, are not infallible. Farmers may well claim that the Union Government has acted unwisely, with injustice, if you will, in connection with the control of wheat; but it acted fearlessly. And Farmers, whether they be bonded or free, cannot be so indifferent to the fact as to predict that the Union Government will not be equally fearless in legislating according to the light shed by the Government's own wheels. The real facts when it ventured to legislate in connection with the wheat. With the true facts before it there need be no such serious national or provincial commitment in respect to the framing of future tariffs.

Who Laughs Last.

(L'Espresso)
Sir Andre Macphail says Quebec is the last refuge of freedom on the continent. He overlooks Mexico where there are even fewer liquor restrictions.—Toronto Globe.

The Globe has thrown a small pebble into the anti-prohibition garden of Quebec. But it has chosen an inopportune moment since the time of its practical joking coincides with the publication by the Federal Bureau of Statistics with regard to the police convictions of the over-ardent disciples of Bacchus. And these official figures show that from April 1917 to May 1918, there were more drunkards in puritan Ontario than there were in Quebec. The attack of our confederate from Toronto also coincides with the statement made by the liquor dealers of Montreal that they cannot attempt to fill the orders for liquor that they receive from Toronto totally inadequate. "Come brother put a little wine in the strong water that you imbibe at Toronto and the style of your psalmody will be all the better for it."

Provincial Bonds

(Moncton Times)
What the Sackville paper says in regard to the Ontario bond issue may be true, and it is true also that brokers are offering the New Brunswick bonds to the public at the price stated. But the Sackville apologist missed the point at issue, or perhaps wishes to conceal it. The real point at issue is that the New Brunswick Government disposed of the bonds to brokers at a fraction over 98, and these brokers turn around and offer them to the public at about 98. The Government of New Brunswick pays,

Mrs. Johnson Now Is Ready To Talk

Her Recovery by Tanlac Is So Remarkable She Would Like to Tell Others.

"For the first time in eight years I am free from the terrible pains of rheumatism," said Mrs. Jeddiah Johnson, who resides at 26 Cabot Court, Halifax, Canada, in relating her remarkable experience with Tanlac. Continuing, she said:

"While for all these years, as I said before, I have never been free from suffering, for the past ten months the pains have been extremely bad, and at times I have wished I was dead, as it seemed impossible for me to get any relief. The rheumatism first started in my right hip joint and from there it spread all through my lower limbs. There seemed to be a catching pain in my hip joint and it became so stiff I could hardly walk, and every time I moved the pain was so intense it would nearly stop my breath. My knees were swollen twice their normal size and were so stiff it was impossible for me to bend them. My left leg from the knee down was swollen all out of shape and pained we terribly and every step I took hurt me so I would almost scream, and I could hardly bear my weight on that leg, and when I tried to walk I would just have to drag my feet along as it was impossible for me to lift them up. I finally got in such bad condition that from last January to May I never put my foot out of the house, and most of the time was unable to stand on my feet. All the time there was continual sharp, shooting pains through all my joints, and my feet and ankles were so badly swollen I could not lace my shoes, and the muscles in my legs just back of my knees felt like they were tied in knots. I could get but little sleep and many a night I would never close my eyes all night long, as that throbbing, jumping pain never let up for a single minute, day or night. I had scarcely any appetite and I had lost weight until I was so weak the least little exertion would completely exhaust me, and I was in a terribly run down and nervous condition. In fact the way I have suffered is simply beyond description and I was in such agony all the time, life was not worth living. I tried everything I could hear of in the way of treatments and medicines before I started taking Tanlac, and while I have only taken three bottles can say it is the first and only medicine of all I have taken in the past eight years that has helped me, and, in fact, it has done more for me than I ever expected any medicine could do, and the way I have improved has been simply wonderful. The terrible throbbing pain from which I was never free a minute is gone entirely. The swelling in my joints and limbs has all gone, and the stiffness is slowly but surely disappearing. I can use my limbs as good as I ever could and can walk without a particle of pain or discomfort. I can go up and downstairs now without any trouble, something that was absolutely impossible for me to do before I started taking Tanlac. I can sleep fine every night and my general health is all I could ask. With all this to express how thankful I am, but if any one cares to see me personally regarding my recovery I will be only too glad to tell them of what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co. and F. W. Munro under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Advt.
