

FROM THE KOYUKUKR. Mathews There on June 1stLittle Work Done in That Country Since Last Fall.

ut little has been done in the Yukon country since last fall according to Mr. J. R. Mathews. who bettles on June 1st and joined Rock Island down the Yukon in capacity of chief engineer.

Mr. Mathews owns discovery claim Emma creek, a tributary of the Yukon, but did little more than prospect during the past winter. He will return next fall and spend the winter working his property. He is that Hammond creek, once reported very rich, was not worked at the past season, the pay having apparently petered out. No mining speak of was carried on last winter.

A good discovery was reported in the spring on the north fork of the Koyukuk.

Vermont creek, according to Mathews, is the best creek in the country and has yielded good returns when worked.

Nothing has ever been heard on the Yukon of Victor V. Lowry and Jack Burns who left Fort Yukon in Goldfoot early in the winter.

They are given up as having been taken to death somewhere on the life between the Dahl and Koyuk rivers.

F. X. Gowans, the meteoric young man who stole gold dust from a cabin in Goldfoot and was held in jail year awaiting trial but was never released, was turned out on the opening navigation. He drifted down the Yukon and on down the Yukon in small boat a sadder if not a repentant man.

Mathews estimates that 300 people enter the winter in the Koyukuk country. He confirms the story published here in March of the freezing death of a Frenchman from Vancouver, B.C., on the trail a short distance from Goldfoot. The man had gone out to bring in a moose and returning in the evening a search party was organized and the man and dead on his sled.

Puppy and Parrot

here's the lout who whistles shrilly (though he never keeps the tune). On the street car and the elevated train, and the bleacher fiend who wholly spoils your pleasant afternoon. By his yelling at the umpire—quite in vain, and the porcine theatregoer who dissects the play aloud.

While he crowds you over sideways in your seat, and the dolt who keeps his hands up on your shoulders, in a crowd.

And the ass who shouts to people on the street, and the bawling, blatant huckster who disturbs your beauty sleep— They are savages of note, I grant you that;

but the man who makes them all look insignificant and cheap.

Is the cad who keeps a puppy in his flat!

Yelp! bow-wow! Hear the mongrel yelp.

Yapping at a non-existent rat; there are villains "doing time" who are innocents in crime.

To the man who keeps a puppy in his flat!

There's the girl who murders Chopin and believes she has a voice.

And the chambermaid who wrangles with the cook, and the woman buying tickets, who can never reach a choice.

And the lady who desires to sell a book, and the chit who likes to call her mother down before a guest.

And the typist who talks "fellers" through the phone.

And the cackler who recites from Robert Browning "by request."

And the actress with the rasping nasal tone, and the shopgirl who is sure she is a lady in disguise.

And the flirt who thinks she's charming—though she's fat— They are worthy of a mention, but the fine who wins the prize.

Is the old maid with a parrot in her flat.

Squawk! squawk! screech-screech! Hear the demon scream.

Scolding an imaginary cat; only in the padded cell.

Can you find a parallel.

For the old maid with a parrot in her flat!

Stroller's Column.

When the Stroller heard yesterday that an election had been held in Fairbanks and that his former fellow-townsmen and friend, John P. O'Connor, had essayed to run as a candidate until he learned that being a subject of the king debarred him, it was not hard to imagine a speech which John probably delivered in the Aurora No. 9 during his short-lived candidacy. The speech was as follows:

"Oh say, boys, Of take the flure to tell ye's that O'm a candidate for the office of alderman in the growin' town of Fairbanks an' if ye's don't elect me O' want to say that ye's are a pack of chumps, ivy divil of ye's. An' right here O'll say that if a mon in the 'camp is willin' to bet O' won't be elected, O'll bet that the fun-colored horse ferinst 350 that O'll go in hands down. What'll ye's say if O' fill drink?"

Great applause followed the address and everybody took red liquor on the candidate. After several rounds had been quaffed and John had begun to feel sorry that he had not come out as a candidate for mayor, some fellow said to him:

"I thought you were a British subject."

"Sure, an' O' am," said John. "But wasn't O' a pieceman in Tacoma, an' wasn't O' a Yankee thin, an' ain't it an old saying 'Meet a Yankee, altho a Yankee'?"

Answer me that, th' bloody, distastin' ill-mint that ye's is, had cost till ye's fer meedim' wid somethin' ye's apt brains enuff till understand. Spilt out th' lashed drink ye's tuk on me or begory O'll shake it out ov ye's right on th' flure an' divil th' bit O' ever buy ye's another drink along as me name is John P. O'Connor."

