POLITICAL MOTIVES CAUSED THE SHOOTING OF AUSTRIAN PREMIER

Grave Rioting in Vienna Follows Assassination of Count Stuerghk by a Socialist Editor, "The Liebknecht of Austria"

London, Oct. 22.—A wireless despatch from Rome reports that there were grave riots in Vienna following the assassination of Count Stuerghk, which the police were powerless to quell.

Vienna, Oct. 23, by way of Berlin.—The assassination of the Austrian Premier, Count Carl Stuerghk, on Saturday, was purely political, and was induced by his refusal to convene Parliament, according to the admission of Dr. Friedrich Adler, his assassin, shortly after his arrest.

Dr. Adler is an eccentric and super-radical Socialist, sometimes known as the "Liebknecht of Austria." He is editor of Der Kampf. At first he declined to reveal his motives, but after being locked up he broke down and declared the Premier's political policies had led him to do the deed.

Wounds Two Others

Dr. Adler's arrest was not accomplished without the wounding of two men who leaped at him after he had fired on Count Stuerghk. He discharged the two remaining chambers of his revolver at these men before Austrian and German officers, with drawn sabres, overpowered him. The wounded men who were injured slightly, are Baron Achrenthal, brother of the late Foreign Minister, and the head waiter of the Hotel Meissl und Schaud, in which the shooting occurred.

Emperor Francis Joseph was informed immediately of the death of the Premier and was affected deeply. A special meeting of the Austrian Cabinet was held during the afternoon. Special editions were issued in Vienna and Budapest the despatch adds, announcing the murder as "tremendous and sensational."

Eats Three Tables Away

Count Stuerghk arrived at the hotel at 1.30 o'clock. With him at luncheon were Baron Achrenthal; Count Toggenburg, Governor of the Tyrol; Herr Jacobson, a prominent Vienna musician, and an actor from the Court Theatre. At 2 o'clock a man unknown to the Premier arrived and took a seat three tables away. He ate luncheon and paid for the meal, but lingered at the table. Shortly after 3 he arose, advanced rapidly towards the Premier and fired three shots. The first missed. The next two struck the Premier in the head. Without a word Count Stuerghk fell back lifeless in his chair.

Baron Achrenthal sprang toward Adler. The head waiter ran up from behind the assassin and grasped the hand that held the revolver. Adler wrested his arm free and fired two shots. Baron Achrenthal was wounded in the foot. The waiter received only a superficial wound.

Seeing that the struggle was hopeless, Dr. Adler surrendered to the officers who crowded up on him, and gave up his revolver. Apparently he was the calmest man in the room. He gave his name without hesitation and added:

"If you please, gentlemen, I know perfectly well what I have done. I shall not resist arrest."

In reply to a question as to the reason for his act he said at first: "That I shall have to answer in court."

It was half an hour later that he admitted he had been actuated by political motives.

Physicians and high police and state officials reached the scene of the shooting within a few minutes, but found that the Premier was lifeless. News of the assassination spread like wildfire, and was received with indignation and sorrow.

The assassin, who is thirty-two years old, is a son of Dr. Victor Adler, a Reichsrath Deputy and a Socialist of mild type. By a strange coincidence the father was speaking before the Reichsrath in 1911 when Count Stuerghk was shot at six times by the Dalmatian Socialist Vakuse. On that occasion the Count was uninjured.

Politician for Years

Count Stuerghk has been a prominent figure in Austrian political affairs for years. He was Minister of Public Works in the Cabinet formed in 1909, at the retirement of which, in October of 1911, he was asked to form a new Ministry.

The Count was born in 1859 at Graz, was educated at the University of Graz, and entered the service of the State in 1881. He began his Parliamentary career on March 12, 1891, when he was elected to the Reichsrath. In 1894 he became a Ministerial Director in the department of which he afterwards became the head. In the interval he was out of office for a time, resigning after the fall of the Wendsch-Graetz Cabinet.

The Austrian House of Deputies has been closed since March, 1914, and, in accordance with the constitution, ought to be re-elected next spring. There have been constant demands for the re-opening of the House, which Premier Stuerghk consistently resisted, pleading that secession was imperative, and that national affairs had better be left to the Crown Ministers.

The papers here quote Engelbert Pernerstorfer, Vice-President of the lower House of the Austrian Chamber, who recently declared:

"Public opinion righteously demands the re-opening of Parliament. The administration of public affairs grows ever more difficult, and the exclusion of the Parliament and the press from administrative decisions encourages the insupportable feeling that we Austrians are no longer the subjects of our own Government, but have been handed over to the Hungarian Premier, Tisza."

"Modern Thinker's Rebellion."

Rome, Oct. 22.—Salvatore Barbiola, former Minister without portfolio, in The Messaggero characterizes the assassination of Premier Stuerghk as "a rebellion of the modern thinker against the feudal, militaristic and clerical organization of Austria." The impression made in Italy, he asserts, is heightened by the fact that the Premier's assassin is well known here as a literary man, particularly as a translator of Italian poetry.

Collegiate Wins Season's First Home Rugby Game

Thanks Largely to the Brilliant Playing of Art Kelly, Locals Defeat Guelph By Decisive Score of 19-0.

In large measure due to the splendid playing of Captain Ros Kelly was the 19-0 victory, which the Rugby team of the B. C. I. snatched from Guelph here on Saturday, annexing their first victory of the season, and a well earned one. Although a lighter aggregation than the locals, the visiting team put up a strenuous opposition, and only by the sterling ability of several of the home players, was the score maintained at it stood. A feature of the game, probably the factor, was Kelly's touchdown in the first quarter, which followed a ripple criss-cross play and a sensational run by the captain. Moffatt, the heaviest man on the local team, sustained a sprained ankle in the course of the game, and was compelled to retire.

The play was clean and orderly throughout, the game being one of the most interesting seen here in some time. Each team in the league has now one victory and one loss to its credit, and the standing remains practically as before. The line-up:—

Guelph—Flying wing, Graham; halves, Buckborough, Deagle, Kelly, Nunn; quarter, Purcell; wings, Whiteside, McLeod, Hilliard, Hipwell, Hartford, Martin; scrum, Zieman, Hignell, Weir.

Brantford—Flying wing, Hurley; halves, Buckborough, Deagle, Kelly, wings, Middlemiss, Truss, Littler, Moffatt, Kitchin, Baird; quarter, Runnings; scrum, Cooke, Smith, Boothe.

George Smith of Hamilton was referee.

Complaints Of Non-Delivery

Under ordinary circumstances the distribution of a Daily Newspaper is a big task, even with an organization trained for the purpose. When great numbers of new subscribers come all together, the difficulties become greater. The rush during the Great Prize Contest now on is an illustration.

At this time it will probably be impossible to avoid all mishaps and mistakes, although every precaution will be taken by the publishers to ensure the delivery of each number of the paper.

The publishers are determined not only to remedy any such mishaps and mistakes, and to reduce them to the lowest degree, but to spare no trouble or expense to prevent them in future.

With this end in view the publishers request subscribers to communicate every complaint regarding late or non-deliveries by letter, card or Phone 139.
