JUDGE'S SALARIES.

It has often been said that the salary which is paid the judges of Canada is altogether out of keeping with the importance of a judgeship and with the ability which is required to fill the position satisfactorily, comments the London News.

There is much truth in the contention. Men who are competent to be entrusted with a judgeship, should be offered a salary in connection with the position which would constitute an incentive for them to accept instead of a deterrent.

On the other side of the line the judges in some of the states receive double and almost triple the salaries of the Canadian High Court judges. For instance, in New York city (Manhattan borough) there are twenty-four Supreme Court Justices, each of whom receives $17,500 a year. The Justices of the Supreme Court get $12,000, and the Surrogate, $15,000.

The way to get the best available men on the bench is to pay such a salary as will make it an object for the ablest and purest lawyers to give up the practice of law. It is unreasonable to suppose that men earning say $10,000 to $12,000 a year will throw up this income to accept $5,000 per year and a judgeship.

CONTINENTAL HATRED.

Count Sternberg, an Austrian who fought on behalf of the Boers, came back from that campaign with an admiring respect for the British, points out the St. Thomas Times. He seems himself to understand the word "straight," which he declares to be at the bottom of British institutions, though not even comprehended by any government in continental Europe. Being straightforward, he proclaims against all odds and against a good deal of rough handling at the hands of the British press, the conclusion he reached through his African experience, namely, that the British are noble in war. He goes further and declares the individual Briton to be amiable. This is, so far as the Count's opinion is worth, very relieving. Matthew Arnold, after studying the question of the dislike for Britain in surrounding countries, concluded that the Anglo-Saxon, though just and even beneficent to all men, was not amiable, and could therefore not hope to be liked. We have been strongly under the impression that a Teutonic lack of sensitiveness to the sentiments of others, combined in the Anglo-Saxon with an unconscious assumption of superiority, and especially of moral superiority, was a very leading cause of the marked phenomenon that England is everywhere hated. We are pleased, therefore, to find an unbiased foreigner who assures us that the Englishman personally is respected and loved.

Saying this, Count Sternberg finds himself still in need of an excuse for having gone out to bear arms against Great Britain, and this he finds in the fact that Britain is rightly to be hated because her policy is at all times directed to promoting Continental complications. This indictment might have been accepted by persons outside of diplomacy as the voice of a sage who knew, had it become public at any other time than the present, when one country after another is openly bewailing the absence, on account of the Boer war, of Britain's calming and balancing influence over the jealousies of the Continental nations. We have no doubt that when the Count recognizes this he will be equally "straight" in declaring it. In fact, in the somewhat contradictory statement of his utterances which has been telegraphed he goes on to do this by saying that since travelling in the United States he has come to believe that the Continental hatred for Britain is ungrateful, and that the Continent ought to awake and recognize its true enemy in the United States. Count Sternberg seems determined to have something to hate. Those who do so will generally fool themselves, as well as to injure those they dislike.

It cannot be denied, however, that as far as the commercial policies of Great Britain and the United States are concerned this critic's language is warranted. Two policies could not be more contrasted, the one the extreme of open and welcoming generosity, the other the extreme of antagonistic selfishness. But it is a great mistake to suppose that this narrowing policy of the United States is as mischievous to other countries as by those who are responsible for it it is assumed to be. The country chiefly injured by it is the United States itself. The real peril to the continent lies in the fact that the United States may discover her unwisdom and open her markets to the world. The growth of her commerce will then be such as has not yet been known. When that time comes the nations of the continent will realize the confining nature of their boundary lines and find themselves left entirely behind in the race. But even that will only be a comparative, and not a positive harm. On the contrary, the more anyone people flourishes the more all other people must flourish. The real spectre that overhangs the continent of Europe is Anglo-Saxon solidarity. It is this at which Count Sternberg seems to be aiming a puny arrow by writing as he does to the London Times. To the other peoples, indeed, it must necessarily look like a threatening cloud; but to the philosopher who can look at it apart from race aspirations it must be evident that it can only bring blessing, that is, that without bringing with it a superior order of things it cannot come about at all.

MR. SMIFF IS PERPLEXED.

Bobbygon Independent.