There is war between the Sun push and fire hall No. 2 over a measly cat owned by the former which was removed from its sphere of uselessness by a mangy dog, the property of the latter. The Sun push insists that the ink-stained deceased was a "jewel" of sweetness and affection that to know was to love, cherish and protect. The push further insists that the dog owned at the fire hall is of low lineage and badly degenerated blood; that no trace of respectability can be found in it, that it is a thief and should be killed by every man who meets it.

On the other hand, the firemen insist that their dog sprung from illustrious ancestry and that none but the purest canine blood courses through its veins; that its habits are beyond reproach and that the dog, in reality, is the embodiment of integrity, honor and virtue. The firemen further assert that the deceased tabby was of no family standing; that none of its ancestors had ever been the spoiled pet of any of the local 400; that its name was unknown in the American Herd Book; that the Sun push gave it nothing to eat and that it was forced to subsist on ink, drink from the lye pot and occasionally snatch a mouthful of paste, that their dog, possessed of almost human intelligence and having been reared on the milk of human kindness, took pity on the dejected, moth-eaten feline and tore it asunder out of pure kindness of heart.

Owing to the strong feeling which has been engendered over this cat and dog affair the Stroller does not care to take sides. He is on good terms with the Sun push and desires to keep on good terms with the firemen for no man knoweth when he will, in a moment of absent-mindedness, put a lighted pipe in his pocket and require the services of the fire department. However, the Stroller will drop a few suggestions that he hopes will be accepted in the spirit in which they are given. If the Sun push will import the only kind of pet that a respectable newspaper ever keeps he will wire Yukon's representative in parliament requesting that on his next junking trip through the South he ship them an alligator. They have a good slough for it to range in and all the dogs in the Yukon could not rend a six foot saurian in twain. Besides, an alligator would lend an air of respectability to the Sun office.

The firemen should be ashamed to go to a private house where there are innocent children to even put out a fire so long as they persist in keeping a dog that has no more sense than to go snooping around a printing office in quest of anything to eat. In fact, if the firemen would not lick their platters so clean and would give the poor dog a chance, the mangy brute would not be compelled to snoop around other people's doors in quest of crumbs that fall from the rich man's table a la Lazarus.

Collectively the Stroller advises the Sun push and the firemen to shake off their cats and dogs, hold up their heads, quit drinking and be some body.

Anyway, it is better to have a cat than to have it crawl under the house where you can't reach it and die nine pining, moaning, spasmodic deaths and at length force you to take up a section of floor in order that the remains may be removed.

Dogs and cats are to a great extent fads and there are few people who are not fadists in one direction or another. Some people like from 8 to 12 cats around them. Many men have a whole pack of dogs while others, especially in Turkey, have a whole pack of wives. Some men run to kennels and others to harems. It depends on the whims of the fadist. At last reports the Sun's cat was still dead and the wolfish, snoring, feline deviator owned by the firemen still lived, breathed, moved and had its being.

The professional violinists of Dawson have cause to tremble lest they be consigned to the sleeping hollow of obscurity by one whose every stroke of the bow is a musical poem, a symphony in a minor.

It was in a first avenue jag store where they keep a piano and a player instead of one of those tuba horns that plays "Bill Bailey, won't you please Come Home Home." On top of the piano lay a violin and bow. Captain J. P. Lubrick of the Yukon ferry sauntered into the store. He lifted that ye's is, had cost till ye's fer meedim' wid somethin' ye's apt brains enuff till understand. Spilt out th' lashed drink ye's tuk on me or begory O'll shake it out ov ye's right on th' flure an' divil th' bit O' ever buy ye's another drink along as me name is John P. O'Connor."

It is an extreme rarity to find a performer who is so versatile that he can appear as well in comedy as tragedy or vice versa. Though his part last week was scarcely in the line of tragedy it was certainly not in the nature of a comedy role and Montgomery could almost have divided the honors with the star, and again this week he is one of the principal characters in the play. His impersonation of the old sailor is delicious, his makeup so far that of "John Home" that one is tempted to believe one the counterpart of the other, and his very walk at his first entrance and also throughout the entire play shows him to still be in possession of his sea legs, his lumbering gait reminding one of a crab plowing through a jelly good sea.

All the time that he has been in Dawson Montgomery has never appeared to a better advantage than he did last week and in this week the two roles being as different as day is from night.

