Later, he could not have told the exact moment when his natural composure reasserted itself. By degrees he found that he was recovering his balance, and then he gave himself up to the full pleasure of Miss Wilton's society. As he thawed—Miss Wilton accounted thus for the change in his manners and it has no hear part how a

Wilton accounted thus for the change in his manner—so did she on her part show a corresponding friendliness. Two or three times during dinner she laughed very merrily, and he saw her beautiful teeth.

The hum of of talk grew a little louder with the courses. Lord Hurlingham was telling Lady Heron of the thrashing he had had as a boy for saying what he thought. His wife had exhausted the subject of classical must for the poor of Whitechapel, and was unfolding to her victim the great dangers of "this wave of socialism that is sweeping over us." FUN, FACTS AND FICTION.

Every man has in his own life follies to four Canadian people—for those families of our Canadian people—for those families who are about selecting a family physician. If you find a physician who gives more attention to "professional etiquette" than to the art of healing, pass him by at one. When you find a physician who has no confidence in any prescription or medicines but his own, shan him, he is not truly in this own mind treable enough; in his own future, evil enough, without the leng curious after the affairs of others.
