BOERS GO NORTH.

Though President Kruger Still Sticks to the Railway.

Botha Claims to Have 15,000 Men of Whom 5,000 Will Fight to the Death.

Lorenzo Marques, Aug. 31.—The British prisoners at Nooit Gedacht have been released by the Boers, and are marching to join Lord Roberts' forces at Water-valhooven, near Machadodorp.

President Kruger and his chief officials are at Nel-pruit.

The attempted British enveloping movement at Machadodorp has apparently not succeeded. Gen. Botha has gone north with the Lydenburg road open. Gen. French is nearest to him, with better mounts than he had hitherto in the campaign, and there may be an exciting pursuit. The country is difficult, and fever is following the rain. Gen. Botha claims to have 15,000 men, of whom 5,000 will fight to the death. President Kruger is reported to be at Watervalhooven sticking to the railway.

The force of Gen. Baden-Powell and Hickman's Mounted Infantry are holding Warm Baths, 80 miles north of Pretoria. Gen. Ian Hamilton and Col. Mahon have arrived here with their troops. Col. Mahon had only two days' rest last month. He made many long marches, and took 12 prisoners a day on an average.

KNOCKED HIM OUT

Took Corbett but Five Rounds to Finish McCoy.

A Battle in Which Much Science was Displayed but Slugging Decided the Result.

New York Aug. 31.—The long-promised and long-looked-for meeting between James J. Corbett and Charles ("Kid") McCoy took place under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club at Madison Square Garden, and in less than five rounds Corbett proved himself to be the better man. Keen judges of the game who saw last night's fight declare that it was the clearest exhibition ever witnessed in the ring. Up to the moment that the men stepped into the squared circle opinions as to their respective ability were widely divergent. Many claimed, and rightly, too, that Corbett would prove to be the stronger, as well as the cleverer, and it was through his superb feinting and heavy slugging that he put McCoy down and out. McCoy's friends all along have claimed that he was equally as destructive with his hands, eyes and feet as the former champion, and in addition to this they said that the "Kid" could hit harder than Corbett. Last night, however, while McCoy landed some stinging jabs, he did not cut Corbett's skin, nor did he land a single heavy right hand blow during the contest. On the other hand, Corbett, when he dropped science and began to slug, landed hard rights and lefts, which simply took McCoy's guard away and when Corbett found a vulnerable spot on the region of McCoy's heart, two lefts, divided by a right, ended the battle.

In the opening round, McCoy showed up to much better advantage than did Corbett. McCoy seemed very confident, though careful, while Corbett was nervous and ill at ease. McCoy started out with his usual coolness, but Corbett landed some stinging jabs, he did not cut Corbett's skin, nor did he land a single heavy right hand blow during the contest. On the other hand, Corbett, when he dropped science and began to slug, landed hard rights and lefts, which simply took McCoy's guard away and when Corbett found a vulnerable spot on the region of McCoy's heart, two lefts, divided by a right, ended the battle.

on his feet, and his stopping and blocking were marvellous. Corbett got to the head towards the latter end of the second round, and McCoy jabbed his provoking left to Corbett's face. In the third they got to each other often, but it was in the fourth that Corbett began to take McCoy's measure. At times Corbett stopped his scientific work and resorted to slugging practices, which proved very effective. McCoy was forced to clinch, and it was then seen that Corbett was getting the upper hand. McCoy had to break ground frequently, and after the bell sent them to their corners both men looked fatigued. McCoy was very weary. In the fifth and concluding round Corbett forced McCoy into the former's corner, where the Kid kept blocking and snarling for an opening to get out. Corbett swung for the head, but McCoy ducked underneath it very cleverly and jumped to the centre of the ring. Jim rushed him across the floor of the ring, and by clever work forced McCoy back into the corner again, where he sent right and left to the Kid's head. This was the beginning of McCoy's undoing. Corbett went to him, using both hands, swinging and stabbing and occasionally upper cutting with the left. McCoy's defence availed him little against this onslaught, and Corbett soon had the Kid at his mercy. McCoy saw that he was no longer able to ward off the big fellow's blows, and threw his arms across his face, holding his head down in the hope of saving himself from a knock-out punch. Corbett relentlessly showered lefts and rights, which straightened McCoy up, and then Jim swung a left, which crashed into McCoy's body. McCoy doubled up, and in doing so held Corbett's left glove with his right arm. Corbett then drove McCoy away from him with a right over the heart, and as the Kid went back staggering, Jim went after him, landing another left smash in the same spot, and the Kid dropped to the floor. McCoy bravely tried to get up, but these three blows had taken all his strength away, and while he made frantic endeavors to get up, Charlie White counted off the ominous ten seconds. By an almost superhuman effort, McCoy stood up after he had been counted out, but he was dazed, and the referee had to push him towards his corner, where his seconds took McCoy in hand, inside of two minutes McCoy walked out of the ring, closely surrounded by his handlers. Meanwhile Corbett's friends had jumped in the ring, and surrounding the big fellow, showered congratulations upon him when he was announced the winner. The men battled for 60 per cent. of the gross receipts, which was to be divided—25 per cent. to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser. It is estimated that there were about 5,000 in the house, so that Corbett will get about $18,000 and McCoy about $6,000.
