Star Movie To-Night.

SEE MISS MAJOR PLAY AND DANCE AT THE SAME TIME.

The popular Star has now settled down to its "regular stride" in the movie line, for having added Miss Major in addition to the high class run of pictures, it has in the language of the street "put the finishing touches" to their attractions.

For tonight it has popular EARLE WILLIAMS in a story of Central America in the days of revolution, which is regarded as one of the best that this actor has been seen in for some time. In it he plays the part of DICKY MALONE, a ne'er do well, who, when given the opportunity, becomes a General in the American Army. In Fort-tune's Mask, Williams is assisted by an all star cast, headed by PATSY RUTH MILLER. What is going to prove the hit of the evening, is the performance of MISS MAJOR. This talented artist has already "got the crowd." It has been said of a Newfoundlander audience that they are very hard to please, but when they are pleased they will show their appreciation. Well, Miss Major at her opening performance on Friday night, immediately won for herself the plaudits of the vast audience. They clapped and actually cheered for her, and Miss Major deserved all she got.

One of the audience rightly named her "THE GIRL WONDER." For tonight she will perform one of the most difficult parts of her work, she will dance and keep playing the violin at the same time. It is a piece of work never seen in this city, and will no doubt be a pleasing feature.

Jackson's time in the Halifax Herald Marathon race last fall, when he finished second behind the great MacAulay, was 56.07, which is the second best time ever made on this course in Halifax. The big race which will be staged in St. John's on December 4th in the Prince of Wales Rink is already attracting wide spread interest.

Celestials Have Narrow Escape.

BOILER EXPLODES IN RESTAURANT.

A catastrophe was narrowly averted in the Dominion Cafe at the hour of 9.40 last night, when a large boiler, which is used on the range in the kitchen at the rear of the restaurant, exploded and did considerable damage to the place. The top of the range was completely blown off, while the stove was shifted some feet from its actual foundation. A number of Celestials who were close by at the time had a very narrow escape, as pieces of iron scattered in all directions. Fearing a fire might ensue, a telephone message to the Central Fire Hall brought the companies to the scene. Their services, however, were not required. The Cafe closed down for the evening as a result of the occurrence.

Moulding Says it is His Family Medicine

"Tanlac has done my wife and myself so much good that we have made it our family medicine," says Prosser Moulding, 2313 17th St., Southwest, Calgary, Alberta.

"As for myself, I have been feeble about half sick for some time. My appetite was very poor, nothing tasted right, and what I did eat seemed to do me little good. Although I was working every day I never felt hungry and my energy and strength was slipping right away from me.

"Two or three years ago my wife was troubled somewhat the same way. She had no appetite, was all run down and very nervous. After taking a few bottles of Tanlac she was so improved that all the neighbours spoke about it.

"Knowing what Tanlac did for my wife I, of course, took it myself, and it has helped me just as it did her. I now eat three rousing meals a day and relish every bite and have an appetite that never fails me. The tired feeling is gone and my old strength and energy have come back to me. My wife and myself both think Tanlac is great."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

The Heroic Attitude of the M. P. W.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—That fierce and pugnacious little man, W. B. Jennings who inappropriately fills the position of Minister of Public Works, by accident, spreads himself over a portion of the Telegram on Saturday, and also gets considerable space in the columns of the Advocate in the former fishermen's thunder—in a most combative reply to two correspondents who made use of the privilege accorded them in your columns on Friday to refute certain statements made by this modern D'Artagnan in an earlier issue of the latter paper.

"Sneaks" and "Mongrels" are epithets which do certainly appeal to the diminutive Minister of Works, but it is in the using of the phrase "spliffs" that his otherwise pachydermatous hide is penetrated. But harken to the challenge put up by this Don Quixote, this would-be Coeur de Lion. He says if either or both the "sneaks" will call at his office—his office, good Lord—to-day between the hours of 1 and 3 o'clock he will tell us a few things. Poor deluded old chap! He could not tell anything only that he is saving his departmental salary for a rainy day, and living on the thousand dollars he receives as an occasional indemnity. And all out of a sweated population. "Craven hearts"—what a mighty expression—he says, need not shrink from meeting this Nebuchadnezzar, this Alexander the Great, this Judas Maccabeus, for he will be unarmed. Well now, just think! Here is a man who braves the terrors of invasion of his sacred precincts and even issues an invitation to two of us to call at the same hour. Gallant man! Heroic Minister! Brave M.H.A.! Who in the world would attempt to assault your puny self, excepting it might be patients from the Sanitarium to whom you refused to supply chicken—and you are not chicken hearted; your challenge reveals that—at the request of the physician in charge of that institution. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this courtesy.

Yours truly,
ONE FROM GREEN BAY.

Largest in World.
Since the Cadburys and Frys have joined forces, the joint business being managed by members of the Cadbury family, they are far and away the biggest cocoa manufacturers in the world.

LITTLE MARY.
The little girl from the top flat encountered the old bachelor who lived in the flat below.
"Can I come and play with your little girl, please?" she asked.
"Little girl?" he echoed, aghast.
"My dear, I have no little girl."
She was very surprised.
"Haven't you? Are you sure? Mother said the other day that the only thing you ever thought of was your little Mary!"

VERY DIFFERENT.

The man who had come down in the world slipped into the seedy restaurant and sat down in his unappetizing meal.

Presently he looked up and saw that the waiter was an old, business friend.

"Good heavens, Charlie!" he cried. "Have you come to this?"

Charles drew himself up haughtily. "I wait here, Bill," he replied coldly; "I don't lunch here."

TIT FOR TAT.

The village tailor only received occasional orders from the Vicar for such articles as hats, collars, or handkerchiefs. "You see," remarked the Reverend gentleman, one day, having called with his usual small order, "when I want a suit I go to London. They make them there."

Calling again a few weeks later, the Vicar remarked that he had not seen the tailor at church lately.

"No," replied the tailor, "when I want to hear a good sermon I go to London. They preach them there."

THE REASON.

"Good gracious, Molly," exclaimed mother, returning with her little girl from a children's party, "how terribly sticky your hands are!"

"Well yours would be, too, mummy, if you had two meringues and a chocolate éclair in your muff."
