was loaded, native fashion, with the produce for the bartering and carried the heavy weight of koulkou in a vine-string bag on her back suspended by a band around her forehead. By pantomime, pidgin talk and voluble assistance from his own boys, Roy tried to bargain; the native wanted a tomahawk and Roy hadn't one left to trade. The native, Mamba, turned away and his wife followed him and he was found unconscious, with anchor embedded firmly on rough bottom.

3rd vessel, H.M.S. "Old Mull," in charge of an LAC from "Bras D'Or," was completely successful in losing ballast, but was overcome with emotion; when last seen was bearing due east, a herring clenched firmly between his teeth, dragging a codfish head along behind him.

The path led past Bluey's nursery and as Mamba and his wife went by she flew out and protested loudly against the intrusion. Frighter by she flew out and protested loudly against the intrusion. Frightened, the native woman dropped her bag and screamed. Mamba struck her sharply, whereupon she recovered rapidly and hid her face.

The station volleyball team, under F/L J. R. Clark, has had its ups and downs. We defeated the 6th Field Ambulance, 3 games to 0, but "allowed" the Can. Dental Corps to take 2 out of 3 from us. With more practice, however, the Flyers should not experience any difficulty with local opposition.

Dance?

Why certainly! Every Monday evening at the Active Service Club and Canteen, 45 Toronto St., Barrie. Their live-wire committee have arranged to provide dancing partners and excellent music. Dance from 8.00 p.m.-11.00 p.m. No charge made.

The Station leagues got off to a fair start last week. Results of the various competitions are recorded place to go on your next 48, drop elsewhere. It is important that all into the "Y" office. We have a jar of alcohol. "To think that was once a part of me," he muttered reflectively.

The Medical Officer, for once, was sympathetic. He led our hero away gently by the hand from the ghastly sight and begged him to take a year's sick leave. But our hero was built of stern stuff. His path of patriotism lay before him—he was to become the father of a Canadian, and soon! Summoning up his remaining strength he beat a track to the hospital door. "You are just in time." the surgeon said. "take a seat." "But... but haven't lost a father yet!"

Gropingly, blindly, our hero swayed from wall to wall in the waiting room. His face was wan, his eyes were sunk in black halos, but he suffered mutely, bravely! "Oh look!" said the pretty nurse, dashing forward with noisy bundle, "nine and a half pounds, and it's a BOY!" Jolted out of his Gethsemane our hero saw the bright lights of beavers.

a half pounds, and it's a BOY!" Jolted out of his Gethsemane our hero saw the bright lights of heaven, then collapsed.

Later, resuscitated, among friends, with a large glass of sarsparilla and a bit of arrowroot in his hand, he told of his past agony. As the potent drink soothed him he sought our eyes. "Say!" he said, "if any of the fellows let you down for Thursday night's scrap at the R.C.O.C., do you think you could have MY boy ready in time?"

Congratulations, Cpl. and Mrs. Rorke. Long life and many