The first act until toward the end is rather prosy, things not warming up until after the sousing of Bones in the river. Captain Midway of the good ship "Puffin" appears in the second act after an absence of ten months in a voyage in which his ship was lost and all hands reported to have gone to Davy Jones' locker. Believing her husband dead his widow has married again her second offense being Jones (Moran) an undertaker. The captain while in foreign seas has also committed an indiscretion, his gratitude toward a nurse who nursed him through the fever being so great that he married her, at least that is what he is told he did after his recovery. It so happens the nurse is black as coal and when the captain returns to his old home in London with No. 1, he persistently follows him. He learns also that his real wife presuming upon his death has married again and that is the plot of the play. The two husbands meet in the second act, though unknown to each other, and with Moran and Montgomery recopying the script of the stage the audience laughs until their sides ache. All ends well at the finish as the second marriage of the captain proves to have been merely a mock marriage.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The Pilot's Mistake
Quebec, June 15—The investigation into the grounding of the steamer Ithma near Sorel a few days ago, while en route to Montreal, was continued here this morning. The court of inquiry found that the casualty was due to Pilot O. Naud in attempting to pick up the buoy which marked the south side of the channel, starboard his helm to avoid a bateau which he supposed was on the north side of the channel, where as it was on the south side, and obscured from view the buoy he was looking for. Owing to this error of judgment the ship ran out of the channel and grounded before it was possible for the pilot to see his mistake.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

THEATRE
MELANGE"Turned Up" Being Presented This WeekMoran and Montgomery in Parts Excruciatingly Funny—Preparations for "Camille"

The second week of the Lillian Hall Company opened last night the company presenting a comedy made famous by Nat Goodwin entitled "Turned Up." While very laughable and extremely funny yet it must be remarked the company does not appear to do as great advantage in comedy as it does in drama. Moran and Montgomery made the play go and had it not been for them, it would have fallen flat. There is no star part for either Mr. Fanning or Miss Gale, though the characters they play are made the most possible of. Moran is funny, so excruciatingly funny that he has the people of the company laughing so hard half the time that they can't read their lines. From his first entrance to the final curtain there is not a dull moment when he is on the stage. His comedy is not spontaneous and his antics as Caraway Bones would make an amateur pause in his meditations and enjoy a hearty laugh.

It is an extreme rarity to find a performer who is so versatile that he can appear as well in comedy as tragedy or vice versa. Though his part last week was scarcely in the line of tragedy it was certainly not in the nature of a comedy role and Montgomery could almost have divided the honors with the star, and again this week he is one of the principal characters in the play. His impersonation of the old sailor is delicious, his makeup so far that of "John Home" that one is tempted to believe one the counterpart of the other, and his very walk at his first entrance and also throughout the entire play shows him to still be in possession of his sea legs, his lumbering gait reminding one of a crab plowing through a jelly good sea.

All the time that he has been in Dawson Montgomery has never appeared to a better advantage than he did last week and in this week the two roles being as different as day is from night.

The first act until toward the end is rather prosy, things not warming up until after the sousing of Bones in the river. Captain Midway of the good ship "Puffin" appears in the second act after an absence of ten months in a voyage in which his ship was lost and all hands reported to have gone to Davy Jones' locker. Believing her husband dead his widow has married again her second offense being Jones (Moran) an undertaker. The captain while in foreign seas has also committed an indiscretion, his gratitude toward a nurse who nursed him through the fever being so great that he married her, at least that is what he is told he did after his recovery. It so happens the nurse is black as coal and when the captain returns to his old home in London with No. 1, he persistently follows him. He learns also that his real wife presuming upon his death has married again and that is the plot of the play. The two husbands meet in the second act, though unknown to each other, and with Moran and Montgomery recopying the script of the stage the audience laughs until their sides ache. All ends well at the finish as the second marriage of the captain proves to have been merely a mock marriage.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

The court drew attention to the fact that Pilot Naud has had thirty-five years experience as a pilot, with a clean record, having taken over eleven hundred ships up and down the river, and he is the senior pilot on the route.

age. Mutual forgiveness between the captain and his wife is exchanged and Bones consoles himself with the dusky No. 2.

Mr. Fanning has a very simple, straight part and while he extracts out of it all there is in it there is really nothing to it. It is almost subsidiary as compared with the characters of Bones and the captain. The same is true of Mary Midway, the character taken by Miss Gale. There is little to be said and that calls for but little effort. The other female characters are of not much consequence. Miss Evelyn plays the dusky wife in black. Miss Chandon enacts the housekeeper who wants her time and does it far better than any character she has yet attempted. Miss Condon plays the captain's daughter and Miss Newman the daughter of the general. Mr. McDonald would be much more acceptable as the general if he would not rant so much. It seems incongruous Mr. Wilson's variety stunt might also be eliminated without the play suffering very materially.

