

New York.
DEAR MR. MACDOUGALL:
You are to be congratulated on the first volume of Scots and Scots' Descendants in America, and I am sure the second volume will maintain the standard of excellence already established. I have found Volume I very interesting and useful.
Wishing you every success in your undertaking.
Sincerely yours,
A. B. HALLIDAY.

DEAR MR. MACDOUGALL:
The first volume of Scots and Scots' Descendants in America received. As a rule the Scotch do not need to "blow their own horn," and you have not done so, but I think you have done a real service in perpetuating in a brief space just how much the Scotch have done and are doing for America.
Yours very truly,
REV. C. G. VARDELL, D.D.
(President Flora Macdonald College.)

New York.
MY DEAR MR. MACDOUGALL:
I have received and read a copy of your charming book, entitled, Scots and Scots' Descendants in America. May I say frankly what I think of it? In its mechanical make up, it is a model of taste and skill. In its contents, it presents in condensed and attractive style a vast amount of valuable matter, both historical and biographical. The contents of any one of its FIVE PARTS could not be obtained elsewhere for the price of the whole volume.
Very truly yours,
DUNCAN J. McMILLAN.
(Secretary Sabbath Committee.)

The original settlers from whom sprang this notable citizenry came to America in two streams of migration, the one from Scotland direct, the other by way of Ulster. The record of their achievements as individuals, as well as the general course of their activity, is set forth in succinct fashion in this volume, which contains in addition to its account of the Scots in the United States, a summary of their history in Canada.

DEAR MR. MACDOUGALL:
I am very glad to know that Scots and Scots' Descendants in America is meeting with so much success. It is needless to say that I am delighted with it. I believe it is a book which should be in the possession of every Scot and Scot's descendant in America.
Very sincerely,
JOHN FINDLEY WALLACE.

MY DEAR MR. MACDOUGALL:
I received the book and was very much pleased with it. It has cost you a lot of hard work and study. It is a memorial which a man can hand down to his children. The price is reasonable. I take pleasure in handing you my check for fifty dollars.
Very truly yours,
JOHN A. MURRAY.

D. MACDOUGALL:
I have read the first volume of Scots and Scots' Descendants in America and I congratulate you on the excellence of the work. I hope the second volume will equal, because I do not believe it could excel the first. You must have spent an enormous amount of time and work, but the result is a brilliant success.
Yours very truly,
D. G. C. SINCLAIR.

MY DEAR MR. MACDOUGALL:
The book is something that reflects no end of credit on you. From the casual glance over it—all that I have had time to give it up to the present—it bears evidence of careful editing. The biography is beyond criticism and the binding superb. You have my heartiest congratulations on the splendid results obtained from your efforts, and best wishes for an early production of the second volume.
Yours sincerely,
THOMAS J. BLAIN.

SCOTS AND SCOTS' DESCENDANTS IN AMERICA

This is Volume I of a very interesting and valuable work on the contribution of Scotland to the life of America. It is elegantly printed and bound, and is profusely illustrated with portraits of many distinguished citizens of this country who are of Scotch origin. Such a work as this is of great and permanent value. It is a repository of facts, personal, genealogical and national, and will be increasingly valuable as years go by. Pride of ancestry is allowable and commendable, when it is an incentive to an earnest life. The writer has done well in preparing a volume which should be widely appreciated.—Herald and Presbyter, Cincinnati.

The demand for the second volume is urgent. Orders are coming in from booksellers, libraries and individuals, and it is requested that information, sketches and photographs be sent to us immediately, as it will be necessary to close as soon as possible.
