of fashionable life at the time when they are solemnly to renounce the pomps and vanities of the world. And most sensible people will agree with him. When, as the Bishop says, people in abject poverty send their daughters to confirm-ation tricked cut in false pearls and other cheap gew-gaws, and when the daughters of the well-to-do come decked out in a ball-room costume, it is time to protest. In France the evil has gone very far, and many a poor peasant is plunged hopelessly into debt through the surchase of expensive confirmation outfits. A French fashion paper recently described the gowns worn by certain candidates for confirmation as extremely "coquettish." Fashion always debases religion; but when it thus materializes

the minds of the young, it is committing a criminal act.
