The Response.

The Telegram had been but a few minutes on the street yesterday afternoon, when the first demand for two of the Children's Letters to Father Christmas was received, and others followed in quick succession. The response, needless to say, was not a surprise, for the generosity of our people is too well known to call for further comment. Nor do we consider any expression of thanks necessary. The knowledge that happiness will be brought into many a home by their generosity will, we feel certain, amply reward these friends of the children.

The Suspension

OF THE CANADIAN INSPECTION REGULATIONS ON FOOD EXPORTS.

The following message was received in the cable despatch today:

"OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 18. The regulations under the Meat and Canned Foods Act, which require that carcasses shall be inspected before being exported, have been suspended for three months, in relation to carcasses exported from Nova Scotia to Newfoundland and St. Pierre. The order states that representations have been made to the Department of Agriculture that in Nova Scotia there are quantities of cattle that cannot be marketed to advantage in the Dominion, but would find a ready market in Newfoundland and St. Pierre. As there are few establishments for the preparation of meat and meat food products inspected under the Act in Nova Scotia, the compliance with the inspection regulations on shipments to Newfoundland and St. Pierre would be difficult. At the end of three months, shipments of 'pressed meat' which have not been inspected will automatically cease."

The suspension of the regulations has been permitted, apparently, at the request of the Nova Scotia authorities, with the object of enabling the provincial farmers to dispose of meat unsuitable for the Canadian market in Newfoundland and St. Pierre!

There are aspects of this decision which will repay more thorough examination. Apart from the fact that it is intended to send to Newfoundland carcasses of meat that cannot be sold elsewhere, a statement that is most certainly offensive, the more serious side is that unwholesome meat may escape the watchful eye of our inspectors, however careful they are. Already we have drawn attention to the complaints made by the inspector of the amount of meat that has been landed in a condition which made it quite unfit for distribution, and why we should deliberately be made the dumping ground for such it is impossible to imagine.

This is a matter in which the last word must be said by the Newfoundland Government, and they should not be backward in indicating to the sister Dominion that we are not in the market for cast off products.

It is the easiest twenty dollars you'll ever get. Just send in your testimonial for THREE FLOWERS TALCUM. Write your honest, frank opinions of this talcum and send the letter, accompanied by an empty talcum tin to GERARD S. DOYLE, Dec 14/23.

Rotary to Help Father Christmas

At a meeting of the Rotary Club today, it was unanimously decided that the children's letters to Father Christmas to which the Telegram referred yesterday, should be taken over by them and endorsed. Such generosity as this is in keeping with the spirit of Rotary, and is the kind of practical way in which they show their sincerity in the great work in which they are engaged.

Accident at Hr. Grace

SEAMAN HAS ANKLE FRACTURED

Whilst engaged in discharging coal from the schr. Ria at Harbor Grace yesterday, one of the crew named James Walsh had his ankle fractured and his foot crushed. It appears that Walsh's clothes became entangled in the coils of a hoisting winch and before the engine could be stopped his leg was dragged into the machinery and he was rendered unconscious. Dr. Cron was called in attendance, and he ordered the injured man on to the hospital. Walsh was placed aboard the train and arrived here at 11 o'clock last night. This morning he was doing as well as could be expected at the hospital, though he is suffering much pain.

Seeks Fund to Finish Memorial

Nfld. CHAPLAIN TELLS OF REGIMENTS WAR DAYS.

Newfoundlanders in Boston were thrilled last night at the narrative of what the Newfoundland regiment, known as the "Blue Puttees," had done in the World War, related by its chaplain, Lieut.-Col. T. Nangle, of St. John's, Nfld., at the Municipal building, Brookline street and Shawmut avenue.

Raising Memorial.

Father Nangle is in Boston to collect funds for the erection of an appropriate memorial to the 1600 Newfoundlanders who fell in the war, at St. John's, on King's Beach, on the spot where the first white settlers in North America landed. The base has already been constructed and the completed monument, he said, will be unveiled by Field Marshal Earl Haig, commander-in-chief of the British forces in France on July 1.

The response from Boston Newfoundlanders exceeded his expectations. He sketched the history of the Newfoundland contingent from its first answer of the call in August, 1914, to its arrival at Gallipoli, where it was brigaded with Scotch, Irish and English contingents, and said that had Churchill's idea of co-operation between the army and navy been carried out the war would have ended in 1914.