In the announcement made by Mr. Fanning previous to the last act it was stated that next week a special production of "Camille" would be given with Mrs. Hall in the title role. It is a character that Mrs. Hall has given a great deal of study to and those who have seen her do not hesitate to praise her work very warmly. Mr. Butler will make his appearance as the father and Mr. Fanning as the impetuous lover. The well following Gillette's great military drama "Secret Service" will be given and next will be presented "Faust" in which Mr. Fanning will be seen as Mephistopheles the character made famous by Louis Morrison with whose company and whose understudy Mr. Fanning was for several years.

The following is the cast of "Turned Up" which will run during the entire week.

General Patton, in foreign service, Captain Midway of the "Puffin" George Midway, his son.

Ned Stridman, barrister. Frank H. Fanning. W. H. Morgan.

Caraway Bones, undertaker and general dealer. Chris Moran. Police constable Nibble.

Richard Clarke. Mary Midway, Midway's widow. Franklyn, Gale.

Sahna Midway, her daughter. Alice Condon. Ada Balth, the general's only daughter. Margaret L. Newman.

Miss Phyllis, George's housekeeper. Bessie Chandon. Tom Lobb, a wherryman. Kit Wilson. Captain Midway's second wife. Harriet Jocelyn.

Ephraim, Chepatra's nephew. B. J. Hamel.

Many Refugees
Sonia, June 13—Fully 1,000 Bulgarian refugees arrived in the Durkas district yesterday from Pirova, Kavatcha and neighboring villages. They report that a reign of terror exists in the village of Adrianople, Turkish territory, and Bashi-Bazouks are said to be pillaging the whole region, under the pretext of searching for arms and are arresting and maiming the dwellers in the countryside. The panic-stricken people are fleeing in a body, men, women and children taking with them their cattle, cattle and all their movable possessions. The refugees say, the population of whole villages farther from the frontier are following in their wake.

Job Printing at Nugget office. PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

PATTULLO & RIDLEY—Advocates. Notaries, Conveyancers, etc. Office Rooms, 5 and 6, O'Connell Bldg.

HAGEL & O'DELL, Barristers, &c. Offices, Lockett building, Queen St. next to Bank of B. N. A.

REPORTS OF THE CREEKSInteresting Doings Beyond the DomeSulphur, Gold Run and Lower Dominion Are All Very Busy.

Below Sulphur, June 29
Last week Joe Mac 23, below on Sulphur Creek was made happy by the arrival of his wife and children from their former home in Butte county, California.

Also a broad and homelike smile illuminated the ever pleasant countenance of James S. Rutherford, the energetic and efficient manager of the Sulphur branch of the N. A. T. & T. Co. for a few days ago Mrs. S. Rutherford and children arrived from Shoshone county, Washington.

Mrs. T. T. of No. 1 above, accompanied by her son, Robbie left on Wednesday last for their Seattle home. While a resident of Seattle Mrs. T. T. made many friends who will miss her pleasant and charming personality.

Mrs. Rutherford, the talented philanthropic actress, spoke to appreciative audiences last week on "Run and Lower Dominion." She returned to Sulphur on Wednesday and will take a well needed rest before pursuing her lecture tour on other creeks.

Mrs. Rutherford speaks in glowing terms of the work and hospitable treatment accorded her by the good people of Gold Run and Granville. She will visit these places on her next tour and give a presentation of her play, "A Minute's Campaign," which she has even with greater success than elsewhere in the past several weeks of this suburban tour. We propose for Mrs. Rutherford's tour and suggest an audience wherever she may deliver her splendid lectures.

Mrs. V. C. of the Brimstone roadhouse, No. 1 below, has sold out to Mr. Blackwood of No. 2 below. The house has been ten years as one of the best kept in the district. Mrs. V. C. has been very interested in the work of the N. A. T. & T. Co. and has been very helpful to the outside work of the company and its representatives.

On No. 1 below Mrs. V. C. has been a source of comfort and aid to all who are taking the tour on the creek. She is a day which average 30 cents.

WEEK COMMENCING
MONDAY, JUNE 29 AUDITORIUM

THE LILLIAN H. HALL STOCK COMPANY will present NAT GOODWIN'S Comedy Success.

"TURNED UP"

Popular price. Curtain rises 8 o'clock sharp.

Always Increasing

Our RENT COLLECTION continues to increase every day. The reason is self evident. You obtain a maximum result with a minimum of trouble.

STAUFA & PATTULLO, Real Estate, Mining and Financial Agents. N. C. Co. Office Building, Dawson.

TO RESTAURANTS, HOTELS, ROADHOUSES

And Large Buyers of Provisions:

It will pay you to get our prices. Don't let the little importer "fake" you into believing he will give you a "snap." There is no way that small importers can compete with our prices. "This is a fact." Call on us; we will prove it to you. NEW GOODS RECEIVED DAILY.

— N. A. T. & T. CO. —