Editor's Talk

THIS is practically a War Number. We have abandoned much of our usual makeup because in times like this there is really no news but war news. The cover drawing is by Fergus Kyle, and as this goes to press it seems to be peculiarly apropos of the situation. The number contains several illustrated articles dealing with various phases of the war not treated by the daily press. Norman Patterson deals with the strength of the British Navy. Another article gives the comparative statistics of the great military powers engaged in the present struggle. Augustus Bridle writes a descriptive article on the debarkation of Canadian troops from Quebec. Our cartoonist, Newton McConnell, focuses the situation up to date. Special war pictures of people and places concerned, a map of the war area, aeronautics in war, and other features reflecting the present extraordinary lines of interest in the world at large, and particularly in this country, go as far as it is possible to represent what is going on in the world of war without depending on the fragmentary contents of ten-minute extras from the daily press. And the Woman's Supplement is devoted largely to war, as it affects and is affected by women in this country; dealing especially with the activities of women in the response to the call for nursing volunteers—all illustrated by news photographs.

Kalamazoo Point Number Three

The Kalamazoo

- Loose Leaf Binder has a vice-like grip

note the vice-like jaws - one sheet or one thousand

The KALAMAZOO is a book, not a box. With a simple turn of the screw the clamping bars along the side grasp the edges of the sheets, holding them as securely as those in a bound book. :- :-

It is strong, quick, flat opening and easy of access. It will do everything that any other binder will do, and do them better, and it does not require to be padded with unnecessary paper in order to be workable. :-

Ask for Booklet C-1, and examine the binder thoroughly.

Blaisdell 7200 (Hard or Soft) indelible copying pencil has proved a positive sensation. Order by number from your stationer.