The recital of the disaster that befell the contingent at the battle of the Somme, where in the morning 888 went into action and that night only 69 responded to the roll call, brought tears to the eyes of his hearers. Thrilling episodes, as where Colonel Forbes Robertson and eight men, cooks and barbers, held the line for nine hours, at the battle of Arras, and at Cambrai, where the regiment won the title of "Royal," were interspersed with humorous incidents. During his stay in Boston prior to going to France as a member of the Imperial Graves Commission, Father Nangle is the guest of the Boston Newfoundland Mutual Benefit Association.—Boston Post, Dec. 10.

Legal Point Raised

The matter of the Magistrate's jurisdiction in an interesting point raised in the Civil Court today in an action to the sum of $150 taken by Mrs. Duff against the Minister of Agriculture and Mines. The debt is alleged to be due in connection with the hire of a pasture field at Molloy's Lane. The field was hired by the previous Minister for the use of the stock at the Model Farm, and it is claimed that the stock again used the field this year. Summers K.C. for the Minister of Agriculture claimed that the court had no jurisdiction and that the usual form of petition or giving a months notice had not been given.

Mr. J. Higgins who represented the complainant submitted that he would take the matter into Supreme Court in the event of the point raised by Mr. Summers being upheld. The matter was adjourned sine die.

A Plea for the Horses

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir:—Please allow us space in your valuable paper to make a plea for the humane protection of horses. In doing so we are not asking the impossible, but merely for what we consider is due us as caretakers of these dumb animals. Judge Morris, in dealing with a cruelty case the other day, animatedly and strongly on the care, attention, and kindness, due horses, which he designated as our bread-earners. With all the Judge said we agree; but at the present time, we cabmen of the West End are put to serious inconvenience and our horses caused unnecessary and cruel suffering owing to the situation and condition of the West End stand. The stand, so called, is situated at the Eastern End of the General Post Office, in a space nothing more nor less than a puddle and particularly so under present weather conditions. In the event of snow followed by rain or sleet, our horses are subject to the droppings from the Post Office roof, and occasionally, when icicles break loose, they drop with force on the backs or heads of our horses; sometimes causing injury and always pain. Not only this, but any of our horses are likely to bolt any minute when so hit, cause accident to some citizen, injury to themselves, and loss to us.

In this weather the horses are always restless, which increases the danger of bolting, and we are obliged to stand by them all the time and give them occasional runs to keep them warm, when we should be soliciting patronage. The remedy is easy. All we ask is the Inspector General to permit us to park our horses and outfits as formerly, now that heavy traffic is practically over on Water Street. With the change we could give better attention to our horses and business, and the former would be removed from danger and sufferings. We from danger and sufferings.

Yours Truly,
WEST END CABMAN.
[We would add that the condition of the East End Stand is but little better.—Ed.]

Annual Social Methodist College

ASSOCIATE CLASS RENDER EXCELLENT PERFORMANCE.

The Associate Class of the Methodist College held its annual social in the College Hall last night, and a jolly time was spent. The guests included members of the Board, parents and friends of the pupils. A lengthy and enjoyable programme was rendered under the direction of J. C. Hogg.

The opening number was a piano-forte solo, nicely rendered by Marie Erikson, which was followed by the song "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" by the Associate girls, and popular selections by the College Jazz Band, under musical director H. Mott. Next was a sketch, "A Crawford Card Party," in which the parts were taken by Hilda White, Jean Horwood, Edna Baird, Queenie Hinton, Nancy Frost and Marjorie Morris; who acquitted themselves most creditably. Mr. Christian gave a musical selection in his inimitable style, and then followed two competitions. The first was the making of dresses out of paper, in which eight girls working in pairs, one as a designer and the other a model, competed. The winners were Queenie Hinton and Marjorie Morris. Miss Mackay acting as Judge. The boys' competition was the bursting of balloons and George Horwood and Jack Harrington were the winners. This was followed by a general song guessing competition, which was won by Miss Whiteley and Miss Horwood. The Carol, "While Shepherds Watch Their Flocks by Night," was nicely sung, after which there was an interval when refreshments were served, and a social chat enjoyed.

The programme was resumed with a display of magic by "Bill Joe Plot" (Jose Elliott), then the song, "I Would That My Love Could Silently Flow" by the girls, a recitation by Queenie Hinton, and a drama, "Number Two—the story of a misunderstanding between husband and wife, and the good offices of a friend. The parts were taken by Harry Mott, Florence Soper and Ted Dwyer, who did very well indeed. Chocolates were then distributed to the competition winners and the Jazz Band gave further selections, and the programme was concluded with the Newfoundland Ode and the National Anthem. The evening throughout was most enjoyable, and the event ranks with the best of the "At Homes" of the Associate Class.

