d by the

out in the ag whose aght him "Many a rould run once who a by Day-y twenty-s of the title-piece was enth page graphical

r in the oftly on a ed on the mount to

"It isn't
yself care tigher noen of the a chaste
to by Daylight. But, as I was saying, my friend had this book, and he'd extra-illustrated it. He had pictures from all parts of the world in it, and the book had grown from a volume of one hundred pages to four volumes of two hundred pages each."

"And it was stolen by a highly honorable friend, I suppose?" the Idiot interrupted.

"Yes, it was stolen—and my friend never knew by whom," said the Bibliomaniae.

"What?" eried the Idiot, in mock surprise.
"Did you never confess?"

It was fortunate for the Idiot that the buckwheat cakes were brought on at this moment. Had there not been some diversion of that kind, it is certain that the Bibliomaniae would have assaulted him.

"It is very kind of Mrs. Smithers, I think," said the School-Master, "to provide us with such delightful cakes as these free of charge."

"Yes," said the Idiot, helping himself to six cakes. "Very kind indeed, although I must say they are extremely economical from an architectural point of view—which is to say, they are rather fuller of pores than of buckwheat. I wonder why it is," he continued, possibly to avert the landlady's re-