LAST NIGHT'S FIRE.

The Old Legislative Building Burned.

Great Damage to the Books and Furniture.

SCENES IN AND ABOUT THE BUILDING DURING THE PROGRESS OF THE FIRE.

About 9:30 o'clock last evening, the Old Legislative Building was found to be on fire. Wreaths of thick black smoke, followed shortly afterwards by jets of struggling flame issued from the eastern side of the building in the vicinity of the central and largest obelisk. Desultory alarms were sounded from the Engine House on King Street, and from the City Hall, but it was fully an hour before people outside of those living in the vicinity, were aware of the existence of the fire.

As soon as the location of the fire was ascertained, the department turned out in quick pace. The companies in charge of the two engines have been doing duty month about, and as the responsibility came upon the "Silby" during February, she was dispatched to the scene of action and located on the river at the foot of St. John Street.

The hand engines were on hand early and did good service in materially checking the progress of the flames toward the main building, before the steamers had got fairly to work.

At 10:30 it was thought that the fire was entirely out, and the Chief was about to give orders for the removal of the engines, when as though by magic forked flames leaped through the roof and ran along the eastern eaves, and the "Amoskeag" was signalled and posted at the tank on the corner of George and St. John Sts. in charge of Engineer Todd.

Through the ready channel afforded by the gas pipes and the double sheathing, in a few minutes the flames held high carnival; their wild, fantastic splendor mingling with that of the moon in the zenith, shed a sort of dull, lurid glare over the busy scene, whilst about all enveloping all in its murky mantle, an obnoxious bank of smoke rested on building and spectators.

Then for the first time the fear arose that the main building was in danger. The furniture, etc., in the assembly room and other apartments was removed and piled out on the square, and the portraits fortunately were got out unscathed.

Members, Government and Opposition, who had during the week ransacked their brains for the wherewith to plunge their opponents into the "sloughs of dark derision," worked like Titans hand-in-hand for the preservation of their common effects.

Carpets were pulled up and pictures down, and lofty legislators of our province, with pants rolled up, leaped through pools of water in a most natural and undignified way. Book in hand, reporters dashed through corridors and appeared and reappeared at unexpected points, hobbled with everybody, got unqualifiedly snubbed by everyone and in general proclaimed themselves as a public nuisance.

Many valuable books were destroyed or otherwise lost, and a vast amount of documentary matter of a character useful to no one is missing, which proves that a protective corporation to assist in the systematic removal of furniture at fires is far more needed than a book and ladder company.