Accident at Bell Island

GAS EXPLOSION INJURES FOUR MEN.

As a result of an explosion of gas in No. 6 mine at Bell Island, four men were badly burned about their faces and hands. The injured are Superintendents Thomas Gray and Edward Kent, foremen George Bugden and Edward Stowe. The accident occurred at 8 o'clock last evening whilst the men were in the mine selecting samples of ore for the British Empire Exhibition. Flames from a lamp which they were carrying in an attempt to have ignited gas in the room where they were working. The men made known their condition by telephone—there are phones all through the mines—and a rescue party quickly rushed them to the Company's surgery where Dr. Lynch was called in attendance of the four men. Superintendant Kent was the most seriously burned.

Convicted for Assault

A resident of Kelligrews appeared before court yesterday afternoon at the instance of the school teacher of that place charged with assault. The evidence showed that in the first place the school teacher punished a child named Tilley. Some days later the father of the child met the school teacher for the purpose of getting revenge, and beat him so much so that he had to get medical attendance. Tilley being convicted was fined $10 and bound over to keep the peace in the sum of $100 in himself, and one outside security for the same amount or in default 10 days imprisonment.

Magistrate's Court.

A laborer of Gilbert Street charged with being drunk and disorderly, and second, of doing damage to a motor car was convicted and fined $5 with the option of ten days imprisonment. He went down.

A sailor from the Red Cross steamer Silvia was arrested under warrant at the instance of Customs Detective Tobin, charged with smuggling goods into the city. The goods consisted of two fur coats valued at $100 and $40 respectively. Upon passing sentence the Judge took into consideration circumstances surrounding the man's home, and inflicted a minimum fine of $50 or in default one month's imprisonment. The captain paid the fine.

A laborer named Pierce arrested under warrant was charged with the larceny of two barrels of cod oil, the property of Ayre & Sons, but was not asked to plead. The Crown prosecutor gave notice that he was not ready to proceed with the hearing. In the meantime the prisoner was remanded to the penitentiary.

A case which attracted unusual interest in the court this morning was the charge preferred by Mr. Jonas Barter, Chief Agent S.P.C.A. against Dr. Rendell, Superintendent of the Sanatorium for Consumptives. The defendant was formally charged with that he did on the 5th December shoot at three dogs with the intention of wounding them. Mr. Browne acting for the Society of Prevention Cruelty to animals, entered a plea that the defendant shot at the dogs in question with the intent to wound and had left them in their wounded condition to die. Mr. W. E. Wood, K.C. representing the accused admitted the shooting but that he did not fire with the purpose of wounding and abandoning them to die.

Two witnesses of the Topsail Road named Willis Reid and Ingeman were heard on behalf of the Crown. The former stated that he had two Newfoundland pups destroyed. He discovered the dogs lying down about 25 yards inside of the Sanatorium fence. One had already perished and the other was dying. He discovered bullet holes in the bodies of both dogs. Reid stated in his evidence that Dr. Rendell admitted shooting the two dogs. He also told him that he did not shoot them with the intention to kill, and used .22 shot merely for the purpose of frightening them away. Mr. Ingeman, who lives about 100 yards from the Sanatorium, missed his dog on the morning of the 5th inst. The animal turned up a few hours previous, and was first noticed crawling into the stable. He could not tell at first whether the dog was wounded or poisoned, but on closer examination witness found a bullet hole across the kidneys. Mr. Barter came in and shot the dog the next day. It was a setter dog about 5 1/2 months old and valued at $45.00. The animal was half broken in and only on the barren twice. Before Dr. Rendell was sworn and examined Mr. Wood for the defence stated that the dogs were an annoyance. He, however, admitted to the shooting but entered a plea of "Not Guilty," under the Act, Sec. 1, subsection A.

Dr. Rendell gave a full statement to the court. He said in part: "Seven shots in all were fired. They were not fired with intent to kill. The distance was about 75 yards from the window in which I stood. It was evident that the fourth shot hit, for the dog went away howling. The fifth shot was fired near one of the other dogs, with the hope of frightening it away. 'I aimed and fired at his hind quarters, and it also went away yelping. A third dog also was hit.'"

In stating his reason for shooting he told the court that these dogs had caused him considerable annoyance, and that these dogs had done injury in two ways. First, to patients; secondly, to the Sanatorium property. The absolute rest which was so essential to patients had been greatly disturbed by these pests. I consulted the police authorities on the matter and I understood that it was on order to shoot any dogs that were a nuisance around the institution.

This closed the case, but judgment was reserved until to-morrow.