Walter Gordon, alias Trooper Gray, was arrested at Halifax as he was about to embark for Africa with the contingent that has just sailed. He is charged with the murder of two men on a farm near Boiesvain, Manitoba, two years ago. If Gray is Gordon, and Gordon is guilty of the charge against him, is there not a sad want of common sense in arresting him. Assuming that murder is his particular forte, was he not exactly the man for the work he had engaged to do in Africa? As a killer of Manitoba farmers he was specially qualified for the work of killing African ranchers. And yet the authorities have so little sense that they will put Manitoba to immense expense, in an endeavor to establish a charge that may prove fruitless. Would it not have been more sensible to have informed the commanding officer of the suspicion, and had him used for every dangerous commission available. The one man of those hired to kill farmers is to be put on trial, and will be hanged if he proves his efficiency. The ways of the army are inscrutable.

Every Exertion
a Task

There is failure of the strength to do and the power to endure; a feeling of weakness all over the body.

The vital functions are impaired, food does not nourish, and the whole system is run down. A medicine that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion, invigorates and tones is needed.

What Hood's Sarsaparilla did for John J. Patterson, Whitby, Ont., it will do for you. He took it as a tonic and general builder of the system, and writes: "I have found no other remedy to compare with it as a restorer of vitality. It drives away that tired feeling, quiets the nerves, and brings sweet refreshing sleep."

Hood's Sarsaparilla
 Promises to cure and keeps the promise. The earlier treatment begins the better—begin it today.

DESCENDS TO BATHOS.

Toronto Globe.

In his book, "With the Ophir Around the Empire," describing the royal tour, Mr. Maxwell, special correspondent of The London Standard, describes the arrival at Bathos as follows: "Our Lady of the Snows was mantled in darkness, and you saw not her white and beautiful face, but her cold breath, sweet with the scent of pines, fanned your cheek and sent the blood coursing through your veins. Once more I knew the wisdom that comes from experience, and returned for my overcoat." The Times thinks this rather descends to bathos.

HINTS FOR GIRLS

HOW TO PRESERVE HEALTH AND GOOD COLOR.

Pale, Sallow, or Anemic Girls Restored to the Bright Freshness of Youth by Natural Means—Good Health Within the Reach of All.

From The Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

Miss Maggie Brownlee, of Orangeville, is a young lady well known to the residents of the town and greatly esteemed by all her acquaintances. Like thousands of other young girls throughout Canada, Miss Brownlee fell a victim to anemia or watery blood, and for a time, as she says herself, feared she would never again enjoy robust health. Experiences like Miss Brownlee's cannot fail to be of benefit to other pale and anemic girls, and for this reason she kindly consented to give a statement to the Sun for publication. "My illness," said Miss Brownlee, "came on very gradually, and at first it merely seemed as though it was a feeling of depression and tiredness. I kept getting worse, however, and finally had to give up a number of my duties. At times I was troubled with a throbbing, racking headache, my appetite gave out; the least exertion tired me, and my heart would beat painfully. My limbs seemed to feel like weights, and at other times there was a sinking sensation which I can scarcely describe. I was treated by a good doctor, and took a number of remedies, but without any improvement in my condition, and I began to fear that I was doomed to be an invalid. One day a friend who called to see me spoke very highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and what she had gained by taking them. I bought a few boxes. I began taking them, and in the course of a few weeks there was no room to doubt that they were helping me. I continued taking the pills for a couple of months or more, when I felt as well and strong as ever I had been. It is about a year since I gave up taking the pills, and I have not since felt the need of any medicine. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a grand medicine, and should be taken by all pale and feeble girls."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich red blood with every dose taken, and the brightness and freshness of youth to pale and sallow cheeks. Through their action on the blood they cure such diseases as anemia, nervousness, headache, rheumatism, dyspepsia, St. Vitus' dance, heart troubles, diseases of the kidneys, etc. These pills also cure the ailments that make the lives of so many women a constant misery. Sold in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full name—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Can be procured from druggists, or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with a putrid sore throat and asthma for some ten years. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease. Asthma, and thought you had overpromised yourself, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment the trial acted like charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, New York, Jan. 3, 1901.

Drs. Taft Bros., Medicine Co., Gentlemen,—Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform, or ether. Very truly yours, Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler.

Avon Springs, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Drs. Taft Bros., Medicine Co., Gentlemen,—I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.
