STREET CARS

COLLIDED

Serious Accident on Dundas Street Saturday Night.

Due to the Carelessness of a Street Railway Employee—A Green Hand—Ignored the Rules—Was Severely Injured.

The worst rear-end collision in the history of the London Street Railway Company occurred about 11 o'clock Saturday night near Waterloo street, on Dundas. The vestibule of one car and the rear platform of the other were completely wrecked and a motorman severely injured. Car 98, in charge of Motorman W. Sullivan and Conductor J. J. Watson, ran into car 56, manned by Conductor J. Cannon and Motorman E. Sowers. Both cars were en route to the barns, and car 56 had stopped to let off a passenger. The Motorman on the second car seemed oblivious to obstruction ahead, and the cars collided with great force. The vestibule of car 98 was flattened against the body of the car, and how Motorman Sullivan escaped alive is a marvel. He was painfully bruised about the left thigh, and his hands and face were cut. Conductor Watson was thrown against the car door, breaking the glass and cutting his hands. Conductor Cannon, on car 56, jumped just before the collision, and Motorman Sowers was not badly hurt. Detective Nickle and Mr. H. B. Elliot, who were on car 56, were thrown to the floor by the impact, but not injured. There were no passengers on car 98. Sullivan was taken to Superintendent Pottinger's residence nearby, then to Dr. Moore's office, and after his injuries were attended to driven to his home, 316 Grey street. He has been employed by the company two months. The controller of car 98 was completely destroyed.

THE JEWISH SYNAGOGUE

New Place of Worship Impressively Dedicated.

Rabbi Wittenberg, of Toronto, Conducted the Ceremony—Col. Leys and Other Speakers Present.

Yesterday was a red letter day for the Jewish population of London. It was marked by the formal opening and dedication of the handsome new synagogue on Richmond street, near Simcoe. The synagogue is a brick structure of the distinctive Jewish type of architecture. It has a seating capacity of about 200, and was completely filled during the interesting ceremony yesterday afternoon. Rev. Rabbi Wittenberg, of the Holy Blossom Temple, Toronto, conducted the services, assisted by Rabbi Phillips, of London.

At 2:30 p.m. the members of the congregation assembled at Heard's Hall, on Wellington street, where they have hitherto worshipped, and headed by Rabbi Wittenberg and Phillips, bearing the scrolls containing the law of Moses, marched in procession to the new synagogue. The congregation was seated, both men and women wearing their hats. The scrolls were then carried three times around the congregation by two members of the synagogue. Rabbi Wittenberg leading the way and repeating psalms and prayers in English and Hebrew. The scrolls were then placed in an ark, built in the wall, at the rear of the raised platform, over the door of which hung a heavy white curtain, ornamented with the double fringe, the Jewish symbol. Two lighted lamps were suspended from the ceiling, and three candles burned on the altar. Seated on the platform were Col. Leys, M.P.P., E. J. Parke, G. W. Armstrong, Rabbi Wittenberg, President M. Leff and Vice-President I. Levy. Col. Leys spoke briefly, congratulating the Jews of London on their handsome new synagogue. He hoped the building would soon be too small for them, and would be replaced by a larger one. The Jews of London were good citizens, and deserved prosperity. Mr. G. W. Armstrong was the next speaker. The Jews and Christians were brothers, he said. They worshipped the same God and had a common heritage in the grand old psalms of David, the sweet songs of Israel. Rabbi Wittenberg preached an eloquent sermon in English, in which he reviewed the history of the synagogue, which really embraced the history of the Jewish people. He cited many instances to show that the Jews had always been willing to sacrifice their lives, if need be, for their faith. The synagogue had been the force that had held Israel together through centuries of the most terrible persecution. In the middle ages, when the Jews of Europe had been shut up in the Ghettoes of the large cities, under the most degrading conditions, they alone of all the people of Europe retained principles of morality. The fact was due to the synagogue. Replying to the charge of cowardice frequently made against the Jews, he said that while the Jewish mission on earth was peace and not war, the Jews were always willing to fight for the country that granted them citizenship. He gave figures proving their readiness to enlist and their courage in battle, as shown by the recent great wars. The synagogue was a refutation to those who said the Jews did not intend to become permanent citizens. They were a loyal and industrious people, faithful to the country that gave them the privileges of citizenship. At the close of the service a meeting was held in the interest of the Zionist movement. Those comprising the synagogue committee are Messrs. Goldstick, Levy, Harris, Sarver and Schwartz. Services will be held in the new synagogue every Saturday. The congregation at present comprises about 35 families.

ONE WOMAN'S DEVOTION

Mrs. Rijnhart's Thrilling Story of Her Journey Through Tibet.

First Methodist Church Thronged With Eager Listeners—A Heroic Figure.

The First Methodist Church was crowded last evening by people from all parts of the city, who went to hear from Mrs. Dr. Susie Rijnhart's own lips the story of her terrible sufferings during her marvelous journey alone through the savage wilds of Tibet, and of her encounters with the still more savage inhabitants. Many persons, unable to obtain seats, stood patiently and listened with breathless interest to the thrilling recital of experiences little short of the miraculous.

Mrs. Rijnhart, who is a frail-looking little woman, bore the marks of the terrible hardships through which she had passed. She wore the picturesque native Tibetan costume, consisting of a cap and a long gown, extending to her feet and fastened with a girdle. She explained, when she began to speak, that by reason of her long sojourn there, Chinese was more familiar to her than English, and that she found some difficulty in using the latter language fluently. She said she was more at home in London than anywhere else save Tibet.

Then, simply, as one person might talk to another, she gave a brief description of Tibet and the people there, passing on to the story of the sojourn of her husband and herself on the borders of Tibet; how they won the love and confidence of the people; of the horrors of the Mohammedan rebellion, which raged around them, and in which 100,000 people were killed; of their long journey, accompanied, this time, by their baby boy, into the heart of the great closed land, where no foreigner had ever been allowed to pass. Then, with simple but stirring words, she told of the baby's death and the lonely grave among the snow-capped hills. But the supreme moment was reached when she told of the last time she saw her husband, when, after their horses had been stolen and their guides had deserted them, he started towards some flocks that could be seen grazing in the distance. He turned and waved his hand to her, called back something, she could not hear, was lost sight of behind a rock, and was never heard of again. Of the weary, weary journey alone back to civilization, during which she lived much of the time on uncooked barley meal, mixed with snow, and slept at night in the open, Mrs. Rijnhart said little. At no time did she dwell on her personal hardships and sufferings, and she attributed everything to the leading of a Divine Providence, and thanked God for even the child's lonely grave in Tibet. There was something pathetic and yet grandly heroic in the apostolic zeal of this one little woman, who feels that God has placed in her feeble hands the evangelization of a country of 6,000,000 people, who are hedged around with government and a religion bitterly hostile to Christian aggression.

A FARMER INDORSES Dr. Chase's Ointment

The Only Guaranteed Cure For ITCHING PILES.

Mr. James McBurney, farmer and veterinary surgeon, of Embro, Oxford county, states:

"I was troubled with itching piles, and after riding they would get very sore, and bleed, so much so that I was in terrible pain. For nine years I endured this torture, and can safely say that I have tried every remedy one could mention."

Hearing of Dr. Chase's Ointment and knowing of the exceptional merit of the doctor's recipe book, I decided to try the ointment. To my surprise I was cured by one box, and have never been troubled since, though that was two years ago. I am strong and well, and always recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to everyone troubled with piles. It is worth its weight in gold and well known all through the country."

Such evidence from a prominent farmer of West Zorra is incontrovertible. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
